SMALL DEFIES COURT POWER

HOUSE PASSES TARIFF ACT BY 287 TO 127 VOTE

American Valuation Section Retained.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—With finished lumber, hides, leather, shoes, oil, and cotton on the free list, the dye embargo knocked out but the American valuation provision retained, the Fordney tariff bill was passed by the house today by a vote of 287 to 127.

Seven Republicans voted against the bill and seven Democrats voted for it. The seven Republicans were Representatives Beck, Lampert, Voigt, and John M. Nelson of Wisconsin, Sinclair of North Dakota, and Gahn and Knight of Ohio. The seven Democrats were Representatives Dupre, Favrot, Lazaro, and Martin of Louisiana, Lea and Raker of California, and Campbell of Pennsylvania.

Bill Goes to Senate.

The bill now goes to the senate. The house ways and means committee is to begin drafting revised tax legislation at once, and if the house should send the tax bill to the senate before the tariff bill reaches the senate floor it is likely that tariff legislation would be suspended in the senate long enough to permit passage of the tax bill without delay.

The house today reversed the committee of the whole on three important amendments, those relating to the dye embargo, free hides, and free cotton.

The house, by a vote of 209 to 193, adopted the amendment of Representative Frear of Wisconsin striking out the sections which give the tariff commission authority to impose for three years an embargo against foreign dyes such as are manufactured in this country. The committee of the whole last week rejected the Frear amendment by a close vote.

Hides Back on Free List.

Hides were restored to the free list. The amendment approved previously by the committee of the whole imposing a duty of 15 per cent on hides met defeat by a vote of 174 to 239. This was the result of yesterday's refusal of the committee of the whole to approve compensatory duties on leather and shoes. Failure of the western advocates of a duty on hides to support the compensatory duties caused them to lose what they had gained for themselves.

Long staple cotton also went back to the free list for the same reason as hides. The house voted down an amendment placing a duty of 15 per cent ad valorem on long staple cotton by a vote of 198 to 217.

The remaining amendments, totaling nearly 200 which were adopted by the committee of the whole upon the recommendation of the ways and means committee, were approved by the house en bloc by a vote of 289 to 129.

Retain Valuation Section.

Previous to the final roll call, Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democrat on the ways and means committee, presented a motion to recommit with instructions to strike out the American valuation section and the provisions giving the President power to make reciprocal arrangements with other countries. This motion met defeat by a vote of 127 to 289, the lineup being practically the same as on the final vote.

The motion to recommit furnished the only opportunity which the house has had to act on the question of American valuation. The vote, however, failed to show any desertions from Republican ranks. During the debate earlier in the day, Representative Sabath of Illinois, Democrat, declared that he had received many protests from Chicago merchants against the proposition.

Fordney Sees Prosperity.

Representative Fordney, in a speech as the committee of the whole ended its session, declared that in his judgment the measure would "greatly aid in bringing prosperity to American capital and labor."

Democratic Floor Leader Garrett, in a statement issued following the passage of the bill, described it as a "monstrosity."

"There were just five opportunities afforded Democrats to win, and they won all five," said Mr. Garrett. "If the bill had been opened up for amendment under the general rules of the house there is no telling what would have happened to it. When I say five opportunities, I mean in the house itself.

"Of course we had a few chances in committee of the whole. There we defeated the increase of duties upon leather and boots and shoes, and upon cotton manufacturers."

CORONER STARTS TRIPLE INQUIRY IN 'DEATH MYSTERY'

Gets Hint of Secrecy in Kolze Demise.

A telephoned hint to Coroner Peter Hoffman yesterday that not everything concerning the death of Fred Kolze of Schiller Park had been explained caused the coroner to begin an investigation and to make a post-mortem.

The investigation will go into the deaths of Kolze's wife and the husband of his housekeeper, Mrs. Frieda Denner, though relatives and friends of Kolze state there was nothing irregular in the death of any of the three.

Kolze was the grandson of the founder of Kolze, Ill., Kolze park, and Kolze's grove. He owned much land to the west of Irving Park and lived in the old Kolze homestead on the Old Mill road.

Chemist Making Examination.

Coroner's Physician H. G. W. Reinhardt has taken the vital organs from the body and an examination is being made by the coroner's chemist.

Coroner Hoffman's informant stated there had been a love affair between Kolze and Mrs. Denner, but this is hotly denied.

It is denied by Louis Kolze, brother of Fred, who said he shared his room with him every night from April 1 until he became ill; by Louis Kolze Jr., adopted by Fred Kolze, and a resident of the house for fifteen years; by his wife, who is Mrs. Denner's daughter, Agnes, and by Edna Denner, another daughter, who also lives in the "Old Mill" house.

"As I get the story," the coroner said, "John Denner and his wife rented the upper part of the Kolze homestead. Kolze and Mrs. Denner became close friends. Her husband objected to this friendship, and there were quarrels. Then Mrs. Kolze died. It seems the attending physician found nothing unusual in her death.

Report Quarrel Over Girl.

Mrs. Denner looked after Kolze's wants and kept his apartment in order. This led to more quarreling. Denner told Kolze to keep away from Mrs. Denner.

"Then Denner died. That was about a year ago. Nothing seems to be unusual in this death either. Mrs. Denner became Kolze's housekeeper.

"A few months ago it was learned that Kolze had a sweetheart in Franklin Park. Her name I do not know. I understand he told friends he had quarreled with Mrs. Denner over this girl.

"Two weeks ago he was stricken, apparently with pneumonia, which is unusual at this season."

"I am also making an investigation," said Robert Cannel, chief of police in Leyden township, "and I have two persons under surveillance. I will take no action, however, pending examination of the viscera."

Relatives Deny Irregularity.

Relatives say Mrs. Kolze died eight years ago, when a son was born, and that Denner was taken ill after cutting hay on a hot day and drinking heavily of ice water.

"To say there was anything wrong between my brother and Mrs. Denner is ridiculous," said Louis Kolze. "If such had been the case it would have been impossible for them to conceal it, with so many of us in the house."

Dr. George Meyers of Des Plaines, who treated Kolze for some time, said death was caused by a complication of rupture of the gall bladder, an intestinal trouble, and an infection of the lungs.

Dr. C. E. Fryberg of Franklin Park declared the trouble was in the intestines. He had been called in by Motorcycle Policeman Frank Schalkowsky, a friend of Kolze.

"It was not for lack of faith in Dr. Meyers that I called Dr. Fryberg," said Schalkowsky, "but rather for a consultation. I do not believe there is anything concealed in my friend's death."

With the dawn they found more secure footing on the roof of a floating house.

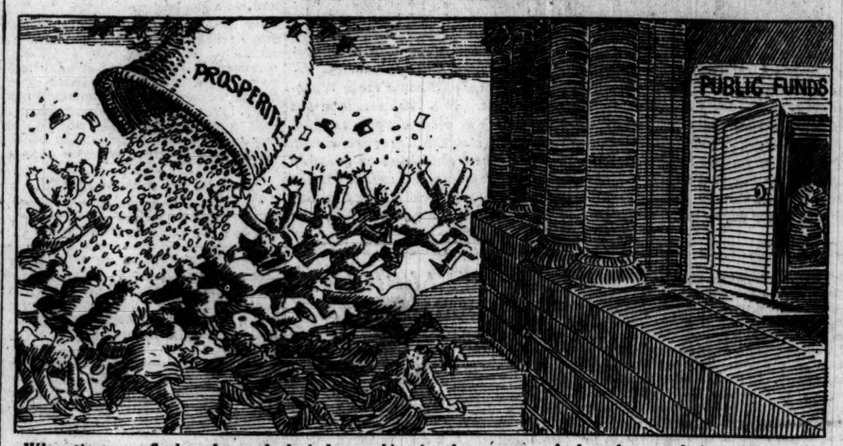
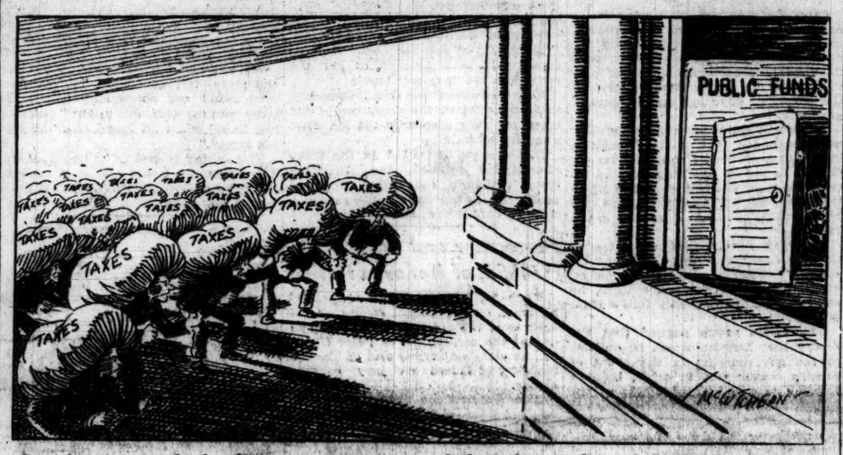
INTEREST IN PUBLIC FUNDS

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]



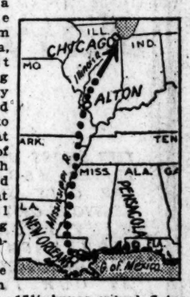
When times are flush and everybody is busy raking in the money nobody takes much interest in what happens to the Public Funds.



But when times are hard and taxes are oppressive everybody is interested in what's happening to the Public Funds.

PENSACOLA-CHICAGO IN 171-2 HOURS, FEAT OF NAVAL AVIATOR

Lieut. R. P. Applegate, U. S. N., of Chicago and J. T. Milliken of St. Louis completed a seaplane flight from Pensacola, Fla., last evening when they skimmed the water to a landing at the foot of Randolph street and moored at the naval training ship Commodore.



"We made the trip from Pensacola in 17½ hours actual flying time," said Lieut. Applegate. "Our course led across the gulf to New Orleans, where we stopped five days. On the last lap of the flight we flew along the Illinois river from Alton."

Minor repairs occasioned the stop at New Orleans.

COURT COURTESY DELAYS KILLING OF HIGHWAYMEN

EPINAL, France, July 21.—Antoine Savin, first man, since the middle ages, sentenced to death in France for highway robbery with violence and attempted murder, has had a stay of execution granted by the Court of Appeals.

Savin in 1919 assaulted an American soldier, George Goldham, leaving him for dead on the high road after rifling his pockets. Although the victim recovered the death penalty was imposed.

In pronouncing sentence the judge specified that Savin would be guillotined in the largest square in Epinal, but the Court of Appeals has ruled that the judge exceeded his authority, as, while he had the right to designate the city where the execution was to take place, he could not name the exact spot.

Savin, the Court of Appeals has decided, must die, but the public square where his execution is to be carried out, must be designated by the mayor.

Struggles Four Days in Abandoned Cistern; Saved

Kansas City, Mo., July 21.—For four days Roy McMillen, 29, struggled at the bottom of an abandoned cistern just outside of the business district here in an attempt to escape. He was rescued early today in a dazed, starved, delirious condition, following his discovery by two Negro boys. At a hospital McMillen said he was on his way home last Saturday night when he fell into the cistern, twenty-two feet deep.

D'ANDREA FRIEND IS SHOT TO DEATH

Bullets Fired Into Back as He Sits in Auto.

Andrew Orlando, 30 years old, of 1648 West Ohio street, a barber and a friend of "Tony" D'Andrea, Nineteenth ward politician, who was murdered not long ago, was found shot to death in his automobile shortly after 11 o'clock last night at 103d and Peoria streets.

It was in the same manner assassins killed Joseph Laspisa, friend and bodyguard of D'Andrea, on June 26, in the "Little Sicily" district on the north side.

The police believe he may have been a bootlegger. Another bootlegger, "Big Steve" Wisniewsky, was found slain by the roadside six miles from Libertyville Monday night.

May Be Ward War Revival.

Police of the Kensington station also are working on the theory the slayers are so called "blackhanders" or that the shooting is the latest development in the Italian warfare in the Nineteenth ward.

Royal W. Dixon, 545 West 103d street, a storekeeper, was walking west on 103d street and at Peoria street noticed two automobiles a short distance west of the corner. Orlando's car was facing east and a "chummy roadster" was facing west. At the moment he noticed the cars, he said, he heard six or eight shots fired, then four or five men sprang from the rear seat of Orlando's car, entered the other machine and sped west.

Find Shells in Auto.

The police learned the identity of the victim through his automobile identification card. When they searched the bottom of the automobile they found a wagon wheel spoke and several cartridge shells that had been ejected from automatic pistols. At the time of the killing of D'Andrea, the police found a similar spoke in the car.

The two slain Italians were warm friends and the police place some weight on the theory that the murder of Orlando is the latest development in the ward war which has cost the lives of several men. Other detectives think Orlando had saved considerable money and when he failed to "contribute" to the blackmailers, was lured to the south side and shot to death.

The body was removed to Doty's undertaking rooms, 214 East 115th street, where an inquest will be opened today.

EIGHT ARE DROWNED WHEN AN UNDERTOW TRAPS 16 BATHERS

Houston, Tex., July 21.—[Special.]—Eight prominent Baptist church workers attending the Baptist Young People's union state encampment at Palacios, Tex., were caught in the undertow of the Gulf of Mexico while bathing on the beach twenty-two miles from Palacios this afternoon and drowned. Three others caught in the undertow were heroically rescued.

Miss Mildred Caldwell, who was saved by her brother, John Caldwell, is the daughter of C. M. Caldwell, Texas oil millionaire, of Breckenridge, reputed to be worth $35,000,000.

John Price, Palacios.
Drue Crombro, Breckenridge.
Grace Courtney, Breckenridge.
Mrs. B. Mayes, Breckenridge.
Miss V. I. Buster, Breckenridge.
Miss Iona Hodges, Breckenridge.
James E. Dykes, Breckenridge.
Archer Bryant, Abilene.

Sixteen of a party of thirty-one who were on a sailboat excursion on Matagorda bay went bathing off the mouth of Green's bayou. Five of the bathers stayed near the boat, but the other eleven got farther out and were caught in the undertow.

When the cry for help was raised young Caldwell and Adam Garney, also of Breckenridge, Tex., plunged into the water and swam to those drowning. Young Caldwell rescued his sister, while Garney pulled out Miss Mary Morgan and another young woman whose name was not learned.

The young people were among 3,000 delegates attending the state encampment.

ALL OF HER GEMS STOLEN, WOMAN TO BUY NO MORE

Mrs. Nellie May Moore, 5555 Hyde Park boulevard, last night served notice on the burglars that all her jewelry is gone, and that they needn't come back for any more.

She was awakened about 3:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, she said.

"I lay there watching the thing taking my jewelry," she said, "When it took my money and shoved the change into a pocket I knew it was a man. I screamed twice.

"My 14 year old son Tom and Mrs. Marie Sales, who occupies these rooms with me, came running in. But the burglar had gone with $60 and jewelry worth $3,000. Most of the jewels are antiques, including a neck chain once owned by Jefferson Davis.

"I lost the rest of my jewelry to sneak thieves on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse some years ago. I'm not going to buy any more."

SALE OF SERIES PLAYERS' IDEA, BURNS ASSERTS

Says Cicotte Made First Overture.

In the most startling testimony yet entered in the records of the "Black Sox" trial, Bill Burns, former big leaguer and star witness for the state, yesterday asserted that ball players and not the gamblers were responsible for the idea of throwing the 1919 world's series.

While jurors and spectators leaned forward eagerly in an effort to catch his words he told in a low voice how Eddie Cicotte, former White Sox idol, and "Chick" Gandil had come to him in New York with a proposition to sell the baseball classic for $100,000.

It was the severest blow dealt the defense since the trial opened Monday. Attorneys for the state, jubilant at their victory, declared they would make a determined effort today to have the confessions of Joe Jackson, "Lefty" Williams, and Cicotte read to the jury.

State Near Close of Case.

This, with the testimony of John Seys, secretary of the Cubs, who is scheduled to appear, will virtually finish the state's case for this week. Seys is expected to tell of a transaction where Abe Attel collected a bet of about $1,000 in Chicago after the second game.

Burns' testimony was given after Judge Friend had ruled that conversations held in New York by Cicotte, Gandil, Burns, and Attel before the series opened were admissible.

Twice previously he had ruled temporarily that the evidence be excluded. Yesterday, however, after Prosecutor Gorman had established a conspiracy by Burns' testimony he asked that New York evidence be received. This precipitated a bitter legal battle but it finally was agreed that the testimony should be entered but should be limited to conversations of defendants actually taking part.

Cicotte and Gandil were thus made to bear the brunt for the other players, who, the state contends, commissioned them to throw the series.

Two New Players Named.

In the course of his testimony Burns mentioned the names of two ball players who have not previously been included in the lineup at the trial, Jean Dubuc, formerly a pitcher for the Detroit Americans, and Fred Toney, now pitching for the New York Nationals. Their connection with the case was not disclosed.

When Burns resumed the stand for redirect examination, the bailiffs had to fight to keep the fans in their seats. Burns himself, who had undergone two days of furious cross-examination, was the coolest person in the room.

Attorney Gorman conducted the examination.

Q.—Mr. Burns, I am going to question you concerning certain meetings you attended at the Hotel Ansonia in New York City a few weeks before the world's series. You are to name only the persons actually present at the conference. Under no circumstances will you repeat the names of other persons whose names may have been mentioned. When did you meet Cicotte in New York prior to the world's series of 1919. A.—On Sept. 16.

Birth of the Plot.

Q.—What did he say? A.—He said that the Sox would win the pennant and that he had something good for me.

Q.—Did he tell you what that something good was? A.—No.

Q.—When did you next meet him? A.—On the 18th.

Q.—Who was present? A.—Cicotte and Gandil.

Q.—Was anything said? A.—Yes, Gandil said: "If I could get $100,000 I would throw the world's series."

Q.—Who else was present? A.—Maharg.

Q.—What did you say? A.—I said I would see what I could do.

Q.—Was anything else said? A.—Well, Gandil said they would sure throw the series if they won the pennant.

Q.—How soon after that conversation did you meet Arnold Rothstein? A.—About a week.

Q.—After that talk who did you first meet? A.—Attel, Bennett, and Chase. (Bennett has been identified as Davis Zelser, an alleged Des Moines gambler. Chase is Hal Chase, ball player.) player.)

Denies Identification.

Attorney Max Lusker objected heatedly to the entrance of Bennett's name in the record. "Bennett is not in the court room," he said. "We will show

$4,500,000 Is Given Charity by Wieboldts

One of the largest individual gifts to charity ever made in Chicago became known yesterday when William A. Wieboldt, department store owner, transferred fourteen pieces of real estate to the Chicago Charitable corporation, establishing that company with a $4,500,000 fund, which will yearly contribute thousands of dollars to Chicago charities.

The Chicago Charitable corporation was incorporated on June 25 last by Werner A. Wieboldt, son of the merchant; Kirk W. Starr, and B. J. Schwindt, officials in Mr. Wieboldt's stores. It was created for the express purpose of administering for the sole benefit of charity the income from the properties deeded to it by Mr. and Mrs. Wieboldt.

Some of Properties.

The properties consist of the real estate transferred yesterday, together with preferred stocks of W. A. Wieboldt & Co., bank stocks and bonds. Among the pieces of real estate are the Lincoln Theater building, Lincoln and Ashland avenues; Ascher's Crown theater building, Division and Ashland avenue, and the Palatine building, Milwaukee avenue and Paulina street.

The directors of the corporation are Werner A. Wieboldt, Elmer F. Wieboldt, and Roy C. Wieboldt, sons of the merchant; Herbert Sleck and Walter A. Straub.

No particular branch of charity is to benefit by the gifts of the corporation, but the merits of each one applying for aid will be passed upon by the board of directors, it was stated. Beside administering the properties received from Mr. and Mrs. Wieboldt, the corporation is authorized to accept and administer gifts from other persons.

Directors Are Reticent.

Reluctance was shown by directors of the corporation to discuss the gifts of Mr. and Mrs. Wieboldt, although the gifts were said to constitute the major part of their property.

"Our father is past his prime and feels himself growing old," said Werner Wieboldt. "He wished to organize a body upon which Chicago charities might depend for yearly contributions. "No matter how lean a year may be in the matter of contributions, the charity may feel certain of a stated sum from this corporation."

WOMEN CREMATE SELVES AND TWO BABES IN PACT

The women were Mrs. Eliza Moselman, a widow, 70, and her daughter, Tillie, 37.

The baby victims were Helen Stankovich, 3, and her 2 year old brother, Felix. It was Felix's second birthday and Helen had celebrated her third birthday yesterday.

The children, who were motherless, had been left temporarily with the women by their father, John Stankovich, a former tenant, when he went to Virginia to work, July 1.

Today Mrs. Moselman received a letter from him asking her to give his babies into the care of their grandmother, Mrs. Theresa White.

Clutching the children in their arms, the women set the bed afire, police say the evidence shows, and when a neighbor managed to break his way into the bedroom through locked doors, the four burned bodies were found. The room was damaged but little.

GOVERNOR MAY CALL MILITIA TO HALT CAPIAS

Uncle Sam on Trail

The government started yesterday to look into the income tax phase of the "big money" involved in the state treasury interest. The indictments at Springfield allege a $500,000 embezzlement by Gov. Small, a $700,000 embezzlement by Lieut. Gov. Sterling, and a $2,000,000 conspiracy fraud against the state.

Was income tax paid on these big sums? Uncle Sam wants to know.

Vernon Curtis of the "Grant Park bank," through which the big steal is alleged to have been affected, has been summoned to a quiz by income tax agents here. These agents were sent on from Washington to investigate.

Springfield, Ill., July 21.—[Special.]—Whether Len Small, as governor of Illinois, is immune from arrest or whether Len Small, a citizen under indictment, must appear in court and give bonds for his release, will be decided by Judge E. S. Smith at a hearing set for 9 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Circuit court of Sangamon county.

If the court decides the governor's claim of immunity is well founded, the capiases for his arrest, now held by Sheriff Henry Mester, will be withheld until the expiration of Small's term in office, three and one-half years hence. If the decision is adverse to the governor, State's Attorney C. F. Mortimer will order the sheriff to serve the warrants.

May Call Out Militia.

In the latter event the situation will be fraught with possibilities ranging from peaceable surrender by the governor to the calling out of the national guard. Gov. Small has been advised by his attorneys—among them the venerable ex-Gov. Joseph W. Fifer, George B. Gillespie, and ex-Congressman James W. Graham—to ignore the capiases and if necessary resist arrest.

In the opinion of some, the governor, evidently worried over the sudden turn of affairs, may change his mind at the last moment and submit to the law just as suddenly as he determined upon the more belligerent course. But it is the belief of extremists that tomorrow may see the state house bristling with bayonets and companies of national guardsmen holding at bay a posse of deputies led by Sheriff Mester.

Tonight no one knows definitely what tomorrow's outcome will be in Illinois' most sensational state scandal but the more conservative officials believe the governor has been ill advised and will decide against making a grandstand show of force.

Dickson Not Called On.

Adjt. Gen. Frank S. Dickson denied tonight that he had conferred with the governor relative to holding the state troops in readiness or that he had given any orders for any to be so held. "I have not seen the governor all day," he said.

In fact, the governor spent most of the day conferring with his attorneys, who have drawn up a twelve page legal opinion for presentation to Judge Smith in the morning. This opinion sets forth that Gov. Small would violate the constitution and betray the people were he to submit to arrest. The opinion, according to Attorney Graham, is based on the old presumption of English law that "the king can do no wrong."

It is the contention of the governor's attorneys that the governor, in bowing to the judicial branch of the government, would violate section 3 of the constitution, which establishes the judicial, executive, and legislative branches of the state government with coördinate powers and forbids the usurpation by one branch of the powers of another.

Governor Changes Front.

The governor, who during the grand jury sessions was quoted as ready, when indicted, to demand an immediate trial, suddenly changed front this morning. His unique stand was disclosed after Vernon S. Curtis, indicted jointly with him in two of the true bills, voluntarily surrendered before Judge E. S. Smith and gave bond. His bonds were reduced by the court from $100,000 to $50,000 and were signed by his brother, E. A. Curtis, and Mrs. Ernest B. Griffin, both of Grant Park. According to telephonic advices received by State's Attorney C. F. Morti-

After Curtis' bond had been accepted Attorney Gillespie informed the court that the issuing of capiases for the governor was in violation of an agreement which he had reached with the court yesterday following the return of the indictments.

Asks Return of Warrants.

"If your honor please," said the attorney, "there is a serious question as to whether the chief executive of the state of Illinois is subject to arrest. We ask that the capiases issued yesterday for the governor's arrest be returned until we are able to present arguments to this court that the executive is not subject to arrest.

"Yesterday there was an agreement between this court and myself that no capiases would be issued until time had been given to present such arguments."

Judge Smith said he had ordered the warrants withheld, but through some misunderstanding they had been given to the sheriff. State's Attorney Mortimer informed the court that no attempt had been made to serve the capiases, but that the governor's secretary had been informed they had been issued.

Judge Smith declined to order the capiases withdrawn, but said he was willing to hear any arguments. These are the arguments to be heard in the morning.

Point to Altgeld and Tanner.

Gov. Small's lawyers point to the precedents established by Govs. Altgeld and Tanner, both of whom were indicted and both of whom, it is said, defied the authorities to arrest them. But in those cases the indictments themselves were of a farcical nature. Gov. Tanner was indicted, along with many other state and county officials, in connection with the Virden mine riots in 1899.

The action, in so far as the governor was concerned, was never considered seriously and no prosecutions followed on any of the indictments. Gov. Altgeld was indicted in Champaign in 1892 for failing to comply with a state law requiring the flying of American flags over school buildings. The trustees of the state university refused to place a flag on every building owned by the university on the ground "it would make the place look like a circus." The governor, being a trustee exofficio, was indicted along with the rest. The indictment was nolle prossed.

Position of Attorney Graham.

Attorney Graham, who was state's attorney of Sangamon county at the time Altgeld was governor and who acted as his legal adviser in many matters, declared the difference in the degree of the offense charged against Gov. Small makes no difference.

"It is the governor's duty to the people of the state not to permit the head of the commonwealth to be removed and thrown into jail," he said.

"It would not necessarily mean that the government would be without a head if the governor would be placed on trial," it was suggested.

"Well, if I were the governor I would stand on my constitutional rights and refuse to furnish bonds," he replied. "In that case, according to the state's contention, he could be placed in jail and the government would be without a head.

"Just think of the absurd situation anyway of convicting a governor of an offense when he could turn around the next moment and pardon himself. There is absolutely no way in which a governor can be removed except by impeachment, and if he cannot be impeached in the present instance then it is not our concern that the law provides no remedy."

"Do you mean to say that if the governor of Illinois should go out on the streets in Springfield and commit a murder he could not be arrested and tried for it?" he was asked.

"He could not be touched until after he had served his term as governor," Attorney Graham replied.

Contention of the State.

State's Attorney Mortimer will demand tomorrow that the governor enter an appearance formally before the court before the arguments are presented. To permit the arguments to go forward without an appearance having been entered would constitute error in the record, he says. It is claimed that this may have been the purpose of the move to ignore the indictments.

The state's argument is that, inasmuch as the governor is indicted for an alleged offense not in any way connected with his duties as chief executive, he is subject to the law just the same as any other citizen.

To Ask Change of Venue.

If the capiases should be served, Gov. Small has said he would demand a change of venue from the county. If he should do so, opposing counsel might agree on another county. If they could not agree, the court is empowered to transfer the case to any "convenient" county; not necessarily adjacent to Sangamon. It is understood, however, the state is prepared to make strenuous objection to a change of venue.

In view of the governor's indictment it is believed he will change his mind about calling a special session of the legislature this fall, as impeachment proceedings loom as a possibility. It is said that the opinion advanced that Gov. Small could only be impeached for some act committed while he was governor is debatable.

Resent Attack on Jury.

Members of the grand jury which voted the indictments are said to be incensed at the attack made upon them by the governor in his statement. He said: "I am not surprised that a Sangamon county grand jury, dominated by an organization protecting the most vicious criminals and brazen law violators to be found in the state of Illinois has taken this action."

"Eighteen of those men are hard working, hard headed farmers who have lived all their lives in Sangamon county," said one man. "They have built up reputations of long standing in their communities for honesty and integrity. They deeply resent this attack and the governor is likely to hear from them later."

"It wasn't politics that caused those men to vote indictments," said another. "These Sangamon farmers are good and sore at the whole extravagant crowd in the state house. They have been weighed down by taxes until they would like to clean out the whole bunch."

VETO BY SMALL PERILS INQUIRY ON ELECTION FRAUDS

Gov. Small may have succeeded in blocking the pending investigation of election frauds in Chicago.

It was disclosed yesterday that his veto of $700,000 in the appropriations made by the legislature for the attorney general's office has at least imperiled the inquiry begun by Attorney Frederick A. Brown, who was designated for that task by Attorney General Brundage at the instance of the Chicago Bar association.

This is believed by many politicians to have been one of the chief reasons for the Lundin-Thompson machine backing the governor in trimming the state law department to the barest necessities. That the organization was determined not to let the activity of Attorney Brown get far, it is asserted, was indicated several days ago by County Judge Righeimer's silence on a request of Attorney Brown to permit access to poll books and similar records of the board of election commissioners.

No definite sum had been set aside for the inquiry, but, following an examination of the evidence turned over by Col. John V. Clinnin in connection with frauds at the judicial election, June 6, it has become apparent that legal assistance and the service of investigators would require a considerable sum.

The question whether funds can be raised in some other way has been discussed and it has been suggested that it is the duty of the county board to make an appropriation.

BRUNDAGE PLANS SPEEDY ROUTE TO OUST GOVERNOR

Proposes to Start Suit in Supreme Court.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Measures to delay the criminal prosecution of Gov. Small will not be permitted to enable an indicted man to evade trial and at the same time exercise the authority of the chief executive of Illinois for an indefinite period, if the attorney general can help it.

Attorney General Brundage has another string for his bow. He is prepared to take a short cut to attempt the ouster of Small by means of civil proceedings. The route outlined is so speedy that it is believed final action could be had in advance of a final decision in the criminal case even if it progresses in a normal manner.

At the same time the method proposed is calculated also to settle the legal puzzle whether in the event of ouster Frank O. Lowden, James Hamilton Lewis, or State Senator Jewell would fill out the unexpired term, or whether the place must be filled by a special election as former Gov. Lowden himself suggested to THE TRIBUNE yesterday.

Mr. Brundage's Plan.

As to the plan for civil procedure against Small, Attorney General Brundage said he was contemplating civil suits for the recovery of the funds the defendants are accused of retaining, but he did not show his whole hand.

By a provision of that part of the state constitution creating the Supreme court, which probably never has been used in a similar matter before, the attorney general is enabled to take those suits directly before the highest state tribunal without going directly into the lower courts.

Section 2 of article VI. provides that the Supreme court shall have original jurisdiction in cases "relating to the revenue." It is believed by lawyers generally that if there ever was a case involving the revenue of the state more clearly than this one it is unknown.

Suit in Supreme Court.

Therefore the method of fast action is for the attorney general to bring suit in the Supreme court for the amount of interest claimed from each one of the defendants.

If he obtains victory there he can, with no other fortification than a copy of the Supreme court judgment, go into the Circuit court on a quo warranto proceeding challenging the right of the defendants to their offices on grounds that they disqualified themselves under the constitution by failing to pay over state funds they held as state treasurers.

The decision of the court in both its phases — the one settling whether the incumbents are entitled to office and the other seating some one else or finding that a special election will be necessary—would be self-executing. In other words if a decree of ouster were entered Gov. Small again would be a private citizen.

Lowden Quotes the Law.

Ex-Gov. Lowden raised the point that a special election would be necessary if the present governor and lieutenant governor should vacate their offices. In a telegram from Sinissippi farm to THE TRIBUNE in reply to one sent to him, the ex-governor said:

"Section 127 of chapter 45, revised statutes, seems clearly to cover the case you suppose. That section provides that in cases of vacancies in offices of the governor and lieutenant governor a special election to fill the vacancies shall be called."

In other words, Mr. Lowden indicated that he was not inclined to take up the contention of several good constitutional lawyers that he himself is entitled and in duty bound to return to the executive mansion at Springfield if it is shown that both Mr. Small and Mr. Sterling were disqualified at the time of their election.

Under the present circumstances, if both the governor and lieutenant governor were to give up their offices or be ousted from them, the president pro tem of the state senate, Senator W. S. Jewell, would become acting governor, it is contended. Therefore it would devolve upon him to call a special election and a special session of the legislature if Mr. Lowden is correct in his theory.

It's Lewis, Others Assert.

Other lawyers, and there were scores of them, who discussed the problem raised by the Sangamon county indictments and their possibilities, confined their consideration to the provisions of the constitution relative to the offices of governor and lieutenant governor.

Andrew R. Sheriff was one of several who contended that, if Gov. Small is shown to have been disqualified by his failure to pay to the state all the interest he received on state money while treasurer, James Hamilton Lewis, his Democratic opponent, is entitled to the office.

Attorney Sheriff further contended that Mr. Lowden's suggestion that "vacancies" must be filled by a special election was not well made since, he said, vacancies could only follow legal occupancy.

This same group argued that the theory that Lowden would be entitled to the governorship in the event of Small's ouster was in error, because Lowden is now out of office, so the constitutional provision that a governor is elected for four years "and, until his successor is elected and qualified," does not apply to him.

On the other hand John Maynard Harlan, Lewis E. McCandless, and other attorneys not only stood stanchly by the Lowden theory, but in doing so went so far as to add another name to the list of possibilities.

Add Oglesby to List.

"If Col. Lowden is unwilling to resume the duties of the governorship," was the substance of their remarks on this point, "the only procedure for him will be to resign. Then, if both the officials indicted yesterday are convicted or are shown to have withheld state funds, Sterling as well as Small was disqualified at the time of the election, and John G. Oglesby resumes his office as lieutenant governor; if Col. Lowden resigns, Oglesby becomes governor."

That makes four in the list, for many still insist that if both Small and Sterling go out Senator Jewell becomes governor.

DIPLOMAT VISITS CHICAGO

Hugh C. Wallace, former United States ambassador to France, accompanied by Mrs. Wallace and their niece, Miss Sallie Beecher (at extreme left), spent a few hours in Chicago last night en route from Washington, D. C., to their home in Tacoma, Wash. Mr. Wallace, who has lately returned from France, expressed surprise at cable reports indicating the Upper Silesian problem has developed a crisis in European affairs. "When I left Paris two weeks ago," he said, "the Upper Silesian question seemed no longer a matter for concern I am at a loss to account for the serious turn causing France to prepare to rush troops into Upper Silesia." Mr. Wallace called on President Harding while in Washington.

WHITE ELEPHANT IS GERMAN NAME FOR YANKEE COW

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

BERLIN, July 21.—Several hundred American cows, gifts from American farmers to Germany, sent through the American Dairy Cattle company of Chicago, which were received with brass bands along flower strewn paths, have proven sad disappointments to their new owners.

First there were losses in transportation, then in quarantine, and again through an attack of the "Texas fever." It took months to get the cows into the farmers' hands.

Now it is discovered that the sea trip probably affected the resources of the cows, for they give only the scantiest quantity of milk.

In the town of Bethel, in the Ruhr district, for instance, the American cows, although fed three times as much, are giving one-quarter as much milk as the German cattle.

Prosecutor and Jury Official of Kenosha Resign

Kenosha, Wis., July 21.—[Special.] Kenosha county official circles are all astir over the announcement made today of the resignation of Peter Fisher Jr., as state's attorney and of Thomas Fleming of Salem as jury commissioner.

The resignations are alleged to be a sequel to the work of a special grand jury investigating vice conditions.

It is anticipated his statement will lead to a complete investigation of the official life of Kenosha county and bring sensational revelations.

Promoter of "Bazaar for Ex-Service Men" Seized

Reuben Mason of 6122 Prairie avenue was arrested yesterday on two charges of confidence game. He is alleged to have hired more than 100 ex-service men to sell tickets for a bazaar for the benefit of "unemployed soldiers and sailors," which was to be held under the auspices of the "Chicago Relief association."

Many tickets were sold for 25 cents each before it was discovered no address where the bazaar was to be held were on the tickets.

MILITARY LIKELY TO HINDER LEN AT SOCIAL AFFAIRS

Huskies Would Be So in Way at Dances.

Today Judge Smith will decide in Springfield whether a warrant may be served upon the person of Gov. Len Small. If his honor rules that the chief executive is not immune from constabulary seizure, friends of Small, it is rumored, will ask that the governor order out the militia to protect him from the law.

By so encumbering himself, Gov. Small will impede his locomotion considerably. Especially will he be embarrassed at functions of state, where he will be unable to shake hands with guests because of the surrounding soldiery. Nor can he dance, unless the boys in khaki form a huge ring on the floor, that he may terpsichorate where sheriff and sheriff's deputies cannot enter.

New Military Command Likely.

"Company, 'tenshun! Dance circle, harch!" may be an innovation in commands down Sangamon county way.

Then there is that little matter of speaking. The governor is not unusually tall, and might be undiscernable behind a squad of husky militia youths. All the audience could get would be his voice emerging from between the O. D. blouses and cartridge belts.

Unless he stood upon a pedestal! But even so, horrendous possibilities offer themselves. Mr. Small might lose his footing and fall.

Perils of Supper Hour.

The supper hour at the executive mansion would be perilous at best. No telling when a 6 foot butler, standing deferentially behind the governor, might throw away the beefsteak and serve the warrant. It would probably give Mr. Small indigestion.

Neither can the governor go out of the state—for, of course, his militiamen could not accompany him and some country constable might "pinch" Mr. Small when he found him "all by his lonely."

The fishing is said to be excellent in Wisconsin this year, and it is understood the governor likes to go to Washington and New York once in a while.

ALTGELD THREAT TO USE MILITIA RECALLED BY SMALL'S STAND

Champaign, Ill., July 21.—[Special.]—When Gov. John P. Altgeld was indicted by a Champaign county grand jury sitting in Urbana he sent this word to D. D. Cannon, sheriff:

The sheriff never served the warrant. This story was retold today in light of the indictment of Gov. Small.

Altgeld was indicted in 1895 along with other members of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois for failure to comply with a state law requiring American flags on state buildings. The university flag was hung on a pole in front of the armory in accordance with military custom.

The indictments were finally quashed. The move was generally thought to be political.

DE VALERA OFF TO DUBLIN WITH BRITISH TERMS

BULLETIN.

LONDON, July 21.—(United News.)—Premier Lloyd George has informed Eamonn de Valera that the British stand ready to amend the home rule act so as to grant dominion form of government to both the north and south of Ireland, according to the Daily Chronicle. Under this plan the military would remain imperial, but the police Irish, the Chronicle says.

The offer made by the premier is said also to include important financial concessions regarding the initial fund for starting the Irish government and Ireland's contribution to the imperial expenses and cost of the war. In case Ulster and the south are unable to agree Ulster is to be safeguarded by the imperial government.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, July 21.—Eamonn de Valera today finished his preliminary conversations with Prime Minister Lloyd George, from whom he received the proposals of the British cabinet for the basis of a permanent Irish settlement.

He returns to Ireland tomorrow with his associates, and it is said that the next step will be the release of the fifty imprisoned members of Dail Eireann and the calling of a full meeting of that body at which Mr. de Valera will present Great Britain's proposals.

Hopes to Meet Ulster Chief.

If these are accepted as the basis for further discussion a fully accredited delegation will come to London to discuss the final terms of peace.

In the meantime the truce will continue and efforts will be made by Mr. de Valera to settle with Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier.

The Irish republican leader has expressed willingness to meet Craig anywhere in Ireland at any time, and it is said to be likely that a private meeting will be arranged which will lead later to a public conference for an all-Ireland agreement.

It is expected the preliminaries will take a week or ten days and there is little chance for any definite action before the end of next week.

Smuts Visits Premier.

As usual, the utmost secrecy and reserve veiled today's London conference. Mr. de Valera remained only 40 minutes with Prime Minister Lloyd George and a half hour after he had gone Gen. Jan Smuts, the South African premier, arrived and stayed a half hour.

Later in the day this official communique was issued:

"Prime Minister Lloyd George and Eamonn de Valera had a further conversation at 11:30 o'clock this morning, which lasted about an hour. The basis for a further conference has not yet been found. Mr. de Valera has arranged to return to Ireland tomorrow and to communicate with Mr. Lloyd George again after further discussion with his colleagues."

When the Irish party left Downing street all were smiling and Mr. de Valera looked like a man who had accomplished a heavy task. All refused to add anything to the official statement, but the program already set down was obtained from reliable Irish sources.

Tories Source of Danger.

The only serious danger of a breach in the peace negotiations is said to be the possibility of a revolt of English "tory die-hards" and the upsetting of the Lloyd George government.

A deputation of tory members of parliament waited on Austen Chamberlain, the tory leader, today, insisting that whatever settlement might be arrived at, Ulster be untouched.

Mr. Chamberlain, who is said to be fully in favor of Mr. Lloyd George's plan for an Irish settlement, gave assurances that Ulster would not be coerced, but the visitors were only half satisfied.

A few nights ago the government was defeated by tory laxity on a minor clause in the finance bill by a majority of two votes.

It is quite possible that forty or fifty disgruntled tories might vote with the opposition on division, thus making necessary the resignation of the government and, of course, upsetting the whole Irish settlement plan.

DUBLIN IS HOPEFUL.

DUBLIN, July 21.—[By the Associated Press.]—Although Mr. de Valera has been unable to accept the terms of the British settlement, there is no immediate apprehension of a rupture of the truce. It was recognized from the beginning that Mr. de Valera, as the spokesman of the republican idea, could not waive that principle, and the most that was hoped was that he might receive an offer worthy of consideration and debate.

But only a really big offer, it is declared, would justify the assembly of the Dail Eireann, and such disappointment as exists is caused by the rumor here that the Dail Eireann may not be summoned.

DE VALERA SENT SUPPORT PLEDGE BY HIBERNIANS

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—A pledge of support for Eamonn de Valera and the other leaders in the movement for Irish independence was given by the Ancient Order of Hibernians at the annual convention here this afternoon. The following message, signed by James E. Deary of Indianapolis, president of the order, was sent De Valera:

"The Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, in convention assembled at Detroit, Mich., greet you, and through you, the Dail Eireann, and congratulate you on your honest, fearless and successful leadership, and pledge you unlimited support in your honorable efforts for the recognition of the Irish republic."

FOUR QUEENS COMMAND CHICAGO'S FEALTY

Thrills Follow South Side Holdup.

Four policemen and two robbers fought a battle in which many shots were fired and which led through the streets and alleys of the south side early this morning. One of the robbers was killed. The other escaped.

The robbers entered the saloon of Joseph Mendermack at 5908 South State street shortly after midnight and ordered a glass of beer. Mendermack went to get the drink. One of the robbers covered two other men in the saloon, ordering them to put up their hands. The other sprang over the counter and seized the contents of the cash register. Together they then fled.

Battle in Alley.

Mendermack pulled a revolver from a drawer and started in pursuit. He fired several shots.

The Englewood patrol was passing. The crew, Policemen James Galligan, Joseph Carroll, and Joseph Armend, heard the shooting and saw the men running west on 59th street. They joined in the chase, firing. The fugitives shot back.

Policeman Abraham De Koker was on post near by and running east on 59th street saw the robbers enter an alley and start north. He started firing.

The four officers were now together following the bandits down the alley, shooting and being shot at with every step. Suddenly the bandit fire stopped. De Koker ran forward and in the darkness stumbled over a man. He was rushed to the hospital, where it was found he was dead.

Carried an Army Revolver.

The only marks of identification was the initial "S" on a silver belt buckle. The dead man was about 23 years of age, dark complexion, and dark hair and eyes. He carried a .45 army revolver and a pocketful of ammunition. In his pocket was $53, the money taken from the saloon cash register.

RUNAWAY WIFE, BACK FOR A CRY, LEAVES HUBBY ONCE MORE

Monticello, N. Y., July 21.—[Special.]—Mrs. Emily Durea, runaway wife, came back to sob on her husband's shoulder for ten minutes today and then climbed in an auto with the "other man" and rode away again. The Rev. Clark Durea, love pacifist, kissed his wife and child, 12, good-by for the second time.

Earl Van Nooy, the "other man," who deserted his own wife, sat calmly at the wheel of the car while the woman he had run away with pleaded with her husband to take her back.

"I'm sorry," Durea said. "I do not doubt that you are repentant, but I have sold my house and furnishings. I have no place to keep you and I have no money."

When she had gone Durea went back to his room and read his Bible.

Mexican Oil Well Fire Under Control

Mexico City, July 21.—[United News.]—The fire in the Amatlan oil wells is coming under control, according to latest reports. The blaze has been confined to two wells and the flow of burning oil has been turned away from other wells. Reports are that the fire was accidental, and no suspicion of incendiarism has arisen.

STATE CLOSES MICHIGAN AVE. TRUST COMPANY

Large Loans Believed to Have Troubled Bank.

Officers and attaches of the Michigan Avenue Trust company, approaching the bank building at 2218 South Michigan avenue yesterday morning to start the day's work, found a notice posted on the door declaring the institution closed pending an investigation of its accounts and assets by the state auditor.

Clarence A. Beutel, the cashier, is said to have told the examiners that $500,000 of the bank's funds had been invested in questionable securities while he was on a four weeks' trip in the east.

"I tried to reach Warren C. Spurgin, the president, to obtain an explanation," Mr. Beutel is quoted as saying, "but he is somewhere in the east. I couldn't locate him. So I called the matter to the attention of the other officers and it was agreed that the bank should be closed for the time being."

Later in the day the clearing house committee issued a statement in which the public was advised that the temporary closing has no bearing upon the general banking situation, which is sound.

Called Individual Misfortune.

"The closing of this institution merely represents an individual instance of mismanagement or misfortune, as the facts now being probed by the state auditor's office will doubtless disclose," read the statement.

"The Michigan Avenue Trust company was not a member of the clearing house and had not even a clearing arrangement with any member of the Clearing House association. It was, therefore, not subject to examination by the clearing house. It had no connection with any other bank in this city and its failure should not affect any other institution."

It was signed on behalf of the Chicago clearing house committee by G. M. Reynolds, E. D. Hulbert, and Solomon A. Smith. The Michigan Avenue Trust company is not a member of the clearing house.

A crowd gathered at the doors yesterday morning when the word was passed around that the place was closed, but there was no disorder.

In the absence of President Spurgin, none of the other officials cared to talk, but it was said the large number of outstanding accounts, owing to depression in the automobile business, had a bearing on the closing order.

Firm Borrows $250,000.

Among the firms which had borrowed from the bank was the Graff Manufacturing company, which obtained $250,000 on the strength of a large contract that was subsequently canceled.

Capital stock of the institution is $200,000, with $50,000 surplus and deposits of $3,713,441. The amount of loans and discounts was placed at $2,849,200.

"The auditor of public accounts, having reason to believe that the capital stock of the Michigan Avenue Trust company is impaired, has closed the bank for further examination," was the only explanation made.

ARMY BOMBERS SINK EX-KAISER'S PRIDE IN OCEAN

Airmen Victorious After Three-Day Trial.

On Board U. S. Destroyer Leary, at Sea, En Route to Norfolk, July 21.—Army Martin bombers today attacked and sank the ex-German dreadnaught Ostfriesland with demolition bombs in twenty-five minutes.

Six Martin bombers and one Handley-Page plane made the attack, each carrying and dropping a powerful 2,000 pound TNT bomb. The Ostfriesland was under the surface of the ocean when the Handley-Page machine, carrying the seventh and last bomb, attacked and dropped its bomb as a parting funeral salute to what was once the pride of the former kaiser's navy.

Nevy Men Skeptical.

Until today, the concensus among naval officers on the transport Henderson, witnessing the test as experts, was that the Ostfriesland would not be sunk by the airmen, and that it would be necessary to batter the target to pieces with broadside salvos by the 14 inch guns of the flagship Pennsylvania of the Atlantic fleet.

The apparent failure of smaller bombs of 230, 550, and 600 pounds to destroy the target yesterday encouraged navel men in their argument that Brig. Gen. William S. Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, was wrong in his belief that air bombers from the Langley field base would actually be able to destroy the Ostfriesland, aside from putting the dreadnaught "out of action."

The tests today are declared to have shown the failure of deck protective armor, which it was argued would protect the vitals of the battleship against the airplanes.

Gen. Mitchell's Plan.

Instead of seeking to penetrate deck armor, Gen. Mitchell gave his men orders not to hit the Ostfriesland if they could avoid it, but to drop their bombs as close as possible in the water along the waterline of the target. His object was to shake open the seams of the dreadnaught and send it into the sea, regardless of the character of stiff armor protection.

It has been Gen. Mitchell's contention that battleships "can" be sunk by dropping powerful enough bombs alongside in the water. He did not expect to sink the Ostfriesland with 600 pounders; though there was a chance that it might be done with 1,000 pound bombs.

Weeks and Roosevelt Comment.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Varying views as to the test results were expressed today by Secretary of War Weeks and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt, both of whom were eye witnesses.

Mr. Weeks was highly enthusiastic over the prowess of the airplanes, but Mr. Roosevelt remarked:

"I once saw a man kill a lion with a 30-30 caliber rifle, but that does not mean that a 30-30 rifle is a lion gun."

GONE AGAIN

First Husband of Amnesia Victim Says She Has Returned to Her Second.

Mrs. Estelle Usdrowske-Foettisch and son Vincent.

IT'S all off again with Estelle Usdrowske Foettisch, pretty amnesia victim, and her first husband, John G. Usdrowske, 2740 Ward street, and father of her 5 year old son, Vincent. The announcement came from Usdrowske yesterday, who says that he cannot remain silent any longer.

Estelle, he says, disappeared from a new apartment he furnished for her at 2719 Sheffield avenue on June 14. She previously had left the home of Foettisch on June 4, deciding in favor of Usdrowske. Usdrowske held back tears as he renounced Estelle.

"I was good to her," he said. "She had everything she wanted when she came back to me. I still have the marriage license which we were going to use after she got her annulment from Foettisch. I think she has gone back to Foettisch again and that they are in Indiana."

Usdrowske says he is going to forget Estelle and center all his affection on Vincent, their little son.

COWBOY THROWS STEER AT RODEO IN 12 1-5 SECONDS

Floyd Schultz roped and tied a calf in 31 2-5 seconds last night in the cowboy contests in Grant park, winning the day money for the fastest time. Lee Robinson took second money for the day with 32 1-5 in the afternoon, and Floyd's brother, Everett Schultz, was third with 34 3-5.

Honors in the steer bulldogging went to Buck Lucas, who twisted down a steer in 12 1-5 seconds. Mike Hastings was second with 14 4-5, and Slim Caskey took third with 15 3-5.

Helen Holmes, movie actress, will be in the arena today as the guest of Vera McGinnis and Yakima Canutt. Miss McGinnis, who, outside the arena, is Mrs. Canutt, has doubled for many of the movie stars in films calling for some dangerous action.

Two hundred ex-Yanks from the vocational school at Fort Sheridan will see the show today as the guests of E. F. Carruthers, the business manager, and Tex Austin, director.

Demands "White Wings" Band Join Musicians' Union

Ralph J. O'Hara, business agent of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, announced last night that members of the new "White Wings" band will not be allowed to play at the Pageant of Progress with union musicians unless they become affiliated with his union.

"The Policemen's and Firemen's bands have agreed to join the Musicians' union," said O'Hara, "and it is only fair that other municipal bands follow their example."

REALTY BOARD ASKED TO BATTLE BIG EXPERT FEES

Alderman Predicts Evil Will Halt City Progress.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

A vigorous appeal to aid in curtailing the enormous profits of city experts was made yesterday to the Chicago Real Estate board by Chairman Schwartz of the aldermanic committee investigating expert fees.

"Why should these [street] improvements be used by members of your board—yes, leading and prominent members—to collect enormous fees and profits from the city treasury?" asked Schwartz in his letter.

Referring to Ernest H. Lyons of Evanston, the letter continues: "By his own written admissions to the city council, in a formal communication, he has admitted that he has collected more than $577,000, and claims to have had a legitimate expense of $143,000—leaving him a profit of $434,000 approximately. Two other real estate experts, Arthur S. Merigold and Edward C. Waller Jr., have also collected $577,000 in the same period.

Destructive of Public Confidence.

"Such enormous fees and profits will destroy public confidence and consequently the voters will not approve of bond issues for desired and needed improvements, and the growth and prosperity of the city will be impaired, hindered and retaarded—if not actually stopped, so far as improvements contribute to the welfare of the municipality."

Evidently Ald. Schwartz remembered that the Chicago Real Estate board announced that it intended to take up the subject of expert fees and a week later announced that action had been deferred indefinitely, because his letter goes on:

"Delayed or tardy action or inaction actually hurts Chicago now, as well as in the future. It seems imperative there should be action, and decisive action at once. You, as well as we, are informed that taxpayers' suits have been started to recover these fees. These should prompt us to action, not retard action, if public confidence is to be restored and maintained."

Experts Due Before Landis Today.

The five experts named in the taxpayers' suit are due to appear before Judge Landis of the United States District court today. They have refused to give Internal Revenue Collector Cannon the information he desires regarding their income tax assessments. Cannon has asked the court to punish them for contempt. The battle on that issue is scheduled to start this morning.

RESTAURANT MAN WORRIES ABOUT MONEY; MISSING

Evanston police are searching of Joseph Messner, restaurateur of the suburb, who disappeared three weeks ago after financial troubles had caused him considerable worry. Mrs. Messner told Capt. Dennis McEnery that her husband has been seen in Evanston during the last week. Mr. Messner's age was given by his wife as between 50 and 60 years, his height 5 feet 7 inches, and his weight 150 pounds. He is smooth shaven.

ALLEGED VICTIM OF KIDNAPERS FACES 4 CHARGES

Sharon, Pa., July 21.—Thomas D. Randolph, a business man of Sharon, who was believed to have been kidnaped last Monday night and held for $50,000 ransom, but who returned to his home last night and was arrested, late today pleaded not guilty to four charges and waived the hearings. When bail aggregating $7,000 was not produced he was returned to a cell in the city lockup, but will be removed shortly to the county jail at Mercer.

Chief of Police Lansdowne preferred charges of attempt to obtain money under false pretenses, attempted blackmail and extortion, and a statutory charge against Randolph, while Postal Inspector George V. Craighead of Pittsburgh preferred a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

An unidentified woman alleged to have accompanied Randolph to Stoneboro, where he is said to have stayed during the time of his disappearance, is being sought by Pittsburgh authorities in connection with the case.

LAKE SHIPS END MANEUVERS, SAIL FOR HOME PORTS

Duluth, Minn., July 21.—After being at anchor in St. Louis Bay since late yesterday the Great Lakes naval reserve training fleet began to disband today. The U. S. S. Gopher and the U. S. S. Yantic weighed anchor in the early forenoon and immediately sailed for Toledo and Detroit, their respective home ports.

The U. S. S. Wilmette, flagship, of Chicago, and the U. S. S. Hawk of Milwaukee will sail later in the week. The U. S. S. Essex, training ship for reservists from Minnesota and the Dakotas, will leave for lower lake ports with a new crew within a few days.

FIFTY WARD BILL UP FOR COUNCIL ACTION TODAY

Little Opposition to Its Passage Expected.

The final change in the redistricting of Chicago into a city of fifty wards instead of the present thirty-five was approved yesterday by the council committee on redistricting, and the ordinance, upon which a staff of clerks worked all night, will be submitted to the city council for passage today.

Not much of a fight against its approval is expected by the committee, as every effort was made to satisfy all elements in the drawing of the new ward lines. If the ordinance is passed it will become effective in the spring of 1923. It will eliminate seventeen of the present aldermen, as under the fifty ward plan there will be but one alderman from each ward.

Features of New Plan.

The chief features of the new plan are that either Michael "Hinky Dink" Kenna or John "Bath House" Coughlin, both of whom will be in the same ward, will quit the council; the doing away with the Nineteenth ward, the "murder ward," as a political unit, and the creation of two Negro wards on the south side.

Ald. Thomas Byrne, chairman of the redistricting committee, expressed confidence that the new plan will be adopted.

Only Minor Changes Made.

"There have been a number of last minute changes from the plan announced several days ago," he said, "but they were only minor ones consisting of the moving of ward lines a few blocks in various directions. There may be a few more changes made on the council floor, but the committee feels that it has done a good job and that the plan will be approved."

Ald. John H. Lyle will ask for the appointment of a commission to make a complete survey of the activities of the municipal government in all departments with the view of eliminating or consolidating duplicating positions.

WOMAN AGED 80 STRUCK BY CAR.

Mrs. Lucy Toltzak, 80 years old, sustained a fracture of the skull and other injuries yesterday when she was struck by a Milwaukee avenue car at Monticello avenue.

HILLQUIT GIVEN RIGHT TO ENTER BRITAIN AT LAST

LONDON, July 22.—Morris Hillquit, the American Socialist, has arrived in London, according to the Daily Herald, the labor organ.

The newspaper adds that "rectification of the blunder which resulted in Mr. Hillquit's being detained at Dover was secured by John R. Clynes, labor member of parliament, drawing the home secretary's personal attention to the matter."

Mr. Hillquit was told, on his arrival at Dover Wednesday, that by order of the home secretary he would probably be ordered back to France.

"PACIFIC PEACE LIFE OR DEATH TO AUSTRALIA"

Settle Far East First, Then Disarm—Hughes.

BY AMBROSE LAMBERT.
[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, July 21.—"The Pacific situation is life or death for Australia."

"The Washington conference will be a failure unless the Pacific problem is settled first. Disarmament comes second."

"Any conference must see Australia and New Zealand represented."

These were the high spots in the speech of Premier W. M. Hughes of Australia, delivered at a luncheon given by the American club today. He was introduced by Wilson J. Cross, chairman of the club. The Australian premier said he felt he was speaking to friends and therefore could speak frankly.

Declares Isolation Obsolete.

"Isolation is incompatible to the modern circumstances of nations," said Mr. Hughes. "Neither Australia's remoteness nor America's traditional Monroe Doctrine could keep the effects of war from them. It is well that nations should meet around a council table with a view to ending the suicidal policy of rival armaments. But it is well to remember the difficulties which stand between mankind and its desires.

"The nations which gathered around the peace table in Paris endeavored to find a way to banish war from the world. The league of nations was the result. Nearly three years have passed since the armistice. Two years have passed since peace was signed. Who can say that peace is assured?

"The invitation from the United States is convincing evidence that though the world longs for peace it has not yet found a way to secure it.

"If the league of nations so far has failed, it is not because the nations have refused to meet. They have met. It is not because they are not of one mind as far as they desire peace. All great and all small nations desire peace. All admit the desirability of limiting disarmaments.

Harding's Mighty Task.

"This conference at Washington is then to do what neither the Paris conference nor the league of nations has done. Can it succeed?"

"America and Australia are sister democracies. We are what you were ninety years ago. You now are what we will be 100 years hence. We have no ancient European feuds and no sense of European imperialism. Our present and future destiny lies in the Pacific. The Washington conference can only hope to succeed if it recognizes these facts.

"Where the interests are really vital a nation cannot give way, and will not do so unless compelled by superior force.

"America is interested in the Pacific problems, but they are not so vital as to Australia, where the outcome is either life or death. Our near neighbors are overcrowded in the east, where there are 100,000,000 persons jostling each other for lack of room.

Would Settle Pacific First.

"Upon what do we depend for our safety? The British navy and the Anglo-Japanese alliance. Is it not clear that to us the condition precedent to a disarmament conference is a discussion of a settlement, if possible, of the Pacific problems? This also applies to New Zealand.

"It is hopeless to expect Japan to agree to any settlement in the Pacific that does not fairly recognize that she has special interests there. The same applies to America with still greater force than to Australia. It is useless to approach this question unless the facts are clearly understood.

"It comes this way: If the Washington conference is to succeed there first must be a settlement of the Pacific problems, or at least a satisfactory vivendi. What the Monroe Doctrine is to America the white Australian policy and all it involves is to us.

Would U. S. Bend to League?

"If America were asked whether she was prepared to abandon the Monroe Doctrine if the league of nations or the Washington conference thought that the only way in which disarmament could be assured, what would America reply?

"The Pacific problem largely arises out of the rapidly expanding population of Japan, which cannot find room within its present national territories and yet which must find room somewhere. The bearing of the Monroe doctrine upon the Pacific problems is not remote. America would not abandon the Monroe doctrine and, for still stronger reasons, Australia could not agree either to abandon her white Australia policy nor to submit it to any conference for review."

This last statement was regarded by Mr. Hughes' hearers as an ultimatum to India and Japan that the immigration of colored races to Australia will be prohibited.

Sees Three-Sided Debate.

"It is a fixed factor which Australia will insist on," Mr. Hughes continued. "America may say it agrees with our policy of a white Australia. That will be all right. Yes, but how? By force?

"If you cannot agree with Japan on the Pacific problems, in what way can you and will you be able to help us? Japan has her views, you have yours and we have ours. Are you prepared to consider her point of view as well as ours and yours? If you are not the conference on disarmament cannot succeed.

"The object of the Washington conference is to get the great powers, and in particular the great naval powers—America and Great Britain—to agree on some basis for the limitation of armaments.

"Until the Pacific problem is settled, the obvious prospect of the great naval powers coming to an agreement on a practicable scheme is remote. Therefore, we must consider the far east first, and in this Australia and New Zealand should be represented."

HER HERO COMES HOME

The bodies of eighty Chicago men slain in battle on Flanders fields were brought home to Chicago last night. Mrs. Sallie Wojtalewicz is one of the many mother who were at the railroad station to meet the heroes and to answer the last grim roll call by which they claimed the bodies. Her son Peter was the first Chicago soldier to be slain during the world war. The picture shows Mrs. Wojtalewicz by the side of Peter's casket. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

MOTHERS ALONE ANSWER HEROES' LAST ROLL CALL

No Band, Crowd, Parade; Just 80 Pine Boxes.

Eighty Chicago boys came home yesterday from the poppy fields of France; come in new pine boxes to the Polk street and Northwestern stations, came without military honors, and without escort.

Four years ago as they departed bands played at these stations; thousands cheered; pretty girls distributed candy, cigarets, sandwiches, coffee, and fruit; flags waved; the sides of the cars were littered with chalked messages, rifle barrels held roses and carnations; the boys waved their hats and shouted good-bys from the windows of the coaches, and the women cried.

There was nothing the same yesterday except the women who cried. Most of them were aged and plainly dressed, their hands hardened by years of work.

The girls who kissed the boys good-by in '17 and '18 were not at the stations when the eighty came home. A mother's memory is longer.

The Heroes' Homecoming.

The hearses began arriving before train time. They choked the street. The little groups of relatives had been waiting for hours when the trains came in.

Sweating men in overalls shunted the flag covered boxes onto hand trucks and wheeled them into the freight receiving rooms. Women crowded about. A name was called. A stir, a cry—"my boy! my boy!"—and a woman faints.

Calloused fingers pat the pine wood lovingly, arms hold tight the boxes so long awaited. Out of Belleau wood and from Chipilly hill, the Aisne, the Marne, and the Somme, the boys had come home to their mothers.

All over the room mothers are carried out by policemen, by relatives, by men in dust stained overalls—mothers screaming, mothers who have fainted, mothers who cannot seem to stand.

Mothers of Men.

There's Mrs. Sallie Wojtalewicz of 1730 West 18th place, whose son Peter was the first Chicago boy killed in action; Mrs. Elvira Vidal, a widow; Mrs. Bertha Weaver, 351 West Oak street, a widow, Mrs. Delia McCutcheon, 2624 West Madison street; Mrs. B. Schneider, 5906 Belmont avenue, and scores of others.

There are few fathers, few brothers and sisters, few widows; many mothers.

Mrs. Lillian A. White, chairman of the relief committee for the Chicago council of the Gold Star Mothers, is there to give comfort. Miss A. Emily Napieralski of the Polish Women's alliance is there to aid twelve Polish mothers. Mrs. Jessie B. Schroeder, senior aid of the Woman's Relief corps, department of Illinois, is putting wreaths and gold stars on the boxes.

—And 193 Far from Home.

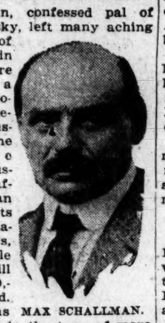
Serial numbers are shouted and repeated. Hearses back noisily up to the platforms. More shouts, instructions, impatient exclamations. Boxes are shunted into hearses and whirled away. Presently the station is empty, the street deserted. Men in overalls are wiping their brows and telling each other "that was some job."

One hundred and thirty-three other pine boxes lie unnoticed. They are stopping here only a little time, on their way to other cities or to quiet country places.

The Chicago dead will be buried Sunday. And a great city faces the task of getting firing squads, and buglers to blow taps.

LENIN'S LITTLE PAL, FETED $30,000 WORTH, JUGGED AMID TEARS



Max Schallman, confessed pal of Lenin and Trotsky, left many aching aching hearts of business men in his wake before he was put in a cell by Jacob Spolanski of the department of justice. Alleging he possessed the friendship of Russian men of affairs, Schallman made contracts for clothing, machinery, shoes, and automobile trucks that will aggregate $1,200,000,000, it is said.

And Max was MAX SCHALLMAN. "taken care of" to the tune of more than $30,000. A. G. Gates of the Lauer Construction company told federal agents his firm spent $500 showing Schallman a good time. A representative of the London Button company, which got a $1,500,000 contract, said the company gave Schallman $3,000 and spent $30,000 installing new machinery. A. J. Doyle, representing the Hutington Shoe company, said $25,000 had been spent on Schallman in return for a large contract.

GREAT significance is attached to the appointment of Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, who is in Chicago today en route to his new post, to command the forces in defense of Hawaii. In France Gen. Summerall acquired the reputation of being America's most determined fighter. He commanded in sequence the artillery brigade of the Rainbow division, the 1st artillery brigade, the 1st division, and the 5th army corps. The last named organization under his command broke the German resistance in the Argonne Nov. 1, 1918.

"The appointment of Gen. Summerall to command the troops in defense of Hawaii does not necessarily mean that the government expects the Japanese to attack the islands," said an army officer, "but it does mean that the government has appointed the strongest man to defend them in case of the attack. Gen. Summerall will never be caught napping and if attacked will not surrender to any force, however strong.

"In addition to his qualities as a soldier he possesses those of a diplomat and a statesman. He may be expected to persuade the civilian population of the islands to organize in order to be prepared to assist in the defense."

ROBBERS BIND MAN IN OWN HOME; TAKE $550 LOOT

Two robbers lured Frank Macchione, 5473 Lake Park avenue, to the door of his home yesterday morning, struck him, tied him to a bed, and, after ransacking the house, escaped with $300, two watches, and a stickpin valued at $250.

Macchione was called to the door by the ringing of the bell at 6 o'clock. As he opened it the two robbers pointed revolvers at him. One struck him with a revolver and they forced him into the house, where they tied him.

U. S. WANTS JAPS TO TALK ON YAP, SHANTUNG, TOO

Tokio Opposes, but May Yield Later.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Japan's desire to enter the forthcoming Washington conference on eastern questions and limitation of armaments with reservations, and the possibility of postponement of the conference until next spring were considered officially here today.

The administration prefers November as the time for the conference, but recognizes there may be some force to to plea for delay by the British dominion premiers who must return for the opening of their parliaments this fall. The proposals for delay until next spring are understood to have been informal.

Although the dominion premiers are not to participate in the decisive discussions, it is recognized that they wish to be heard. Thus it may not be practical to meet until next spring. Still President Harding and Secretary Hughes hope the British dominion premiers can be here in November.

Reports are reiterated that Japan is willing to participate in the conference, but seeks to eliminate the questions of Shantung and Yap as having been settled at Paris. The United States says no.

SETTLED, JAPAN'S VIEW.

TOKIO, July 21.—By the Associated Press.]—The Japanese cabinet, the Nichi Nichi Shimbun says today, has decided to participate in the proposed Washington conference, not discussing sovereign rights of participants, nor the Shantung and Yap questions, held to have been decided by the Paris peace conference.

According to the Yomiuri Shimbun, Viscount Uchida, foreign minister, told a delegation of peers, from all parts that although Shantung and Siberia were popularly supposed to be included among questions to be discussed at Washington and might be so included, those matters had, in fact, been decided at the Paris conference.

"All Japan has to do at the conference is to present her case openly and candidly. America is not a nation which refuses to withdraw from a position once she is met with argument based on justice. Isolation must be avoided at all costs, but Japan is in no danger."

BRITAIN'S NAVAL POLICY.

LONDON, July 21.—[By the Associated Press.]—Premier Lloyd George declared in the house of commons today it was essential to proceed with replacement of obsolete capital ships.

That necessity, he said, would not be affected by the forthcoming conference on disarmament in Washington, which he assumed, "will be a complete success."

Seventeen year old Catherine Teichtler of 2625 Emerald avenue was drowned at Michigan City yesterday as a tragic climax to her vacation trip. With two sisters, Martha and Lillian, she had gone to the resort town two weeks ago. They were taking a last swim before returning to Chicago. About 200 yards from shore, weakened from battling the heavy undertow, Catherine went under. Coast guards worked over her three hours in a vain effort at resuscitation.

Walter Glumm of 2442 South Wood street was drowned in the lake off Lincoln park when a canoe in which he and J. M. Miller 1834 Hudson avenue, were riding was overturned by the waves.

Mrs. Catherine Piper of 1422 Belmont avenue was rescued from the lake at the foot of Roscoe street by Patrolman Michael Dever of the Lincoln park police after she had jumped into the water to end her life.

Parade Watcher Killed by Police Motorcycle

Thomas G. Dingrillo, 957 North Trumbull avenue, died yesterday of injuries received when he was struck by the motorcycle of Policeman James A. Scott. The accident occurred in front of 1962 Montrose avenue during a parade of the Lincoln avenue and Irving Park boulevard business men.

THE INDICTMENT OF GOV. SMALL.

The indictment of Gov. Len Small on charges of having conspired to defraud the state of $2,000,000 and of having directly embezzled $500,000 of state funds is a case for the courts, not for the newspapers, to try. The governor, under the law, must be presumed innocent until he is proven guilty.

But the governor's statement concerning the indictment, addressed to the people of Illinois, branding the grand jury action as a political conspiracy, and assailing THE TRIBUNE, is properly a subject for comment and refutation.

The governor calls THE TRIBUNE "spokesman for all the interests," and aligns this newspaper with "millionaire tax dodgers" and predatory public utility interests. This is a lie, willful and deliberate, uttered to confuse the one simple issue put plainly by Attorney General Brundage, namely: "Did Small commit a crime?"

THE TRIBUNE'S record of opposition to and victory over the old Yerkes and Lorimer gangs which sought to exploit Chicago and rob Chicago taxpayers is well known. It is sufficient evidence that this newspaper has not been, and is not, the spokesman or supporter of such predatory interests. On the other hand, we have the record of Mr. Small, showing him to have been closely and profitably associated with the Lorimer succession to the Yerkes régime of exploitation through the traction schemes. Later we find him elevated to the highest office in the state through the support of the Lundin-Thompson machine, heir to the Lorimer régime.

And THE TRIBUNE is in a position to prove that this organization, which put Len Small into the gubernatorial chair, and which organized and influenced his administration, has been the beneficiary of large sums of money obtained from the very public utility interests which Gov. Small accuses THE TRIBUNE of supporting in opposition to him.

The governor knows THE TRIBUNE'S record in opposition to predatory public utility interests. The governor knows his own record as the beneficiary of such interests. His tirades against THE TRIBUNE and against the utilities, therefore, is purely false and demagogic. So much for his statement to "the people of Illinois" on the indictment.

Now let the courts decide the simple issue as to whether or not he has committed a crime.

DO NOT HECTOR THE PRESIDENT.

The task for the President involved in the coming international conference is one of the most difficult and momentous ever confronted by an American statesman or perhaps by any other statesman.

It is imperative that all that can be done to free him from embarrassments and to hold up his hands should be done. We think it unwise and improper therefore for the senate to press the state department in the matter of our small force on the Rhine. That is in effect to force our government's hands and perhaps to deprive it of a factor of some influence in future negotiation.

Naturally we want our men back. Naturally we do not like having an armed force in the territory of a nation with which we are on terms of peace. But in fact we are still in a state of transition, with many interrelated questions to be disentangled and solved, and it is the state department rather than the senate that has at least the preliminary difficulties to deal with.

The status and disposition of the Rhine force may involve some delicate consequences. In the senate consideration of them is certain to be complicated by party and political influences which cannot make for firm and wise treatment. We trust this will be realized and the President and state department not hampered by senate action. Mr. Harding and Mr. Hughes, we believe, can be confidently trusted to protect American interests and fulfill American obligations.

NO MORE MONEY FOR THE SHIPPING BOARD.

Congress has been requested to appropriate $125,000,000 for the shipping board for the next six months, with the probability that it will be asked for from $125,000,000 to $175,000,000 additional for the ensuing six months. This money ought not to be appropriated.

If this country is too poor to adjust the compensation of its war veterans, as President Harding has stated, it certainly is too poor to continue throwing more hundreds of millions of dollars into the bottomless pit of shipping board finances, which have already taken and dissipated enough millions to provide a very respectable bonus for every American veteran of the world war.

If the shipping board must have money and cannot earn it, let it sell some of the ships which are listed as resources, but which in reality are liabilities. If it cannot sell these ships, that in itself is sufficient evidence that it is a losing concern which ought not to be maintained longer as a burden to the taxpayers of the nation. It would be utter folly to continue to throw hundreds of millions of dollars annually into the sea as has been done by the shipping board in the last three years in the guise of developing and operating an American merchant marine.

The United States shipping laws, the tendency of American men to prefer a safe and substantial life ashore with their families to a hazardous and inconvenient life at sea, the lack of American foreign trade for which an American merchant marine might provide a delivery system, and other factors are all working against the logical profitable development of an American merchant marine. Until or unless these adverse influences are overcome it will be folly to waste more millions of taxpayers' money on the maintenance of this monument to failure.

TO PUT BUILDING ON A SOUND BASIS.

Judge Landis, with the help of the Building Construction Employers' association, the Associated Builders, and the building trades unions—if he can get it—may be about to achieve the impossible. That is the placing of building construction in the Chicago district on a sound competitive basis requiring full value, full pay, no graft and no artificial barriers from and to every factor in the industry.

The judge's list of principles submitted to the employers and builders as a basis for a new general agreement with employés is so fundamentally just and fair that a refusal to accept it must be taken as prima facie evidence that either the employers or the workers or both prefer the system of graft, corruption, and coercion which has handicapped construction in Chicago and held back the growth of the city for years.

The suggestions provide for just remuneration and proper protection of union labor in its various branches while eliminating the waste and coercive possibilities general under existing agreements. No union man can refuse to subscribe to the judge's principles on the ground that they will work to the disadvantage of organized labor in general. Any objection must be the objection of individuals on personal grounds. Thus some wood butcher might object to being put into direct competition with an expert carpenter, but no group of highly skilled mechanics could reasonably object to having their pay fixed by their efficiency and their comparative importance to the building industry as a whole.

The judge's principles are laid down with reference to general good of the community. Anything which works out for the general good of the community works to the advantage of all the members of the community. These include the building tradesmen and employers as well as shop keepers and manufacturers. If building workers and employers want to act for their own immediate good and the ultimate benefit of their organizations and their city they will adopt the arbitrator's suggestions. If they fail to do so the arbitrator will be entirely justified in refusal to fix a wage scale.

OUR CITIZEN SOLDIERY.

Remarks by Secretary Weeks and by Gen. Pershing on the importance of the regular army's duties in training the national guard will be appreciated by every one who gives intelligent consideration to our problem of defense. There are plenty who do not, and who, like Mr. Wilson, are ready to talk about "a citizenry trained and accustomed to arms," while expecting it to exist without custom or training.

The task of producing a minimum efficiency among citizen soldiery under the voluntary system is perhaps the most difficult confronted by military men anywhere. In the late war the national guard acquitted itself with credit, considering circumstances. But candid guardsmen realize that the guard regiments and divisions did not go into action direct from guard training, but only after a year's additional training. The raw material of soldiership was there to begin with and was of a very high order. What was lacking was a correspondingly high level of trained leadership and organization.

Probably under guard conditions the school of the soldier and of the squad may be adequately provided. The very difficult task is the training of officers, and it is this problem the regular army must try to solve.

Experience, including both successes and failures, of the recent war and the border experience immediately preceding, should have given our professional soldiers some much needed lessons, both in the defects of the guard and of the regular army methods. Among the best minds of the army there is a new spirit and a new comprehension of the factors of the problem, and we trust a real advance will be made under the new régime. But congress has not been much enlightened, and there is danger that there will be failure to realize the importance of the teaching function of the regular army.

If we are to make any respectable attempt at developing a body of citizens from which an army may be made in case of another great war, we must maintain a large body of professional soldiers, commissioned and noncommissioned, whose duty will be the training of civilian soldiers. If a mistaken conception of economy attacks this feature of our defense system, the result will be a return to defenselessness concealed by popular ignorance and fortified by public indifference. That would be a very serious peril, the greater for being known to possible enemies while unknown to ourselves.

THE MOVIE CONTROVERSY.

[Rock Island Argus.]

There is a good deal of hue and cry from the movie producers regarding the futility of censorship as at present established. And no doubt there is reason in what they say. The concentrated efforts of women's clubs which insist upon good shows for children at definite times will do more to get good children's shows into town than can be done in a century by all the misdirected efforts of censors taking bottles of rum out of "Treasure Island" and dictating the time limits of kisses.

There is one point, however, where the observant movie fan can disagree with Jesse Lasky, who has been writing about these things. He says in a current magazine that it is not movies that are the bad influence, but parents who will not discriminate between pictures suitable only for the adult mind and pictures proper for the understanding of children.

What parent of ordinary intelligence could have foreseen, when Jean Webster's charming "Daddy Long Legs" was advertised, that it would have included extraneous scenes so unpleasant as some that were introduced into it? What lover of "Treasure Island," with its harmless blood and thunder, could have guessed that a silly love theme would be introduced to mar its fine unity? A child told her school teacher recently: "Yes, I saw 'Black Beauty,' but mother was disappointed. She told father she was so glad there was going to be one play without love in it, because love is too old for me. Anyhow, I don't care much for it. Then we went, and, sure enough, there had to stick some love in at the end."

It is true there are pictures suitable for adults which are not proper for children. But when the unsuitability is deliberately introduced into stories originally all right, what is one to do? If the movie producers are so ready to censor themselves, won't they change that all pretty soon?

TO A RUBY-THROATED HUMMING-BIRD.

Aristocrat of birds (thy summer spent
Near Arctic snows, thy winter passed beside
The tropic seas—thou and thy dainty bride),
How thou must scorn the zone where we are pent.
Fearless darter through the blue firmament,
I bid thee hail, and here denounce the pride
That in man's heart, like Caliban, doth hide,
Whilst thou upon thy Ariel quests art bent.
Alas! for all the cravings of the soul;
We only in imagination soar,
Only in dreams we taste ambrosial sweets;
But thou, O bird, commander of thy goal,
Dost quaff thy wine within the bright retreats

WE confess a fondness for the robin. Many's the blustering day in March we have seen him perched in his pulpit in some old maple, and listened to him caroling his sermon of returning spring—the resurrection. Perhaps the world is still snowbound and bleak—chill winds and storms. But nothing deters him. He has a message for mankind. If, in disassembling the atoms which compose ye ed, The Maker has no other plans, ye ed will be content if he replaces them in the throat of a robin redbreast.

Hack (the best pal in the world, a black-eyed girl from N'Yawk) and I drove to Green Bay in my brand new chug-chug. We got mixed up, in the maze of bumps at Zion City; but the signs made us laugh so hard we forgot the pain of the bumps! Racine! Kenosha!

We got lost in the city of Milwaukee, and explored coal docks and switch-yards until Hack heard the familiar clicking of the spotted cubes and on a dark corner we discovered eight policemen. They directed us to the Right Road.

Right road; wrong road; back again; right road; wrong turn; dusty whirl; right road; bumps! Must be a town! So we stayed all night at the magnificent Eagle hotel in Menomonee Falls. Stay there yourself sometime, they have yaller curtains in the rooms and it's all right!

West Bend and breakfast; Campbellsport; Eden; Fond du Lac! With tummies full of soda pop, and with more oil and gas we buzzed on our dusty way through what the signs declared "There's only one Oshkosh, and you're in it." Thank heavens! there is only o-n-e!

Had lunch at the Valley Inn, at Neenah: the coolest spot we found on the whole blithering trip. Kimberly; Appleton; Kaukauna; De Pere; and—"haven of rest" Green Bay! Hurrah! We've arrived! The Best Pal in the World, and AMERICANESE teems with whimsical readaptations of words and phrases. One wonders about the origins and the varied etymological adventures. What pedantic purists term slang today may be the accepted speech of tomorrow. Flapper, now in national usage, is of recent coinage.* Perhaps the best explanation of its genesis is to be found in an article in the Sunday Evening Telegram of Nov. 11, 1917:

"Looking through the cookery book, under the heading game, I found flappers. I hadn't the least little bit of an idea what sort of game they were. So I inquired of a shooting man, who told me that flappers were little ducks."

Boodle, now somewhat familiar to readers of Chicago newspapers, is pure Americanese, in its existing sense. It was first used, so far as known, by Stephen Crane, in the phrase, whole kit and boodle. It was probably derived from the Dutch boedel, meaning estates, effects.

Sleuth, the police reporter's darling, also bears the Made In America trademark, and is without orthodox sanction.

You, of course, know the source of bunkum or buncombe. It was, oddly enough, in congress. Buncombe is a county in North Carolina, the member for which once insisted, towards the end of a wearisome debate, in delivering an oration "for Buncombe"—i. e.: to show his constituents he was doing something for them.

Story of a Chicago "Poetess."—A leading publisher tells an amusing story about a Chicago poet known as "Laura Blackburn." That signature stood for lyrics of the Keats and Shelley note which regularly appeared in one of the daily papers, and then were made into a volume. Its admirers were many and sincere, and they resolved to give the poetess a dinner of thanks. She accepted, and the affair, at which ladies as well as gentlemen were present, went without surprise until "Laura Blackburn" was called upon to respond to the toast of her health. It was a big, handsome, rather stout man who uprose, for he was "Laura Blackburn." J. C. M.

SILHOUETTE.

A crowded beach along the lake shore, myriads of people disporting themselves in the water, or lying idly on the sand, all, male and female, very scantily clothed, faces bronzed by the sun, limbs well proportioned, muscular and strong, nobody shocked, seemingly perfectly natural, everyone happy and content, nothing disorderly, life guards poised on high platforms, seated or standing, ready for all emergencies, others in boats keeping watch on swimmers far out, electric lights reflected on the shimmering water, a gorgeous sunset, a crescent moon and Venus shedding its rays over the scene, a vision of beauty, a joy and rest to the tired, oppressed throng. WHAT TO TAKE FOR INSOMNIA.

ARRANGE a comfortable bed in a quiet, dark, well ventilated room. Quiet oneself physically and mentally. Put out the cat and wind the clock. Set the mind for sleep. Crawl in bed. Start the dream machine and lie there and let her run. The milk in the cocoanut is—set the mind for sleep. How can that be done?

Here is the recipe for that: Indulge in no emotions, think about mildly pleasant things, preferably monotonous and somewhat uninteresting things, and—now, read closely and be certain to catch the point—don't give a "continental damn" whether you sleep or not. As soon as you get genuinely in that frame of mind you will sleep.

That's the story.

It is disordered thoughts, emotional urges and anxieties and fears which prevent us from sleeping. Insomnia becomes a phobia with many people. They are insomniacs. They try so hard to sleep that they keep themselves awake. Let them turn loose and see how quickly the trick is turned.

What not to take: First, foremost and most important is sleep producing medicine. I am quoting from Tridon's "Psycho-Analysis of Sleep and Dreams." I wish the insomniacs would read it and also the little books on the same general subject of Bruce and Conat.

Tridon says one of the chief ends of sleep is that we may indulge in the soul luxury of dreams. Spending some hours under the spell of pleasant dreams is like drinking from the fountain of youth. Not so with the dreams of sleep produced by drugs. He says normal sleep is brother to life, but drug induced sleep is indeed akin to death. Hence the horrible feeling which is often experienced when awakening from drug induced sleep.

Among his other don'ts are: Coffee, tea and cocoa, and even chocolate candy in quantities, lack of exercise, indigestion, constipation, all forms of competition or rivalry, physical and mental, at night. All forms of excitement after supper, exciting novels and movies at night. Many people go to bed too early, old people especially, who need comparatively little sleep, are apt to doze in their chairs for an hour or two after supper and then go to bed needing little additional sleep and become worried because they wake up and stay awake for several hours of the night.

A quiet walk after supper or a few hours of quiet conversation or indifferent reading of a paper would be a far better preparation for the few hours of sleep such people require.

One of the novel statements made by Tridon is that we do not need a set number of hours' sleep. We sleep to escape the trying realities of life by spending a season in the pleasant recreation of dreams.

Therefore a few hours of pleasant dreams, dreams unvexed by worries, anxieties or fears, will rest our brains more than ten or twelve hours of slumber which the brain spends in fights induced by mental perturbation.

It is not so much the quantity as the quality of sleep which counts.

WIFE AS A DOCTOR.

T. P. F. writes: "Did you ever hear of deep breathing as a preventive of dizziness? It works. About two and a half years ago, being then a little over 60, I had to stay at home two days because I could not stand or walk. I have had several attacks since. I had a physical examination. The doctor gave me a clean bill of health, but reported very low blood pressure. On a hint from my wife that the trouble was probably due to poor circulation, I took up deep breathing and found that I could avoid an attack any time by starting up my lung action vigorously. Since then I have lost no more time from business and my general health has improved."

REPLY.

Deep breathing is a fine method of temporarily changing the distribution of blood throughout the body. Hope it may continue to give you relief.

REMEDY FOR LUMBAGO.

Mrs. J. C. W. writes: "Two days ago, just after dressing for the day, I stooped over to pick up a bundle of clothes, not heavy, and in the instant of stooping I felt my back give way, causing pain. Since then I cannot stoop or lift anything. I cannot turn in bed except with much caution, and on getting up after sitting in one position awhile cannot straighten up or walk at once. I have had these attacks at infrequent intervals. I am now in my sixtieth year. I have always heard it called a 'crick in the back,' or a 'stitch in the back,' or lumbago. What is it, and what causes it? How can I avoid it? It always comes on suddenly."

REPLY.

You have lumbago. This is rheumatism of the muscles of the back. To prevent such attacks exercise more and change your diet. Relief can be got by massage or by application of light.

BEWARE TYPHUS COOTIES.

J. H. M. writes: "Please publish preventive and treatment for typhus? There are a few cases in our part of the country."

REPLY.

There is no proof that typhus is spread in any way except by lice. Be careful to keep away from lousy people. If you get lice in your head kill them with kerosene. There is an odorless kerosene if you prefer that. Kill nits with hot vinegar. Kill body lice by using the same preparations, but remember that body lice live in the underwear. They can be killed there by heat. Typhus is a severe disease and calls for the best possible treatment by the best available physicians and nurses.

FEEDING EGG TO BABY.

G. V. F. writes: "A raw egg beaten into hot cream of wheat is often accepted by a child who will not touch eggs otherwise. Also a one ounce enema of warm olive oil cures colic in babies quicker than anything I have ever used."

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

LOT FULL OF RUBBISH.

Chicago, July 17.—[Friend of the People.]—We shall appreciate your having an investigation made of the chimney next door to us. It is so low that whenever a south wind blows our apartment is filled with smoke. Also a restaurant, pool room, and a garage have been using the yard next door for a dump. The odor, flies, and smoke have made it impossible for us to open our windows. M. J.

An inspector from this department has made an investigation and has served a notice on the agent to extend the two chimneys on the rear of the stores above the windows of the building on the adjoining lot, and to remove the accumulation of ashes and rubbish from the yard in the rear.
JOHN DILL ROBERTSON,
Commissioner of Health.

MAKE IT SAFE FOR THE WORKMAN.

Chicago, July 19.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a property owner hires a workman to do work about his house and the man is injured while so doing, is the owner liable for damages? 2. If so, how can this be guarded against? Can the workman first be made to give a release to the owner absolving him from any damages in case of accident, or must the owner take out a liability policy even if the work will require only a short time? SUBURBANITE.

1. He would not be liable under the compensation act if the employment is merely casual. The employer would in such case be subject to common law liability for injuries due to his own negligence.

2. As to compensation, if not casual, by insurance. As to common law liability, the safest protection is to keep yourself free from negligence.

THE ILL WIND.

Chicago, July 18.—[Friend of the People.]—The chimney on the house north of us is a nuisance, as when the wind is from the east the smoke blows in our bedroom: the heavy odor of coal gas is noticeable for hours at times. Please give this report to the proper authorities. M. D.

An inspection was made by an inspector from this department, as a result of which a notice was served on the owner to extend the chimney of water heater ten feet and abate nuisance of smoke and gases.
JOHN DILL ROBERTSON,
Commissioner of Health.

THE MODERN DIPLOMAT.

Chicago, July 17.—[Friend of the People.]—Despite the fact that we have reported the property next door as without roof gutters, we do not seem to get relief from the nuisance. An inspector came out once and asked one woman about the place, but she said it was all right because she has a large family and if she had said otherwise would have been notified to move. H. M.

An inspector from this department has notified the owner to remove the obstruction from the sewer between the sink and waste pipe and to repair or provide new roof gutters and down spouts on the building.
JOHN DILL ROBERTSON,
Commissioner of Health.

UNSAFE LANDING.

Chicago, July 19.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I rent the third apartment. About six weeks ago my wife fell through a rotten board in the back stairs platform between the second and third floors. After two weeks the one place was repaired, but another place where the boards are rotten still remains in that dangerous condition, although the landlord has been requested both verbally and in writing to repair it.

What can I do to protect my family against this danger? B. F. W.

The landlord is liable for injuries sustained due to his failure to maintain this part of the premises in a safe condition. You might order the work done and sue him for the cost.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

UNIMPROVED ALLEY.

Chicago, July 18.—[Friend of the People.]—We live on Lunt avenue and behind our property is an alley which is in bad condition. That is, it is very dusty and in wet weather becomes very muddy. We have been wondering if it could not be oiled by the street department.
MRS. J. M. W.

We do not oil unimproved alleys.
THOMAS H. BYRNE,
Superintendent of Streets.

BOARD BILL UNPAID.

Chicago, July 18.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—What are the necessary steps to collect a board bill, due since the summer of 1918? Letters and talks have not been effective. What per cent is the lawyer's fee? I. M.

Put the matter in the hands of an attorney. The fee of 15 per cent is common.

THE CASE OF LIEUT. BEGGS.

Greenville, O., July 20.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Being a subscriber to THE TRIBUNE, I have noted with a great deal of interest and satisfaction your interest toward ex-service men (being an ex-service man myself).

I want to call to your attention a case of a young man by the name of John Beggs, who is now confined in the United States prison at Leavenworth, Kas. The facts as developed are briefly as follows:

John Beggs enlisted as a private early in 1917, shortly after the United States entered the war. He was sent to Europe with one of the early contingents and participated in action in the early engagements of the American forces. He was promoted to the rank of second lieutenant for meritorious service in action.

After the armistice he was stationed in the Rhine zone in command of his platoon. When the opportunity came he applied for his discharge and his request was granted, and before leaving his men he made the rounds to bid them good by, and in doing so it appears that he became intoxicated. It also appears that he happened to be in the vicinity when some one engaged in a little promiscuous shooting at a target in the street of a village accidentally killed two German civilians.

Lieut. Beggs being the only officer near by was arrested, tried and convicted for involuntary manslaughter. The record of the trial shows that he was convicted on perjured testimony of alien-enemy witnesses. The testimony also shows that the Germans were killed by shots from a service rifle, whereas the accused had no service rifle at the time, but was armed solely with a pistol.

C. M. BURTON,
Franklin Tractor Company.

Mr. Burton also shows correspondence to indicate that Beggs, having served two years in prison, has twice been refused clemency by the government—once by Secretary Baker and this year by Secretary Weeks.

WHAT DOES HE MEAN, "THINKING"?

Chicago, July 14.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Why is it that on Monday you advertised President Harding as being in favor of disarmament in large headlines on the front page, and then on Wednesday you inserted an item in a microscopic paragraph on an inconspicuous page about his signing a large naval appropriation bill?

Persons who do their own thinking have long ago concluded that government officials are merely office boys for the idle rich and that you are the kept press. GEORGE WILKINSON.

THE AMERICAN LEGION AND JACK JOHNSON.

Boone, Ia., July 19.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—It was with deep regret that I read in THE TRIBUNE that an American Legion post in Chicago had entertained Jack Johnson and had, in the event of a bout between him and Dempsey, promised him their support and backing.

I am a member of the American Legion and probably as bitter against Dempsey as any one could be, but I will be frank and say that whenever the American Legion, as an official body, lines up behind Jack Johnson, and allows the name of the American Legion to be used in conjunction with a Negro only recently released from prison, where he has been confined for violation of the White Slave act, as low a crime as one could be convicted for, then I am ready to withdraw my membership. A LEGION MEMBER.

WHY CONDEMN THE ENTIRE LEGION FOR THE ACTION OF ONE POST!

Chicago, July 19.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I served one year in the service and am a Legion member. But when I read in the Chicago papers that the Sol-Sai-Mar post issued a statement backing Jack Johnson in the hope that he would take the title from Jack Dempsey I grew so nauseated that I wished I had never worn a Legion button. JOSEPH BUSH.

DANGERS OF A SMILE FOR A RIDE.

Chicago, July 19.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have read the letters recently published in THE TRIBUNE signed by "Business Girl," "Sheridan Reader," and "Michigan Avenue Worker," all in regard to the morality of a smile for a ride. As one who has had some experience in riding with strangers during the car strikes and since I will say that it is not a good arrangement for the average girl to smile for a ride. This is borne out by many girl friends who have had similar experiences. Of course, if a girl wishes to play with fire that is her lookout. "Michigan Avenue Worker" no doubt reads the papers and certainly must have read of the many tragedies originating in girls accepting rides from strangers in autos. There is not much danger to the girl with real long skirts, heavy tortoise shelled glasses, and waffragette hat. But the up to date girl with "modern clothes," etc., had better have a care.

The gentlemanly auto owner who carries a number of girls and a man of 35 in the front seat referred to by "Michigan Avenue Worker" is entitled to credit and I hope there are many more of his kind, but I fear that the auto flirt as a rule looks for "good looking" girls, and the "vamps" overlook the flivvers. MONUMENT TO PHILANTHROPY

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PEKING, July 21.—The American Red Cross has passed the first stage in relieving famine conditions in the western end of Shantung province, in the southern end of Chihli province and in Shansi province. All its work has been done in sections in a day's journey or more removed from the two north and south railways which skirt or penetrate the famine district.

Besides the roads constructed countless farms will have a permanent monument in the form of a well watering their small acreage, one brick near the top of which will read in Chinese: "American Red Cross; Well No. ——."

In all perhaps 50,000 wells will be dug before the summer is over. Each costs $37.50 U. S. gold, $15 gold being paid by the Red Cross, the balance in several years by the farmer. The idea is believed to have originated with the Rev. Francis J. Griffith, a Church of England missionary, who is feeding 205,000 famine victims in the counties of Ting Chow, An Ping, An Kuo, Shen Chai, Wu Chi and Chu Yang, where another crop failure this spring left an already undernourished population utterly destitute.

These wells contain six feet of water, capable of watering 3½ acres, being eight feet in diameter at the bottom and five feet at the top, all brick lined.

Most of the 430 miles of roadway constructed by the American Red Cross was in the western end of Shantung province, the lower end of Chihli province, with two important stretches in Shansi province. In most cases the right of way was purchased by the province and thus will become a permanent county road. In Shantung province the Japanese spied and blockaded the work. Naturally they were jealous of any monument to American philanthropy in a province they have chosen for their own. Oliver Julian Todd, field manager, repeatedly met with sly Japanese opposition to the Red Cross work, such as presents to the magistrates, who thereafter lost interest in obtaining the right of way. Thus the roads east of the Tientsin-Pukow railway running parallel with and midway between the Chihli boundary and the Yellow river are built in places on ground not acquired by the province. There is therefore the possibility that the land will be reclaimed by the farmers.

West of the Tientsin-Pukow railway there was no trouble over the right of way and the road from Techow via Lintsingchow to Tamingfu in Chihli province, with its many lateral branches has become a permanent highway. This road also extends westerly from Tamingfu across Chihli province to Hantan, on the Peking-Hankow railway and provides the first motor road in that portion of Chihli.

HARDING BILL ON ALLIED DEBTS MEETS DELAY

Senators Ask Mellon for All Facts.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—The administration's refunding bill was held up today by a call from the senate finance committee on Secretary Mellon for additional and more definite information as to past commitments with respect to the nation's foreign loans.

Secretary Mellon was requested by the committee to examine all records of negotiations and agreements made by the Wilson administration regarding both the principal and interest payments on all loans made to the allied governments and advise the committee of the extent to which such negotiations and agreements deprive the treasury of freedom of action.

Knows of No Compact.

Secretary Mellon stated that, so far as refunding negotiations conducted by former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Rathbone for this government and Mr. Brackett for the British government were concerned, there had been no commitment of this government. Mr. Mellon said that he could not outline definite plans, but would attempt to collect all principal and interest now owed the United States, "taking care of all rights we have."

"Did Secretary Houston exceed his authority when he agreed to postpone interest payments?" Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina, inquired.

"I prefer not to express an opinion," Mr. Mellon replied. "If I had authority I would not proceed upon that plan. It is cumbersome."

Won't Take German Bonds.

Replying to an inquiry from Senator Simmons as to the policy with reference to the substitution of security and postponement of interest payments, Secretary Mellon stated he had "no expectation of accepting German bonds," and would expect to collect "all interest legally due the United States."

Should congress prefer a commission or other agency, he would interpose no objection, Mr. Mellon stated, adding, "You cannot make a good piece of work out of it without having authority."

'BLUE SKY LAW' UPHELD BY STATE SUPREME COURT

The Illinois securities act, commonly known as the "blue sky law," was held constitutional by the Illinois Supreme court yesterday. The case decided originated in Rock Island county. B. A. Stewart sued David Brady for the return of $200 paid for stock. The court ordered Brady to return the $200 and to pay in addition $100 attorney's fees for Stewart and $13.33 interest.

Brady's attorneys attacked the "blue sky" law as unconstitutional, contending the $13.33 interest should not have been allowed, as provided under that law. The Supreme court decided against the contention.

"This decision is a great victory," said Attorney Charles C. Bartlett, who until recently has been conducting all blue sky matters for Attorney General Brundage.

'SPENDINGS TAX' LATEST PLAN TO AID UNCLE SAM

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—A "spendings tax" is advocated by Representative Mills of New York as a substitute for the present surtaxes on incomes. Mr. Mills said today that his plan will solve the tax exempt security problem; that it will promote thrift and discourage extravagance; that it has the virtues of the sales tax without the attendant evils, that it does away with the discriminatory burden now laid on partnerships as compared with corporations; that it will yield as much as the present surtaxes, and that it should prove easier to administer.

These Purchases Exempt.

The "spendings" tax as provided in the Mills bill is a tax on all expenditures for personal, living, and family purposes of every citizen or resident of the United States made during the calendar year, but not including the following items:

[a] All the ordinary and necessary expenses of carrying on a business, trade, or profession.

[b] Taxes, except spending taxes.

[c] Gifts for charitable or educational purposes.

[d] Medical and dental services and funeral expenses.

How Proposed Tax Works.

An exemption of $2,000 is allowed to a single man or woman, and one of $4,000 to the head of a family, or to a person having one or more persons wholly dependent on him or her for support.

The tax is imposed at a graduated rate, which increases 1 per cent for every $2,000 spent up to $18,000, and thereafter 1 per cent for each additional $1,000 spent up to $50,000. All spendings in excess of $50,000 are taxed at the rate of 40 per cent.

The tax is not made applicable to the spendings of the year 1921, but in order to meet the existing emergency the bill provides that the largest rate of surtax on income received from the date of the signing of the act to the end of the calendar year shall be 25 per cent. After 1921 all surtaxes on income are abolished, and the spendings tax substituted therefor.

Voliva Seeks to Establish Nonpeekaboo Dress Style

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion City, seeks to be the fashion arbiter of the world. He has called a meeting of all girls and women more than 14 years old to tell them how to dress. He also plans establishment of the Zion fashion bureau, where styles for women will be designed that will not reveal any portion of the anatomy between the collar bone and the ankle. The Zion department store has been ordered not to purchase any more peekaboo waists or stockings.

SALE OF SERIES PLAYERS' IDEA, BURNS ASSERTS

Declares Cicotte Made First Overture.

that Bennett is another man and not my client Zelser."

Q.—Who else was present at that time? A.—Jean Dubuc and Fred Toney.

Q.—When was this conversation? A.—Two days before the series.

Q.—What did they meet you for? A.—They came to arrange for fixing the world's series.

Q.—What did Attel say? A.—He asked me to go to Cincinnati to see the players. Bennett also wanted to see what kind of a deal he could make with them. I told him I would go and see.

Q.—Did Bennett say anything about who he represented? A.—Yes, he said he represented Rothstein and was handling the money for him.

Q.—Was anything else said? A.—I asked Attel how it was that he had been able to get Rothstein in when I had failed.

Q.—What did he say? A.—He said he had once saved Rothstein's life and that the gambler was under obligations to him.

Q.—At the time you were at the hotel was any mention made of money? A.—Yes; $100,000.

Q.—In what way? A.—Bennett said Rothstein had agreed to go through with everything.

Q.—Just what was said in reference to the $100,000? A.—They were to pay that to the players for the series.

Q.—What was said? A.—Bennett said he would handle the money, and that Attel would arrange for the betting.

Cross-Examination Starts.

Attorney Michael Ahern began the cross-examination.

Q.—You said you had gone to see the players about fixing the games. Where was that? A.—Cincinnati.

Q.—You hadn't seen any players before you got to Ohio, had you? A.—I had Gandil's word for it that they were in.

Q.—Isn't it true that you were going to Cincinnati to see if you could make a dicker with the players?

"Yes or no!" shouted Ahern, when the witness hesitated.

"He doesn't have to answer 'yes' or 'no,'" objected Attorney Tyrrell.

"Let him answer it his way," ruled Judge Friend.

Attorney Ahern withdrew the question. "Isn't it a fact," he said, "that Attel and Bennett wanted you to go to Cincinnati to dicker with the players? Yes or no."

"Let him answer his own way," said Judge Friend.

"Isn't this court going to allow me to cross-examine this witness?" asked the attorney, heatedly. He resumed his questioning.

Insists Players Suggested Sale.

Q.—When you went to Cincinnati you proposed the conspiracy to the players. A.—I did not.

Q.—You talked of an offer of $100,000 made by Attel and Bennett. A.—That was the players' proposition.

The cross-examination was finished by Attorney Max Lusker. He was unsuccessful in his attempt to have Burns' testimony concerning his client erased from the records.

The crowd became almost uncontrollable as the cross-examination finished and attorneys began making motions asking that portions of Burns' testimony, both in direct and redirect examination, be stricken from the records. His testimony, however, was allowed to stand. His references to Cicotte, Gandil, and Bennett in New York were upheld.

Burns was then allowed to leave the stand. He will be kept at hand by the state so that he can be recalled for questioning if necessary. The attorneys for the state were jubilant at their victory.

Only three errors of importance were marked against Burns during the day. The first came when he admitted under the cross-examination of Attorney Thomas Nash that he had been mistaken when he said he had met the Sox players the evening after the first game of the series. Thursday he said he had seen them at the Hotel Sinton, Cincinnati.

Q.—Didn't you say you saw them after the first game? A.—I ain't saying.

Nash then declared he would have the witness impeached as a perjurer. Later Burns asked permission to change his testimony, saying he had made a mistake. This permission was granted.

The defense attempted to prove that "Billy" Maharg of Philadelphia, who is in Chicago waiting to be called as a witness, is in reality "Peaches" Graham, former Cub catcher. They assert Maharg is in reality Graham spelled backward.

Another charge was that Moharz and Burns had a secret contract to split the $10,000 reward offered by Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, for the conviction of the Black Sox players.

During cross-examination by Attorney Lusker Burns asked permission to change certain of his testimony relative to the time he last saw Bennett. This was allowed. Lusker spent his full time attempting to shake off the testimony against his client, Zelser. Some of his questions follow:

Q.—When did you see Bennett first? A.—In the Ansonia hotel in 1919.

Q.—When last? A.—About a week ago I saw his back in Chicago. He was about 200 yards away.

Burns to Be Paid Twice.

Q.—You have a good memory, have you? You are able to remember a man after two years' time? A.—I can remember faces.

Q.—Backs, too, I suppose? A.—I did this man.

Q.—By the way, where were you going to get your reward for fixing games? A.—The players and also Attel.

Q.—You were to be paid by Attel? A.—Yes.

Q.—By the players? A.—Yes.

Q.—You didn't think that was double crossing, did you? A.—No.

Q.—You were to get a slice both ways, eh? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you tell the players? A.—No. It was none of their business.

Q.—You were afraid you would lose if you told them, weren't you? Burns did not answer.

Attorney Short then took up the examination. He forced Burns to admit that one of the reasons he was testifying against the defendants was that they had double crossed him.

Burns Figures to Get even.

Q.—You told Gandil you would spill the beans if they didn't come through with your share, didn't you? A.—I told a man later in a smoking car on the way back to Cincinnati. I don't remember his name.

Q.—The players double crossed you, didn't they? A.—Yes.

Q.—Well, you double crossed them. A.—Not until they crossed me.

Q.—Is that a reason for your testifying? A.—One of them.

Q.—Then it is not for the purity of baseball? A.—Well, they double crossed me and I would have been the fall guy for the whole outfit.

Q.—If the players had been crooked you would have been satisfied. Do you think you are even with the boys now? A.—I am liable to be before I leave here.

HE'S a hobo, is Robert Crawford. And in token of his bumming ability he and Arthur B. Smith, his friend, were presented with a cup and a $100 cash prize for 'boing their way from Hoquaim, Wash., to Chicago for a total expenditure for food and travel of $1.80 a piece. Both are delegates to the twenty-fourth biennial conclave of the Kappa Sigma fraternity, which will complete its convention this evening with a banquet at the Congress hotel. Husband's Message of His Death Wins Wife Decree

A telegram announcing the death of her husband, written by himself, won a divorce for Mrs. Isabella La Faive, 1427 North La Salle street, yesterday before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court. They had been separated for a few weeks, she said. When she received the message she hurried to their home. He told her it was only a joke.

DAILEY SLEUTHS FIND COMBINE OF MATERIAL MEN

Several leading building material men, alleged to have formed a combine that is largely responsible for high building costs in Chicago, face indictment when the special grand jury reconvenes Monday, Assistant State's Attorney Thomas J. Peden said yesterday.

"Investigators representing the Dailey legislative commission have, during the last two weeks, accumulated a mass of evidence we believe will warrant indictments against many building material men," Mr. Peden said. "We believe the evidence is such as will result in convictions."

The corps of special investigators has been working under the direction of William Cody, former federal agent and Burns Detective agency operative.

How to judge an investment house

An investment banker buys bonds in the capacity of a merchant—to sell again. He is judged as any merchant should be, by the quality of the goods in which he deals, no less than the service he renders to the customer who buys them.

If you choose for your investment counselors a house in which you can place entire trust and confidence, you can rely on the securities offered. When you deal with this House you may know the bonds you buy have measured up to the rigid standard of conservative men who have spent a lifetime in studying securities and markets.

We are glad to be judged by the issues we offer. It may be greatly to your advantage to substitute some of them for your present holdings. Without obligation, we shall be pleased to check over your list. 'Phone, call, or write

FRANCO-BRITISH SILESIAN VIEWS DIFFER WIDELY

England Desires Supreme Council Meeting.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, July 21.—The Silesian situation is still causing anxiety here. The French have replied to the English suggestion for a meeting of the supreme council July 28 by saying it would be impossible to meet until after Aug. 15, urging that in the meantime England appoint experts to report on the partition of Silesia and send troops to reinforce those already there.

Fear French Control.

The British now are considering seriously the possibility of having to send such troops, on the ground that if the French take charge of Upper Silesia without the restraining influence of British troops they would be likely to act provocatively, creating a situation which would compel more serious intervention later.

There is no longer any effort to conceal the fact that the British and French are on the eve of a serious dispute over the French policy toward Germany. The British believe the French are doing everything in their power to provoke the Germans in Silesia into revolt, thus justifying further seizure of territory, and they are determined not to be involved in any such measures.

REPLY SHOCKS PARIS.

PARIS, July 21.—French official circles received a distinct shock from the British government's reply to the French suggestion that allied reinforcements be sent to Upper Silesia, and in some quarters today Anglo-French relations are described as critical as a result.

The French government is said to have been unprepared for "the severity and unyielding tone" that this morning's newspapers indicate characterizes the British communications.

While most newspapers agree that the incident brings Anglo-French relations to another delicate point, Le Journal says the problem is not insoluble and in its final analysis not of a nature to seriously trouble the comity of allied relations.

TRIES TO STOP ELEVATOR, KILLED.

His attempt to stop an upward moving elevator in the building of E. V. Price & Co., 319 West Van Buren street, cost the life yesterday of Hakon Hendrickson, 52 years old, 2007 Point street, an elevator operator, when he plunged four floors to his death.

TOO STRONG

"Rich Man's Samson" Nabbed by U. S. on Mail Fraud Charges.

R. LEO WANGER.

R. LEO WANGER of Winnetka, physical culture instructor and strong man, was held in bonds of $2,500 yesterday after he had been arrested in Joliet on charges of using the mails to defraud. According to federal officials Wanger would organize gymnasium classes, six lessons for $20, then flit with the fees. He had planned a class in Joliet.

One of Wanger's circulars tells of the mighty strength developed by various prominent Chicagoans with his aid. Among others he names Potter Palmer, Honoré Palmer, Nathan Swift, Marvin Hughitt, Vernon Booth, James A. Patten, Alexander H. Revell, James B. Clow, George Lytton, and John J. Abbott, giving their chest measurements "before and after."

The federal agents are checking up on these names. At the Patten home it was stated Wanger "never had been heard of."

BLAME FLY POISON FOR DEATH.

A verdict of accidental poisoning by arsenic was returned by a coroner's jury at an inquest yesterday into the death of Patrick F. Perrault, 18 months old, 516 West 70th street, June 26. The child is believed to have sipped from a saucer in which some fly poison had been poured.

INDUSTRIAL HOPE OF GERMANY IN EXPORT TRADING

BY JOSEPH IRWIN FRANCE.

[Copyright: 1921: By the Baltimore Sun.]

BERLIN, June 24.—[By Mail.]—I wished while here, in addition to talking with industrial and financial leaders, to see one of the typical manufacturing establishments so long great factors in world trade, even though the time is hardly present for a detailed comparison of their methods with those of American competitors. The expression of the wish was enough; this morning a car called for me, and, after traversing the western section of the city, I found myself entering what is in reality a community sufficient unto itself.

About the great factories and warehouses of one of the largest electrical machinery houses in the world—it employs 30,000 people, supporting, that is, about 80,000—lie the well kept homes of the employés, their several churches and schools and trim parks and playgrounds, with the usual massing together of stores and professional offices such as you would see in any city of this magnitude. The whole community goes by the name of the founder of these varied plants rolled into one. Through two of the plants I went, one which turns out huge dynamos of the largest type for use by street railway companies and the like; the other a plant for telephone equipment, measuring apparatus and equipment for scientific laboratories, all devices of the most delicate adjustment.

Many Employés Women.

In previous tours I had seen plenty of common labor, but in this establishment I saw employés of extremely high character and intelligence, and it was a treat to observe the fidelity and pains with which men and women alike applied themselves closely to the smallest task set for them. Many were women; probably three-fourths of those in the second shop, where the lighter equipment was being made—a proportion which has increased considerably as a result of the war.

The point of interest for me, as applying to America, was whether establishments of such great capacity could continue to operate on the present scale and advance to an even larger rate of production, for on their ability to do so depends Germany's ability not only to fulfill her own external obligations but to enjoy the purchasing power which will let her buy from us the goods we have to sell her. On this I talked at some length with the active head of the great enterprise—one of that rare type of scientist-business man combined, so seldom encountered outside of Germany. I found him well informed and eagerly interested in political questions as well, as today an industrial leader must be.

Finds Future Uncertain.

Up to now, he explained, it had been possible to operate at a fair percentage of capacity, but the future he found far from certain. The reason is clear, for a company turning out goods on such a huge scale, particularly goods of this character, must look to the export trade for a great part of its market. The home market does not contain enough consumers.

Then he reviewed some of the difficulties of export—on top of shipping and credits troubles and the general difficulty of finding a buyer with cash. The United States, Canada, England, and Spain, for example, were all in various stages of erecting high protective tariff walls over which a German producer must strive to clamber. France has gone further and has flatly barred all goods of German manufacture; other European countries can buy little until their purchasing power is increased. This brought us to the subject in which I am most interested on this trip—the Russian purchases. And thereon he was quite explicit.

Depends on Russian Market.

He expressed himself as convinced that Germany's ability to make the reparations payments and thereafter become able to buy and sell in the world markets must depend largely on whether the Russian market can be opened. Without Russia buying from Germany and being enabled to buy through American support he could not see where Germany was to find a large buyer. This, he felt, was the log which must be pried loose before the world jam could break. I learned that his company had already done a little business with Russia, but that this was a mere drop.

He employed the terms of his own industry, but the idea was identical with that presented by the cotton factor of whom I wrote a few days ago and by men from other industries. Russia, he pointed out, has large quantities of raw materials still largely in the hands of the original producers. They will be visible and available the moment methods are found for laying before the peasant producer the foreign made goods which he happens to wish in exchange. You come straight back to the thesis that before the world can lurch back on its feet, its weak spot, Russia, must be cured by restoring trade circulation.

Gets Copper from Russia.

This man, making electrical goods, was naturally interested in copper. It may be remembered that Germany used to be a large consumer of American copper; our copper interests, with hoards of metal they can't sell and hordes of miners they can't find work for, may be interested to know that this man, unable to buy from America because we are still "at war" with Germany, has already taken his initial shipment from Russia.

BOHOL ISLAND NATIVES WANT U. S. TO REMAIN

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BAYBAY, P. I., July 20.—The Wood-Forbes mission to the Philippine islands has found the happiest people in the world. They live in Bohol island, in the southern Philippine group, and they were so delighted to see the Americans that they decorated their homes along a hundred miles of coast and highway. Everyone was dressed in his best in honor of the distinguished Americans.

Bohol contains 350,000 inhabitants. It is a mountainous island cut off from the rest of the world by a barrier of reefs and shoals. The people are contented with their lot. In the uplands the soil is rich and there is a more equable climate than in most regions here. Along the sea immense cocoanut groves and rice fields are found. Here the people cannot starve or freeze. They have material for building their homes at hand and there is food for the taking. They grow tobacco and make their own wine.

Benefits from U. S. Rule.

America has given the people of the island schools and roads which are as good as those found in advanced communities in the United States. In other parts of the islands a group of politicians pretend to speak for the people in asking for independence from the United States, but Gen. Wood's investigation here has developed that the people do not want it despite resolutions and orations to the contrary.

An incident which happended in one small town is a good example of the situation here. About two months ago when the people first heard the mission was coming they held a meeting and after a debate voted unanimously against presenting an independence resolution. Yet at a meeting yesterday Col. McCoy was presented with a resolution asking for independence. The man who had written it was found to be a right hand man of Manuel Quezon. Many of the people could not understand the resolution, which was written in Spanish, and when they learned its meaning they voted it down.

People Are Satisfied.

The people in the district had few complaints to present to the commission and these were almost always against some oppression or crime committed against the people by their own Filipino leaders. Their loyalty to America is apparent.

In an address Gen. Wood said: "Do not be led away by agitators and foolish thinkers. Remember what you were thirty years ago and what you are today. Build for solidarity by studying the English language hard. Then begin to think and work alive. You must stand for the poor man against the rich man who tries to steal your land."

Americans here call this island paradise and think there is room for more Americans here to develop and lead the people.

POISON TAKEN BY ERROR KILLS.

A mistake a week ago by which she took poison tablets instead of headache medicine resulted in the death yesterday of Mrs. Dorothy Castelli, 30 years old, 1111 Cambridge avenue.

Prices realized on Swift & Company sales of carcass beef in Chicago for week ending Saturday, July 16, on shipments sold out, ranged from 7.75 cents to 17 cents per pound and averaged 12.89 cents per pound.—Adv.

QUALITY: Rather shoddy.
PHOTOGRAPHY: Fine.
DIRECTION: Give the director a clever story sometime and we'll see what we shall see.
STORY: Regular old stuff. Stolen bonds, beautiful girl, busy crooks, conscienceless vampire, bustling detective, murder, innocence suspected, villains caught at last. You know—same old stuff.
ACTING: Some of it vurr' good and some of it pretty bad. Rod La Rocque, Mr. Gilmour, Arline Pretty, and Nita Naldi are good. Not all the rest are bad. You'll know who's what when you see 'em.
REMARKS: It seems a shame to waste time and money on a picture like "Life." Everybody likes GOOD melodrama now and then, but we're educated up to the point where we must HAVE them good. Give us a run for our patronage. Make us shudder. Allow us a tear now and then. Let us grit our teeth with anger and tremble with pity. But for Fido's sake, don't just hand us a little weak blood and thunder and expect to get away with it!
We got our rights!

CLOSEUPS

Tom Moore has just finished three pictures. They are "Mr. Barnes of New York," "Beating the Game," and "From the Ground Up."

Rex Ingram recently visited a little town in southern California, where he says all they do is look for hootch and each other.

Universal wants stories. When writing remember what their stars are like.

Monroe Salisbury, the dark, handsome gentleman, you remember, will star himself in a new picture to be produced by his own company. It will have a Spanish setting.

A number of people will be interested to learn that Marjorie Daw has been signed up by Irvin V. Willat to play the leading feminine rôle in "Fifty Candles."

Teddy, seeing the first watermelons of the season, clapped his chubby

Hazel was spending a few days with her grandma. But grandma, not being used to it, forgot the good-night kiss when bedtime came, until she was reminded of it on the second night in this wise. Just as she turned away after tucking the little one in bed, a plaintive, homesick voice, said: "My mamma always kisses me when she puts me to bed." M. E.

May and Maude were attending their first party. Their idea of a party was tables of ice cream, candies, cakes, etc. After watching the kitchen door for some time and not seeing any hopes of her expectations being realized, May called across the room to Maude: "Come on, Maude. Let's go home. they aren't going to have anything to eat." M. L.

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—"O, may there be some cheering of the bar when I put out to sea," —it is thus that the modern mermaid renders the poet's solemn lines. At all events, bars or stripes—whichever you prefer to call them—are frequently seen on the new bathing suits, particularly those of taffeta.

We are showing today one of these striped taffetas in a combination of jade green and black. The scalloped skirt is bound in self-material, and the cap is equally agreeable to the idea of stripes. The voluminous sash is of black taffeta.

But in spite of the popularity of the figured silks for bathing it may still be said that black in crêpe de chine, satin, or taffeta remains the favorite with some of the most fashionable of sea-going folks and that the responsibility of color is put up to accessories such as cape and parasol.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

UNHAPPY: YOU ARE OVERLY sensitive about yourself. You must get over that—first thing. If you don't put a good estimate on yourself, you may be sure the other fellow won't. And then when you have that pride you are more interested in a hygienic system of living so as to appear better all the time. But ever so many girls have complexion troubles and get over them with a little attention to the foods they eat, to taking exercises that better the circulation, and drinking water to help the bowels and kidneys do their daily work of elimination. Your constipation trouble undoubtedly causes your complexion ills and that despondency of spirit. Eat less starchy foods, white breads, greasy meats, and pastries. Substitute vegetables, fruits, and bran breads. The best regulators of the bowels are coarse food and water. Food rich in vegetable acids—as lemons, oranges, tomatoes, apples, other fruits, and fruit juices—help wonderfully. Vegetable and fruit salads served with olive oil are excellent. The oil is laxative.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

The Blue Plum.

Unless berries come down to us from the Hudson Bay territory this year or the developments of the next month or two show that the everbearing strawberry and everbearing raspberry are being raised on a commercial scale, any sort of a berry will be a scarce thing in the market after Aug. 1. In some years we have made note of their presence in the market even up to October.

In eating the blue plum, or fresh prune out of hand, when it is as sweet as it is this year, it is quite possible to get a suggestion of the blueberry from it. Getting this suggestion, perhaps you will try cutting it up and serving it with sugar and cream. It is a pleasant alternate of peaches and cream.

A cupful of these plums, cut fine, may be added to a cup cake of the standard formula, with the milk considerably scanted, or to a sweet muffin batter. The cup cake may be baked in a sheet like gingerbread, or in muffin tins.

The cup cake formula is: One cup of sugar, one-half cup of butter, two eggs, two cups of flour, and from two to four teaspoons of baking powder, according to your skill; one-half cup of milk, which in this case may be reduced to about two tablespoons or not more than four. The eggs and the wet fruit supply a good deal of moisture.

Before cutting up the plums they should be thoroughly washed, drained, and dried, and the finely cut pieces floured before adding them to the cake next to the last thing, or before the beaten egg whites are folded in. Wash each plum separately, rubbing it gently between the thumb and fingers. It carries a good deal of dirt.

The best of plum jam is made by baking the plums without water, sieving, and then cooking the pulp with sugar.

The Boss Comes Home.

In my position as office boy, I had charge of the stamp box, and mailed all letters and packages. It was the day before Christmas and, kidlike, I was fondly hoping the boss would come across handsomely.

When he called me to his private office and said, "Here, Johnny, is 50 cents," I came back quickly, although I thought the amount insignificant, with a "thank you, sir," only to have him finish the sentence by adding, "This is for the stamps Mrs. M. got this morning."

My embarrassment lasted until closing time, when my good old boss said to the bookkeeper: "Make out a check for yourself for $50 and one for Johnny for $25.

DORIS BLAKE'S ANSWERS

She's Playing Fair.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been going with a girl for nearly two years and we are considered engaged, although she has no ring. Quite a while ago she met a fellow who paid a lot of attention to her, and now that he has moved out of town the two of them are corresponding rather freely. Whenever she gets a letter from him she asks me if I want to read it. I read one or two of them, but I don't know whether it is right for me to read them or not, so I am leaving that question for you to answer.

"WALT."

That is playing quite squarely, I think. Perhaps you have not made it clear to her you feel you are engaged. That would be the first step to take, and then if the letters irritate you, ask her to stop writing to the chap.

Louis Victor Saar Plays for Singers of His Own Songs

LOUIS VICTOR SAAR furnished a variant on the normal recital at the Ziegfeld theater yesterday morning. Instead of exploiting the executant as its reason for being, this was a program of Mr. Saar's own compositions for voice. He accompanied at the piano, the vocal parts being interpreted singly or in juxtaposition by Naomi Nazor McLain, Anne Leonard, and Fleeda Newton Alberti.

Mr. Saar has long been known as a composer of ideas and versatility. Yesterday's program was entertaining not only because of the music, but of the fresh, youthful voices that sang it.

There were solos, duets, and trios, quite generally exhibiting a fine talent for melody, skillfully handled. Occasionally memory was an obstacle in the path of inspiration, but this was more than offset by the fact that Mr. Saar knows how to capture, reproduce, and project a mood.

President's Doctor Urges House to Pass Bill to Aid Mothers

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. Sawyer, physician to the President, appeared before the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce this morning as a champion of the Sheppard-Towner bill. He said there would be no interference by the children's bureau with the public health service under the bill.

"Matters having to do with contagious disease belong in the public health service," said Dr. Sawyer, "but this bill provides for the sociological side of the subject."

He added that there should be a sympathetic understanding between the public health service and the children's bureau and saw no reason for any conflict of authority.

According to Dr. Sawyer the welfare work of the states would be greatly helped by having a national bureau. Upon being questioned by members of the committee, he reiterated his belief that the administration of the work should be vested in the children's bureau and expressed confidence in the bureau's chief, Miss Julia Lathrop of Chicago.

"FIRST FRIENDS" FOR VETERANS IS PLAN OF ADAMS

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—A nation-wide campaign to enlist "first friends" for every disabled veteran returned to civil life by the vocational training service was advocated today by Myron Adams of Chicago before the senate committee investigating the neglect of ex-service men.

Mr. Adams would appeal to influential citizens, particularly employers, throughout the country to help the government in getting results from vocational training. Many a broken veteran, rehabilitated by the government, will fall by the wayside in the race for a livelihood unless some person of influence and means becomes his "first friend" and sees to it that he gets a fair fighting chance, Mr. Adams said. The "first friends" aid must not be charitable or patronizing, he said, but it must consist chiefly of "manly helpfulness."

Medical Attention "Rotten."

Facilities for the care and treatment of disabled veterans in Illinois are inadequate, he declared. His chief complaint concerned the medical treatment furnished by the public health service to disabled veterans in vocational training. He characterized this medical treatment as "rotten." At Fort Sheridan, he said, he had several hundred disabled veterans under vocational training. It took four days to get the public health service to assign a doctor to attend the men. Finally one doctor was detailed to Fort Sheridan, but he was a strict "union" man and quit work promptly when his eight hours were up, Mr. Adams testified.

Mr. Adams declares that there is not a district in the United States today where there are not "more men who ought to be in hospitals than there are inside hospitals receiving treatment."

1,200 Need Attention.

He estimated that in the Chicago district there are now between 1,000 and 1,200 disabled veterans suffering from mental disorders who could be greatly helped and restored to a useful place in society if the government would provide proper facilities.

The house today agreed to the request of the senate for a conference to adjust differences over the Sweet bill. The managers on the part of the house will be Representatives Sweet, Iowa; Winslow, Massachusetts; Parker, New York, Barkley, Kentucky, and Rayburn, Texas. The senate conferees are Senator Smoot, Utah; Senator Calder, New York, and Senator Walsh, Massachusetts. They will meet probably tomorrow, and it is expected they will be ready to present the bill in its final form early next week.

BOYS PLEAD GUILTY TO LARCENY.

Edward Lech and Robert Bart, both 18 years old, were sentenced to from three to twenty years in the Pontiac reformatory when they pleaded guilty to robbery before Judge Hugo Pam yesterday. They held up Frank Pacovsky, 5007 South Robey street, on May 14, and took his automobile and $17.

WISCONSIN FOR MEMORY TREES ALONG ITS ROADS

BY LEOLA ALLARD.

Madison, Wis., July 21.—[Special.]—Wisconsin is as proud of its trees as some people are of their children. They are extremely interested in lining them up along the roadside, in memory of the soldiers that Wisconsin sent to the world war, and marking them with the names of these men. Eau Claire, Wis., has already perfected an organization for tree planting between Chippewa Falls and Eau Claire on a beautiful new stretch of concrete road. The Kiwanis and Woman's clubs and the Civic and Commerce club have already done some planting on this Memory road that will be one of the finest in the country.

H. B. Crane of the Civic and Commerce club has been the leading spirit in the road planting in this locality. The Leader, Eau Claire's leading newspaper, will take hold and urge the citizens to complete their memory road by Memorial day, 1922.

Trees' Artistic Value.

"Just to show what trees can do," said Mr. Crane, "I had a friend twenty years ago who owned forty acres in my home town. His wife suggested that he plant pines along the front fence. He did. They were easy to plant, and they grew whether he planted them in season or out. Then he decided, as every one does who once starts tree planting, to plant more, to put them along the side fence, and along the barn yard. I was home this year and I wish you could see that place. The price has increased $2,000 because of the pines.

"Senator James Stout of Menominee, Mich., wanted the people to build good roads and plant trees twenty years ago. He spent $4,000 of his own money to build a short stretch of road to show the people what it would be like to have such roads all through the state. Then he planted trees, saying 'I don't suppose the darned things will grow, but I'm going to try them.' I told him they'd be a fine memorial to him if they grew. Today these trees make that stretch of road a picture. Wisconsin elms, evenly planted along both sides of the way. I wish Jim Stout could see them. You can't drive over it without thinking of Jim.

Tree Becomes Friend.

"I planted a walnut in the corner of our home yards forty-three years ago, on my niece's birthday, and didn't think of it again for twenty years. Today that tree is big enough to cover two picnic parties. I visit that tree just as I visit old friends."

Yesterday a memory road to W. W. Warner of Madison, who left the money for its building, was completed between Baraboo and Devils Lake. Forty thousand dollars was spent in its making. Today H. K. Page, editor of the News at Baraboo, will start a campaign to interest the citizens in making that beautiful road a Baraboo memory road for the soldiers.

D. H. Richards of the News-Budget at Ladysmith said $96,000 is being spent at present building a road to Bruce from Ladysmith, and he will ask the citizens to make it into a memory road.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

FRIDAY, JULY 22, 1921.  13

NOW THEY BLAME LAUNDRIES FOR HI COST OF SODA

Of Course, You Do Not Eat Napkins, but—

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.

Your town house may carry a gold coast number, you may crank a mean motor and have bacon three times a week, but be prepared for a shock when you order a fresh peach sundae in a Michigan avenue refreshment parlor. Forty cents plus war tax is the average price.

The high cost of soda, against which Russell J. Poole, city high cost expert, is waging a campaign is due to—the laundry. At least, that's the alibi of the waitresses in these smart boulevard shops.

"It's the linen napkin that costs, and the service," explained a girl in one of the stores, as she set down a tray of sodas.

North Side Sundae Costs 70 Cents.

Up on the north side, the Hopper, 4632 Sheridan road, patronized by guests from nearby hotels and by movie audiences, has a price list all its own.

Again we meet the fresh peach sundae, consisting of a fair sized piece of ice cream and not more than 5 cents' worth of peach, for 40 cents. The same amount of cream, half covered with a thin, watery chocolate flavored sirup, costs 28 cents. Frosted root beer, closely related to the ordinary variety, is listed at 25 cents. Special sundaes are 40 cents, except a "fantasie," costing 70 cents.

Plain Ice Cream at 30 Cents.

Coming further south, the Italian shop, in the Drake hotel building, sells plain chocolate ice cream at 30 cents a dish. John E. Carney, druggist in the same building, charges 25 cents, plus tax, for a small dish of cream.

The four Spoehr shops print at the top of each menu: "Kindly notice that in accord with our sensible price reduction policy we have reduced prices on this fountain menu." Sodas, formerly 28 cents, are now 22 cents. But sundaes are still 33 cents; malted milk is 25, iced tea, when bought through fountain service, not tearoom, is 20 cents. At the State street store, however, iced tea sells for 10 cents.

Woods, 108 South Michigan avenue, sells no soda for less than 25 cents. They prepare a simple and refreshing fruit orangeade for 40 cents. A fresh mint freeze is 35 cents. Prices at Plows are about the same as at Woods' and Huyler's. They hold the record for malted milk, 30 cents. Kranz's, 128 North State street, list plain ice cream sodas at 25 cents, plus tax. A plain lemonade costs 30 cents.

"Considering the service we give and the present price of materials," said Miss Florence Kranz yesterday, "we cannot afford to reduce prices any more."

This Firm Cuts Prices.

Tebbetts & Garland, 16 North Michigan, have put the following reduced price list into effect at their fountain service only: Root beer, 5 cents; sodas, 10 cents, and fruit salad sundae, 10 cents.

HOUSE SHORTAGE IN BAVARIA HALTS WEDDING BELLS

The housing shortage is so acute in parts of Bavaria that people are not allowed to marry unless they have two rooms, and in the town of Fuerth, near Nuernburg, a town of 10,000, there are 200 couples who have had to postpone the wedding date.

This is according to Fred Ullman, member of the Chicago Board of Trade, who is visiting Fuerth, his native town.

"For a 7 cent tip," he says, "you can get the best service in town. And by exchanging United States money for that of foreign countries one can live quite cheaply."

FARM AND GARDEN

BY FRANK RIDGWAY

PRUNING ADDS QUALITY TO TOMATOES.

Pruning tomatoes is another way growers have of improving the quality of the fruit and encouraging early ripening. The pruning should be done in such a way that growth will be confined to one or two main stems. The pruning should start when the plants are young. If the plants are properly pruned by pinching out the leaders they require less space, an important factor in the city garden.

If two stems are allowed to grow they require two feet between each plant or the vines will be crowded. When only one stem is left to bear fruit, the plants will not need more than fifteen inches between them.

Most growers begin pruning their plants when they are young. The work is not only much easier done but there is less danger of injuring the plants and the stems that produce the fruit are not robbed of the plant food. It is important to remove the shoots every few days. If they are allowed to go more than a week they are difficult to remove.

There are some growers who delay pinching back the leaders until after the first cluster of flowers appears. By this method the plant food is thrown into the blossoms and the next shoot.

This shoot grows until the petals of another blossom unfolds, when the leaders are pinched back again, checking the growth as each cluster of fruit is formed.

Cutting out the terminal shoot after five or six clusters of fruit have formed is the method that some growers practice to encourage the fruit to ripen earlier. When this is done the fruit seems to ripen more nearly at the same time than when a larger number of clusters are allowed to develop. Pinching back is probably more useful where the vines are trained on low trellises.

SEEKS BOND FOR FRIEND, LANDS IN CELL WITH HIM

Edward Januchek, 23 years old, 2013 North Hoyne avenue, a salesman for the Inlander-Steindler Paper company, 11 North Green street, spent yesterday morning at the detective bureau attempting to persuade the police to book a friend they were holding, so he could furnish bonds and obtain his release.

At his home, Sergt. Fogarty of the detective bureau, waited his return with a warrant charging him with larceny by embezzlement, signed by an official of the company that employed him. Last night he was occupying the same cell with his friend.

It is alleged he failed to account for $1,400 he collected for his firm.

Charged with 35c Theft, Arrested, Jailed, Mugged

The alleged embezzlement of 35 cents caused the arrest yesterday of Harry Brewster, 121 East 48th street. He was taken to the detective bureau and the bureau of identification. Brewster, employed at the United Cigar Stores company store at Madison and Wells streets, was arrested on a warrant signed by R. H. Shurtleff. It is alleged Brewster made a sale and put the money in his pocket. He is married.

Woman Shaking Rug from Porch Falls to Death

Mrs. Sophia Grahavac, 49 years old, 8917 Green Bay avenue, a maid employed at 3215 East 92d street, was killed yesterday. She was shaking a rug over the porch railing of the second floor when it gave way and she fell to the cement walk.

Master in Chancery Walter S. Holden, donning a metaphorical storm cape, entered room 1125 of the County building yesterday afternoon to preserve order at the nomination meeting of the Illinois Colony club. He was delegated by Judge Kickham Scanlan after the jurist had spent much of his official time trying to calm the factional strife in the organization.

Master Holden elected to referee from the side lines, after appointing Mrs. Phillip R. Sattler of Evanston chairman.

"Now, then," she said, "we are ready for the presentation of names for the nomination for——"

Halts Tower of Babel Act.

"——of names for the nomination for——"

Several other women joined in the tumult.

"Ladies, ladies," exhorted Master Holden, wrapping the metaphorical storm cape about his unmetaphorical ears. "There is really no excuse for this conduct. Can we not carry on matters here in a regular manner? Let us be ladylike and act like men."

Applause and Derision.

The women, succumbing to this plea, nominated Mrs. Frank M. Fulton for commander in chief. Then the name of Mrs. H. D. Paxton was offered. Shouts of derisive laughter rose.

"When they want to show their approval they clap hands," cried a supporter of Mrs. Paxton. "When they want to show their disapproval they laugh. I'd like to know why we can't do the same?"

Heroic cooperation between Master Holden and the gavel, followed by a lengthy dissertation on being ladylike, routed the impending storm. The shouting and the tumult died. The nominations were continued peaceably. Master Holden threw away his metaphorical storm cape and grabbed a metaphorical olive branch. The Illinois Colony club had resumed the even soprano of its ways!

FIREMAN HERO'S DAUGHTER GIVES $200 FOR FUND

An unsigned letter containing two crisp $100 bills received yesterday brightened the prospects of the hundreds of firemen who are striving to raise $100,000 for the Firemen's Mutual Aid and Benefit association, and encouraged them to greater efforts.

The writer, a woman, said she was a fireman's daughter. Her father, like hundreds of other firemen, was unable to carry life insurance because of the high rates charged, and when he was killed he left his family unprovided for.

He was a member of the Mutual Aid association, however, and it was money received from it which kept the little family of four children from being broken up.

Deaths were heavy last year, a fireman dying on an average of every ten days, and when it was found that funds were running low the campaign to raise $100,000 was decided upon.

Firemen are busy selling tickets to the three ball games between the teams of the New York and Chicago departments in an effort to reach the $100,000 goal by Aug. 12. Two of the games, Aug. 10 and 12, will be played at the Sox Park and one, Aug. 11, at the Cubs' park.

TWO ARRESTED IN STOCK TRANSFER AS TAX DODGERS

H. N. Hanson of Decatur, former president of the American Fireproofing and Mining company of Arizona, and Walter L. Morrison, 122 South Michigan avenue, a broker, were taken into custody by the United States marshal's office yesterday following a complaint that they were about to effect a transfer of $5,000,000 worth of stock in the mining company without attaching revenue stamps.

The arrests were made after Joseph Fitzgerald of the internal revenue department had received information that a large block of stock was about to be transferred in Hanson's office in the Harris Trust building. About $1,500,000 worth of stock was seized.

MEN ARE LIKE THAT

BY CLARA E. LAUGHLIN

GWEN PRESENTS BEN LESTER.

Sallie saw Gwendolyn a number of times. There were reasons for this, which Sallie did not comprehend. One of them was that Gwendolyn was interested, piqued, amazed, amused, by Kenelm's friendship for the little American girl. If, Gwen mused, a man who had once known the whole battery of her fascinations could find himself intrigued by this naïve child, the wherefor of it was worth study; so she wanted to see them together again. Nor was she insensible to Sallie's wondering awe. It pleased her. Sallie provoked some curiosity in her, too.

A new emotion daily, or thereabouts, was a necessity to Gwen, who lived for the satisfaction of her emotions, as epicures of different sort live for the titillation of their taste. There was a spice of something about the whole situation that appealed to Gwen briefly, and she indulged her relish for it.

She knew she was interesting Sallie even more than Sallie interested her; and it amused her to humor this, too.

It was at the Carlton that they met Ben Lester, who was playing at His Majesty's theater next door.

Ben stopped to speak—that was no haunt of his, but he was in search of some one who was likely to be found there—and Gwen made him take the fourth chair at their table.

"Here," she said to Sallie, "is the most interesting man on our English stage today. He's like the rare personalities we read about in books, that make us feel we were too late a-borning. Don't squirm, Ben! I shall go through with this to the bitter end. Ben's family, as you probably know, Miss Baird, has supported every English actor and actress since Garrick and Siddons. If all the histories of the English stage were to be burnt, Ben could make good the loss out of his family traditions and his personal memories, and it would all sound more interesting than ever before."

Lester was a weather beaten looking chap, who suggested an old salt more than a wearer of grease paint. His countenance was round and rubicund; his person was inclined toward rotundity. He had always played character parts (he was best in Shakespeare or old English comedy) and nearly always been stage director of the companies he played in.

Ben smiled encouragingly over his teacup rim.

"Well," he said, when he had put his cup down, "I've had a good time at it, and I daresay you have, too. It's not a bad life, when one gets used to its demands."

Sallie felt an immediate friendliness for Ben. There was warmth in the twinkle of his deep blue eyes, and kindly humor in the crinkling lines about them.

He had a nice, childish interest, it seemed, in sandwiches and cakes, and Gwen continued to ply him with new varieties and to talk while he ate.

When he seemed satisfied, Gwen began prodding him about this and that in a frank effort to get him started on a train of reminiscence of the sort for which he was noted.

Sallie was surprised at the clumsiness with which Miss Dort went about this. She who was so marvelously clever at managing herself was by no means skillful in getting desired results out of others. The two sorts of cleverness do not often go together,

Gwendolyn's patience was short.

"What are you shying at?" she cried. "I've given you at least three cues, but you've missed them all. What's the matter?"

"I don't like to make too violent an entrance," he said. "I'd rather work up a scene than start it with a bang. Always remember a fellow in the Lyceum company, years ago, who didn't hold that idea—was a great chap for making the house notice that he was there. Sir Henry couldn't get it out of him. One day we were rehearsing a scene; lot of supers in it, in great quantities of tin armor. The scene went badly; Sir Henry was dissatisfied, and had it run through again and again. One poor bloke in the tin clothes must have got faint from standing so long, and in a quiet moment he fell clattering to the floor—horrible racket. Sir Henry looked up in mild surprise; and quietly, in that choppy way of his, he said: 'There's some mistake. Mr. Blank has no entrance here.'"

Sallie's eyes sparkled. She had a cue, and was quick to catch it.

"I met a lady the other day," she said, "who told me that Irving used to come to her parents' house (they were both actors) when he was so poor that he had only one shirt. And while her father heard Irving recite a new part he was learning, her mother'd wash and iron the shirt. She said her father always told Irving he'd never be an actor."

Ben was not aware of the retaliatory thrust in this, though Stoke-Poges was, and chuckled aloud at it instead of at the poor prognostication of Irving's actor friend, but he smiled encouragingly at Sallie.

"Well," he said, "I'm not sure that Irving ever was an actor. But he did magnificent things for the stage, and he, well, he stirred great emotions, even if people were aware of Irving all the time. His was a personality too marked, too powerful to be put off or overlaid. It is hard for actors with such personal distinction to be judged as artists; to get their dues, their following inclines to think of them as personalities, not as interpreters; sometimes it's their own fault—their egoism sticks out through everything they do. And sometimes they just can't help it, I suppose. Miss Dort is one of the few big personalities I've ever known on the stage who can create a great illusion. Let's ask her the secret."

Gwendolyn looked the pleasure she felt in this tribute, which was perfectly sincere and fairly well deserved, but which she did not overestimate.

"It's a matter," she said, "of keeping clear of a manner—of mannerisms. It was Irving's speech that betrayed him. It is my voice—in spite of all I do—that makes people think 'Dort' instead of the part I'm playing. I can't make my voice seem different, as I can make my face, my figure, my movements to fit different parts."

"That," said Stoke-Poges quickly, "is where you must envy Miss Baird. What she has done, so far, in personation, she has done with just her voice. She can make you believe you're listening to a dozen quite different characters, and with no makeup, no costuming, hardly any pantomime."

"That's a great foundation to build on!" Ben Lester cried enthusiastically. "Not only the flexibility of the voice, but the sympathy and understanding with which you must use it, if you do what Stoke-Poges says. Have you seen my little lady that I'm playing with—Constance Fenwick?"

Sallie had not. The play was another of those for which tickets were difficult to get.

"Well, you must see her," Ben went on, "and meet her. Let me ask her about it, and see what we can do."

The encounter with Ben Lester was a pleasant one, but there was nothing about it to which Sallie, reviewing it, could specifically point and say, "That accounts for the feeling I have." Lester was a more charming, a more congenial person than any other, all told, of the many she had met in London. She knew, instantly, that she liked him immensely, and she felt that he regarded her with a kindness more than casual. But nothing happened which she could have cited as warrant for her feeling that the encounter had been one of great import to her. Nevertheless, that feeling persisted, and with it a sense of elation.

"There was a good fairy present this afternoon," she declared to Stoke-Poges as he drove her home.

"Really?" he asked, amused.

"Yes, really. I don't know just what he's 'up to,' but I know it was not only a pleasant party, but a—a somehow—important one. Something's going to happen. Something very nice! I'm quite excited about everything!"

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

Where Asked.

Dearborn and Adams streets.

The Answers.

H. B. Walker, 1431 Jackson boulevard, law student—No a wife has no more right to search her husband's pockets than he has to search around in her personal property, and that isn't much. If a woman searches her husband's pockets it goes to show there is a certain amount of distrust, and that shouldn't be.

Helen Kasel, 2125 West 23d street, clerk — Certainly she has. Why not? What is his belongs to her, and what is hers is her own. Of course, it's all right for him to look through her things. It shouldn't be necessary, though, if they trust each other.

N. E. Moats, 4652 Woodlawn avenue, attorney—Yes, I think so. There is a relationship between man and wife that grants her that privilege. A woman is interested as much in the small personal affairs of her husband as she is in his larger interests and should feel that she is at liberty to go the limit to satisfy her interest.

Frances Kasel, 2125 West 23d street, stenographer — A wife has no right to go into her husband's pockets any more than she has to go into any one else's pockets. Why should she? What a man carries in his pockets belongs to him.

T. L. Keegan, 7557 South Union street, salesman—Absolutely not. There should be enough mutual confidence between them so as not to warrant any such thing. The wife should not stoop to such a low act any more than to read mail that is delivered to the house when he is not present. Does a marriage license give her authority under the search and seizure act?

BARNES FIRST AT HALF-WAY MARK IN GOLF

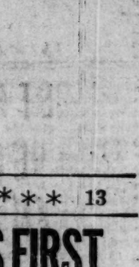
Four Strokes Ahead of Field with 144.

EAST VS. WEST

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 21. — [Special.] — It was East against West today for the first time, perhaps, in the history of golf. It so happened that the draw placed J. Victor East, from far off Australia, with Jimmy West, the Rockaway Hunt club professional, in the pairings. In the morning round it was nip and tuck, both men finishing with a total of 81. In the afternoon, however, West defeated East by a margin of 2 strokes.

BY W. D. RICHARDSON.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Scattered along the fairways of the long, long trail which has at its winding end the supreme golf glory of the year—the national open championship—there lie tonight the crushed hopes of two of the greatest links artists of all time—Jock Hutchison, the famous Glen View professional, who recently returned from St. Andrew's with the British open championship in his cherished possession, and Abe Mitchell, the solemn visaged English star, who is rated the peer of Ted Ray and Harry Vardon or any others of the long line of British masters.



BOBBY JONES.
[Photo: Und. & Und.]

Mitchell, who was rated as one of the most serious contenders for the American open title, lifted his ball at the end of the ninth hole in the afternoon round, while the name of Hutchison had an unfamiliar place on the big score board along with those who are considered hopelessly in the ruck.

Barnes Leads the Field.

At the top of the list of those who completed the first two rounds of the seventy-two hole championship is Lang Jim Barnes, the skillful representative of the Pelham Country club, whose feats today stamp him as the foremost candidate for the blue ribbon. Barnes turned in two sterling rounds of 69 and 75, and as a result, will start the morrow with a working margin of four strokes over the remainder of the field.

The sunny Cornishman's 69, duplicated his performance in the qualifying test yesterday, when he broke the competitive record for the Columbia Country club course.

Following Long Jim came Freddie McLeod, the home club professional, who shot two rounds of 74, and by reason of his intimate knowledge with every blade of the withered grass on the course, is regarded as dangerous, and Charles R. Murray of the Royal Montreal club, Canada, former Canadian open title holder.

Bobby Jones Has Good Chance.

Robert R. Jones, the temperamental Atlanta youngster whom Vardon declared last year to be one of the greatest players that the game has seen, leads the amateurs and is in third position—the result of a sensational 33 on the outgoing journey of his round this afternoon, giving him a total of 149 for the day.

Interlocked with three Americans in a tie in fourth position with totals of 150 appears George Duncan, former British title holder. He ended the day deadlocked with Clarence Hackney of Atlantic City, Alex Smith of Shennecossett, former open champion, and Louis Tellier, the sturdy little French star of the Brae Burn club.

Next in the ranks comes Chick Evans, national amateur and western champion, who is tied with Emil Loeffler of the Oakmont, at 151.

Thirteen in Striking Distance.

Walter Hagen of New York, two time holder of the throne, today divided honors with Robert Cruickshank, young Scottish amateur of the Essex Country club, and Emmett French of Youngstown, O., the American "pro" team captain in England, at 152, and this trio completes the list of thirteen considered as having even a long outside chance at the title, which was won by Ted Ray of England last year.

No more remarkable golf ever was seen in a championship than that which Barnes turned in during his morning round. It was perfection all the way, steady and consistent, yet with frequent flashes of brilliancy which thrilled the big gallery that followed him as soon as the news spread around the course that the Pelham star was off on one of his record breaking rampages.

The acme of his game was reached after he played the sixth hole, on which he took a 6, two over par. For the next four holes he required only twelve strokes, three under the par figures. He was out in 36, and romped home with a wonderful 33, two under par for the round.

Collection of Birdies.

He was playing with equal brilliancy in the afternoon, but failed to get some of the breaks like the morning, and took a 75, which, considering three 6s, indicates his mastery over his clubs.

Playing with Peter O'Hara, who notched 163, Barnes, after a beautiful drive at the first tee, played his approach short and missed his putt for a birdie 3. He was on the second green in 2, but again missed a long putt. At the third he took a 5 as a result of having to play a low ball to evade the trees. He had pars for the next two, but played the sixth badly, taking two over par 4 before he holed out.

A too powerful second put him at the back of the seventh green, but he sank a long pitch for a birdie 3 and after another par he placed his second shot within four feet of the pin at the ninth, sinking a 3 for another birdie.

A 20 foot putt gave him a birdie 3 at the tenth, and he was even fours until the 141 yard sixteenth, where his tee shot left him a two foot putt for a 2. At the home hole he just missed a 3, his iron shot striking a rise in the green and dropping back, leaving him a 15 foot try, which grazed the cup.

Harder Work in Afternoon.

He was short on his second shot going to the first tee in the afternoon and took a 5, but a brilliant recovery gave him a birdie 3 at the second. His tee shot landed in tall grass and his pitch to the green hit the pin.

His first break came at the 569 yard fifth—the hard luck hole on this course—where he had an easy chance for a par 4, on top of two wonderful wood shots. The miscue cost him a 6 and at the next hole he had a similar figure when he pulled his tee shot. He managed to cut off one of his wasted strokes by a birdie at the seventh, and reached the turn in 39. After a 6 at the tenth he had three more birdies on the homeward journey, giving him a 36 for a total of 75. His cards:

Jock in Deep Distress.

Hutchison's hopes for a repetition of his victory on the St. Andrews links went a-glimmering when he sliced his tee shot into the rough going to the fifth hole, which has been the Scylla and Charybdis for all the voyagers of this tourney. His second shot landed in the myriad of traps that guard the fairway, and his effort to extricate himself resulted in a puny little advance to the top of one of the mounds.

The disturbed Jock, realizing that disaster impended, gambled and lost. His next shot landed to the right of the green and he took three putts. He was out in 41. The Glen View pro played brilliantly coming home, getting a fine 33, but his real disaster came early in the afternoon. On the first three holes he was three over fours, and again at the fifth took a 7. He made the turn in 43, but failed to make up for his mistakes on the last nine holes, taking another 7 at the twelfth.

Jones Goes Out in 33.

Bobby Jones, who had a 78 in the morning, made a great finish in the afternoon for a 71. The youngster had the best outgoing nine holes of the day in this session, with a phenomenal 33. He slipped back in the afternoon, taking a stroke too many at the fourteenth, sixteenth, and seventeenth. His afternoon card:

Out	4	3	4	4	5	4	3	2	4—33
In	4	4	5	3	5	4	4	5	4—38—71

George Duncan was in second place after the morning cards had been turned in, being only three strokes behind Barnes with a 72. After the luncheon hour, however, the Briton slipped badly, taking a brace of 79s, which will require some sensational shooting tomorrow to bring him up.

Much Expected of Evans.

National Amateur Champion Evans was out in 37 in the morning and home in 36, playing steadily. A 6 at the ninth in the afternoon hurt his good score, especially when placed on top of a 5 at the eighth. He had a pair of 39s, which leaves him within hailing distance, and indeed many of the experts anticipate that he will surpass today's 151 on tomorrow's round. Except for occasional erratic work on the greens, Evans was on his game yesterday.

Following is Chick's morning card:

Evans—Out	5	4	4	3	6	5	3	3	4—37
Evans—In	5	4	4	3	5	4	3	4	4—36—73

Murray and McLeod, who are trailing Barnes, are two dangerous opponents should Long Jim show the slightest letdown. McLeod putted excellently today and, should he shoot an easily possible 68 or 69 tomorrow, would give the leader a battle.

Mitchell "Fed Up" on Golf.

Mitchell took 81 in the morning, the greatest number for many a moon. After playing the eighth hole in the afternoon he decided there was no chance for him and, saying he had too much golf recently, he picked up.

A technicality this afternoon threatened to check Barnes' career in the tournament. A question arose regarding the possibility of his disqualification during the afternoon round, due to an unverified score on one hole. The matter was called to the attention of the United States Golf association committee, which ruled that Barnes was not in any way to blame for the slight infraction, and refused to act other than to add an additional stroke to his score.

The weather was fair and cooler than yesterday, and the slight breeze did not affect the play in any manner. The course was the fastest of the tournament, due to the warm sun, which had dried out both fairways and greens.

Here Are the Scores.

THEY QUALIFIED, BUT "BLEW UP" YESTERDAY

PRESIDENT TO TRAIL GOLF STARS IN PLAY AT COLUMBIA TODAY

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 21. — [Special.] — President Harding will be present at the final day's play for the national open golf championship, according to an announcement made by officials of the United States Golf association today.

The famous United States marine band will be on hand, giving the 1921 event a tone which no other championship event has ever had. It is doubtful if the President will remain long enough to present the cup to the winner of the event, for he is scheduled to leave on a trip on the Mayflower, but he probably will follow some of the leaders over a few holes on the course.

Among the dignitaries who were present today were Vice President Coolidge, Speaker Gillett, and Senator Knox.

Mrs. Harwood and Mrs. Jones in Final Golf Title Match

Olympian women will be the first to emblazon on the escutcheon at Olympia Fields the name of a championship in a fixed golf classic.

Whether it will be Mrs. E. E. Harwood or Mrs. Melvin Jones depends largely on the breaks in the luck in today's final of the women's city championship tournament at the Flossmoor Country club. Both won their way through the semi-final round yesterday, Mrs. Harwood defeating Miss Elizabeth Klotz of Indian Hill, defending her 1920 championship, 4 and 3, and Mrs. Jones triumphing over Mrs. T. C. Quinton of Edgewood, 3 and 2.

MRS. MELVIN JONES. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Klotz in Slump.

The slump in the play of Miss Klotz was a distinct surprise to the gallery as topped tee shots were followed by poor recoveries and at times her putter failed to respond.

Mrs. Harwood, on the other hand, played an excellent game. Seldom did she have trouble, and then generally by an overapproach or a putt that fell short.

In disposing of Mrs. Quinton, Mrs. Jones had to play her best game. The Edgewood player, who was off her drivings in the second round, had regained her tee composure yesterday and negotiated some excellent drives and brassy seconds.

Miss Klotz Declines New Lie.

Mrs. Harwood evened matters at the fourth, where Miss Klotz, overapproaching into ground under repair, declined to drop her ball to a better lie despite an official ruling to that effect.

At the fifth Miss Klotz dubbed her tee shot and found a pit on her second. Mrs. Harwood went into the rough, but recovered nicely and took the lead with a 6, one over par.

At the seventh Mrs. Harwood increased her lead to 2 up. Both went over the green on their approaches, but Mrs. Harwood's out was within a foot of the flag and she was down in 3. A dubbed iron shot by Miss Klotz prevented a half in 4 at the eighth, but Miss Klotz won the ninth and turned

Mrs. Harwood Three Up.

2 down, with a medal score of 47 to Mrs. Harwood's 45.

At the eleventh short Miss Klotz reduced to 1 down when Mrs. Harwood drove to the traps at the right of the green, but a sliced tee shot to the bushes put her in trouble on the twelfth, which Mrs. Harwood won with a par 6 and was again 2 up.

At the thirteenth the champion topped her tee shot, while her second went over the green to other traps. Mrs. Harwood was down in a par 3 and 3 up.

Miss Klotz at the fourteenth sliced fifty yards to a clump of trees. Her second struck a big oak and rebounded back almost to the tee. She got down the fairway on her third, but was in the creek on her fourth. Once more Mrs. Harwood played a par 5 and won the match, 4 and 3. Cards:

Mrs. Harwood—Out.	5	5	6	5	6	5	3	4	6	—45
Par—Out	6	3	6	4	5	5	3	5	5	—42

Par—In	6	3	6	3	4	5
Miss Klotz—In.	6	3	7	5	5	8

Mrs. Jones in Hard Match.

Mrs. Jones won the first hole with a par 6 against Mrs. Quinton's 7. The Edgewood player squared matters at the third and took the lead at the fifth with a par 5. Mrs. Jones, however, won the next four holes and was 3 up at the turn.

Fine tee shots and good iron work gave Mrs. Quinton the tenth and eleventh, where she was only 1 down. Mrs. Jones won the twelfth with a birdie 5 and the fifteenth in perfect figures. The match ended at the sixteenth, which was halved in par 5.

The cards:

Mrs. Jones—Out.	6	4	7	5	6	4	3	4	5	—44

Joe Davis, Golf Editor, Recovering from Illness

Joe Davis, golf editor of THE TRIBUNE, is convalescing from an infection of a leg caused by the bite of some insect, presumably a golf bug, while covering the western tournament at Westmoreland. His disability, which prevented his attendance at the open tourney in Washington, probably will prevail for another week, according to his physician.

These four players went through two rounds yesterday, Meyers having the closest call in the second frame, where he won a home green match over N. A. Erhardt of Marquette.

In the second flight R. A. Bowker, unattached, will meet Fred Groth, unattached, while Harry Halvorsen of Edgewood will oppose R. B. Austin, unattached.

RECORD CROWD SEES CHICAGO HORSE WIN FEATURE AT AURORA

Aurora, Ill., July 21.—[Special.]—The 2:17 trot, feature event on today's racing program, was won by Esther Wilson, a bay mare owned by C. S. Jackson of Chicago. It was "Chicago day" at the races and the crowd from the metropolis backed the mare heavily.

The Chicago mare was the favorite, but threw a scare into her backers when she finished last in a field of eight in the first heat. She came back, however, and won the next three heats. Capt. Mosby, owned by Tom Barton of Chicago, took fourth money.

Today's crowd was the largest in the history of the Aurora track. The meeting will close tomorrow with the 2:08 pace featuring the "getaway day" program. Summaries:

TILDEN REACHES NET SEMI-FINAL AT PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., July 21.—Watson M. Washburn will attempt to check the winning streak of World's Champion William T. Tilden II., while Vincent Richards is endeavoring to take the measure of R. Norris William II. in the semi-finals of the state tennis championship tomorrow as a result of the fifth round matches today.

Only an eleventh hour rally and some good luck saved Williams from defeat by N. W. Niles, a fellow Bostonian, today. Richards showed brilliant form in outclassing Leon De Turenne of Boston. C. S. Garland, Pittsburgh, fell down badly in his match with Tilden. Washburn's ability to turn back S. Howard Voshell's formidable net attack finally gave him a victory over the New Yorker.

The Japanese Davis cup team, Kumagae and Shimidzu, and Tilden and Garland, as well as Voshell and Richards, easily won their matches in the doubles.

MAIN LICK UPSETS TALENT IN TROT; WINS EXTRA HEAT

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 21.—Main Lick, the southern gelding, driven by John Thomas, surprised the talent today by winning the Columbia Hotel purse, feature event of the afternoon's Grand circuit racing, finishing ahead of Peter Daw and Voltage in the overtime heat and forcing Jeanette Rankin to accept fourth money.

Main Lick finished last in the first trot, but took the next heat in a whipping drive down the stretch. He finished fourth behind Peter Daw, in the third heat, getting away to a poor start, but in the overtime start led all the way from the half, with the Daw geldings and Voltage finishing in the order named. Main Lick was entirely overlooked in the ring.

Dardanella Easy in Pace.

The 2:13 pace proved easy for Dardanella, which finished ahead in the first and third heats. Julia M. Direct, the favorite, was close up all the way and won the second heat, but lacked enough speed to head off the fleet Erskine entry.

Single G won the free-for-all pace in straight heats. The first mile was turned in 2:00½, the fastest of the meeting. Juno was second, with Louis Gratton third and Sanardo fourth.

Crowd Sets a Record.

The crowd was the largest that ever attended a Grand circuit meeting in Kalamazoo. The grandstand was filled to overflowing and the ticket sale stopped at 2 o'clock. Summaries:

BY I. E. SANBORN.

When Bib Falk biffed a home run into the right field bleacher in the last half of the fourteenth inning yesterday he not only won the second game of the series with the Athletics by a score of 2 to 1 but signed his name to quite a lot of diamond history.

That four base blow by the Texas collegian gave Red Faber his twentieth victory of the year, keeping him well in front of all major league pitchers. It also gave the White Sox their sixth consecutive extra inning triumph, five of them in the last seven days.

Less than three weeks ago—July 9 to be accurate—the Gleasons copped a sixteen inning battle from the Yankees. Since then they had won three ten inning and one eleven round fight before yesterday's fourteen inning affair. And in the last week the overtime stuff has been of almost daily occurrence.

Double Plays Save Red.

Naylor was the Mack hurler who stood up against Faber for thirteen innings and pitched him to a standstill, but the visiting hurler did not have to work as hard as Red did. All the White Sox could get off Naylor was nine hits, while the Mackmen were making sixteen off Faber, but the Chicago slabman did not give a base on balls all day and was helped out of tight holes by three double plays in the first four innings.

BIB FALK. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Sheely made one-third of the hits off Naylor, and none of them cut any figure in the result, although the base on balls he drew in the second inning was a big factor, because it was followed by a long distance clout by Ray Schalk.

Three Doubles for C. Walker.

Dykes made four hits off Faber and did not get anything with them, but his sacrifice in the sixth round was what carried the battle into extra innings. Clarence Walker made three doubles, and only one of them was worth anything outside the batting averages that drove home the only Mack tally in the sixth.

Both teams ought to have won in the first inning, although it is impossible for more than one team to win a ball game. The first three Mackmen at bat, Witt, Dykes and Welch, hit Faber safely, filling the cushions. C. Walker smashed a hot one to Mulligan, who fired it home, and Schalk completed a double play by a hot peg to first. J. Walker rolled the side out.

In the White Sox half, Johnson and Mulligan hit safely. Collins sacrificed them to third and second, and still they could not score. Johnson was cut down at the pan on Strunk's rap to McInnis, and Falk was tossed out by Dykes.

Sox Count in Second.

Sheely opened the second with a walk. McClellan sacrificed and Schalk ballooned a two bagger over C. Walker's head, scoring the first run of the game. Naylor did not give them another good opening to score and it looked as if Faber were going to face his seventh defeat when Witt's single and C. Walker's double tied the count in the sixth inning. The Mackmen kept on hitting Red regularly in almost every inning, but in the tight places he bore down hard, and his support never faltered.

They went into the last half of the fourteenth before a verdict was reached, and then it came unexpectedly. Falk, first up in the home half of that round, caught one of Naylor's fast ones before it broke, and sailed it high over the screen into the open-work stand back of Witt.

SOX NOTES

NOTHING doing today. The schedule makers left an open date in the chart for the Sox and Athletics to work off a postponed game on "ladies' day," but they have no hangover game.

J. Walker was benched for a pinch hitter, who struck out for him in the ninth inning, and that let Griffin finish at first base.

Pretty soon White Sox fans will phone their folks before starting for the park to have only light suppers waiting for them, because of the frequency of the overtime games there.

Two more games are booked for the Sox park, tomorrow and Sunday, winding up the present eastern invasion. On Sunday night the Gleasons will depart for the east, playing an exhibition game at Geneva, N. Y., on their way.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 21.—[Special.]—With the fallen Phillies in the throes of a winning streak, having now won two straight, the Cubs were victims of a decisive beating in the third game of the series, 8 to 1. It sounds quite incredible, and it's hard for any of the folks to believe, but the Phils turned the trick just the same.

Wild and rather ineffective pitching by our Mr. Alex Freeman and tight, steady, and strong hurling by Mr. Jim Ring, tells a large part of the story. There were some phoney doubles and singles off the right wall by the Phils, on fly balls that would be caught in any other park, but it's all a part of the game as played here.

Percy Jones Finishes.

Freeman walked five men and allowed hits in seven innings, after which he gave way to a pinch hitter and Percy Jones finished. Three of the eight runs were gathered off Percy when he allowed three hits and hit a couple of batters in the one inning he hurled.

The Cubs had few opportunities to do any business with the curves of Ring. He allowed five blows and walked only two men. Evers trotted out the battery of wreckers in the eighth, but could not start any rally.

Rapp opened the first with a single and Monroe walked. It looked better when Daly picked Rapp off second and King forced Monroe, but Meusel came through with a messy infield hit that let King get to third, and he scored when Daly pegged the ball down the left foul line. Meusel made third on the mistake and tallied on Koney's single.

Two More in the Second.

Parkinson led off in the second with a two baser to right and came home on Peters' single. Ring sacrificed and Rapp and Monroe walked, filling the bases. King boosted a sacrifice fly to Maisel, Peters scoring.

Freeman tightened up after that, but made the mistake of laying one over to Peters, first man up in the sixth. He walloped it into the left bleachers for a real homer.

The Cubs broke through the Phils' defense for a run in the fourth. With one gone, Grimes singled to right and advanced to second on Barber's out, from where he jogged home on Maisel's double against the right wall.

Any doubt of the Phils' victory was dispersed in the ninth with Jones pitching. With one out he hit Ring and then Rapp singled, sending Ring to third. Monroe singled, scoring Ring and King hit safely to center, the ball getting through Maisel. Rapp and Monroe counted, and that settled it.

CUB NOTES

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 21.—[Special.]—One tomorrow and one Saturday will wind up the eastern tour of the Cubs. "Speed" Martin is slated to hurl the next one.

The semi-pros of Philadelphia are putting on twilight games and packing 'em in. Folks here aren't much enthused over the Phillies and Athletics.

Looked like the Cubs started something in the sixth, but a sharp play by old Ed Konetchy ended it. Holly got to first on a smart rap that got away from Monroe, then Terry cut a hot one down the first base line. Koney got it, though he didn't know it, and stepped on first, then shot to Parkinson, who tagged Holly for a double play.

Dear Wake: Does Lonnie think delicatessen food is prepared by men? Not on your silver reticule. It's by the hard working wives of the proprietors. Woods and Waters by LARRY ST. JOHN

BIRD NOTES.

J. A. LARSEN, Chicago, writes: "A neighbor recently told me that a pair of mocking birds had nested in the shrubbery near their home. I have never heard of mocking birds coming this far north.

"Some days ago I decided that I was about to see a real mocker, as it seemed that the music I heard could come from no other source. After a bit I spied him away up in a big cottonwood. A glance showed him to be a thrush. Could my neighbor be mistaken and heard a thrush or catbird?"

The mocker is gradually extending his range northward. I have never heard one in Chicago, but I did see and hear one a few years ago near Morris, Ill. How far north have you seen a mocker?

C. H. Porter, Eagle Grove, Ia., an admirer of the cuckoo, is convinced that the cuckoo is not parasitic, that it does not lay its eggs in the nests of other birds. He writes: "The cuckoo is not parasitic, like the cow blackbird. I have seen a good many cuckee nests with their long, pale blue eggs. Their nests are made the same as a mourning dove's, only a little thicker and larger. I have seen the nests lined with wild crab apple blossoms, the stems broken off and the buds and blossoms encircling the nest like a wreath.

The European cuckoo is a parasite and the early settlers of this country assumed that our cuckoo has similar habits, just as they gave to our really beneficial skunk all the evil reputation of the English pole cat.

Cleveland, O., July 21.—Cleveland went back into first place in the American league by defeating New York, 17 to 8. The champions hammered Mays from the slab in the third inning, when they scored seven runs and also fattened their batting averages off Quinn, Ferguson, and Collins, who succeeded Mays.

The Indians made twenty-two hits, nine of which were doubles. The Yankees made sixteen hits, seven of which were doubles.

Sewall led in hitting with two singles and three doubles in six times at bat. New York used eighteen players and Cleveland twelve. Score:

The expected happened in yesterday's hog market when $11.00 was paid freely by local and outside buyers. The general average price advanced 25c at $10.05, within 65c of the year's high point in March, and $2.50 above the low day less than two months ago.

Closing hog trade was highest of the day with some late shipping orders unfilled and traders generally counting on a further upturn. Many wagers were settled yesterday on the $11.00 figure. It was only a few weeks ago that the trade talked $6.00 for good packers but at present there is talk of $12.00 hogs before the end of next month.

Better grades of cattle again met with an active call at strong to slightly higher prices, with three loads of 812@957 lb yearlings to Wilson & Co. and eastern shippers at $9.75, equalling the high point since the first week of last April.

Some of the choicest western lambs on sale made $10.90, or 10c above the previous top this week. General trade in sheep and lambs was fairly active and prices were little changed. Best natives offered sold at $10.00. Ewes went largely at $4.00@5.00 and 101 lb Washington yearlings at $8.00.

REVIEWS OF TRADE

The John V. Farwell company's weekly review of trade says:

"Wholesale dry goods business is good. Market is firmer on staple cottons. Prices on brown muslins have been advanced one-half cent per yard by the mills and are firm at the advance.

"Active preparations are being made by leading wholesalers to demonstrate to buyers who come to the Pageant of Progress exposition, July 30 to Aug. 14 that Chicago is the world center for distribution of dry goods and kindred lines. We believe August will be the greatest market buying month that we have had in many years."

Double Drive Truck.

P. R.—The Double Drive Truck company was organized as the Globe Motor Truck company in 1909. In 1917 its name was changed to the present one and the authorized capital stock was increased from $100,000 to $500,000. Then it did experimental work for a time and a year ago began selling stock to operate on a commercial basis. Its statement of Nov. 39 last, filed at Springfield, shows $116,920 of preferred stock outstanding and $96,180 of common. Net tangible assets were $150,000, patents being carried at $51,839. A net loss of $174 was made in the six months ended Nov. 30. Net loss previous to March 10, 1920, was $11,037.

Northwestern Electric.

M. P.—The Northwestern Electric company's gross in 1920 was $1,503,003 and net $670,632. This covered the interest on first mortgage bonds more than one and three-fourths times. There are now $8,243,000 first mortgage bonds. They constitute a first lien on the entire physical property of the company. They are a good business man's investment.

Brief Answers.

G. S. H.—The Goulds Manufacturing company manufactures pumps of various kinds. It owns the entire capital stock of the Seneca Falls Realty corporation. Its first mortgage sinking fund bonds are very well secured and we consider them a conservative investment.

S. L.—The Textile Securities company is an investment company, holding securities of other companies. It has $800,000 authorized and outstanding capital stock of $50 par value. In 1916 it paid 7 per cent, in 1917 20 per cent, in 1918 21 per cent, in 1919 20 per cent, in 1920 35 per cent, and in February last 10 per cent. As the company does not furnish an income account this is about the only information we can give you.

DRY GOODS MARKETS.

NEW YORK, July 21.—More spring prices on ginghams were announced today, completing the season's openings. The latest lists continued fall prices and goods offered already have been placed under full order. Other cotton goods were steady. Raw silk was 5 per cent lower, with buying light. Burlaps were unchanged.

LISTED BONDS

as well as Municipals and Unlisted, offer the Investor excellent opportunities at present prices for obtaining high yield combined with safety on his bond purchases. Standard Issues that were yielding 3 to 4% a few years ago are now selling on a basis to yield 6 to 8%. We suggest a few from the list as suitable for investment funds.

A copy of a letter from Mr. W. J. Webster, President of the Company, is annexed, which he has summarized as follows:

BUSINESS—The Atlas Powder Co. is one of the leading manufacturers of dynamite and blasting powders for commercial purposes in the United States. It is also a large manufacturer of leather cloth, lacquers and various commercial chemical products.

The business of the Company is essentially commercial in character and not dependent on war conditions as is indicated by the fact that net sales for the year ended December 31st, 1920, were the third largest in its history.

SECURITY—These Bonds will constitute the sole funded indebtedness of the Company, with the exception of $159,875 real estate purchase money mortgages. The trust Agreement will provide that no mortgage shall be placed on the property of the Company without including these bonds equally in the lien thereof. The Company agrees that it and its subsidiaries will at all times maintain aggregate current assets in an amount equal to at least 150% of all liabilities including all outstanding Bonds.

The Preferred and Common Stocks of the Company at present market quotations represent a total equity of more than $12,000,000 ranking junior to the $4,000,000 Convertible Bonds.

The balance sheet of May 31st, 1921, after giving effect to the present financing, shows net current assets of over $10,500,000, or more than two and one-half times the principal amount of these Bonds and total tangible assets, after deducting all liabilities except these Bonds, of over $19,000,000, or nearly five times the principal amount of these Bonds.

EARNINGS—The average annual net income, for the entire period of the Company's existence, after depreciation and all interest charges, has been nearly seven times the maximum annual interest requirements of $300,000 on these Bonds, and after taxes and preferred dividends, has been equivalent to over $22 per share on the Common Stock now outstanding.

CONVERSION PRIVILEGE—These Bonds will be convertible at the option of the holders into Common Stock of the Company at a price of $125 per share with appropriate provisions for a reduction of the conversion price in the event of an increase in the number of Common shares outstanding. The Common Stock has sold as high at $270 per share and within the past seven and one-half years has not sold below par. For the first six months of 1921 the high was $146 and the low $106 per share. Since January 1, 1913, dividends on the Common Stock have averaged in excess of 15% per annum. The present rate is 12% per annum.

PRICE 96½ AND INTEREST, TO YIELD 7.90%

Application will be made to list these Bonds and the Common Stock of the Company on the New York Stock Exchange. Delivery in temporary form is expected on or about August 1, 1921. All legal matters will be passed upon by Messrs. Beekman, Menken & Griscom, of New York.

U. S. AND BRITAIN GIVE EVIDENCES OF EASIER MONEY

BY O. A. MATHER.

Two distinct evidences of easing money and credit conditions in the two great financial countries of the world, the United States and Great Britain, were afforded yesterday. First, there was the weekly statement of the American federal reserve system, showing further improvement and the reserve position at the strongest point of the year, and, in fact, since early in 1918. This afforded ample explanation for the action of four of the reserve banks in again lowering rediscount rates, a course which the other institutions are expected to folow in the near future.

Second, there was the action of the Bank of England in again lowering its rediscount rate. The chief factor in this was cheaper money due to stagnation in trade and inflation of credits through government borrowing. The rapid easing of money and the need of assisting trade, as well as government financing, led to the reduction.

Reserves Gain at Twelve Banks.

The consolidated statement of the twelve federal reserve banks shows a moderate increase in reserves, gold imports having amounted to $13,000,000 in the last ten days, and declines in loans and federal reserve note circulation. An increase in gold reserves of $15,554,000 brought this item to a new high mark. Total reserves expanded $11,772,000. Federal reserve note circulation declined $39,220,000 to the lowest mark since August, 1919.

Loans receded $17,831,000, those on government obligations and on commercial paper declining $9,005,000 and $8,826,000, respectively. Bills bought receded $1,228,000 and total bills on hand declined $19,059,000. Holdings of treasury certificates receded $15,642,000 and total earning assets declined $35,392,000. Total deposits remained about steady, the member banks increasing their reserve credits $25,107,000, while government deposits declined $24,025,000. The ratio of total reserves to net deposit and federal reserve note liabilities combined rose to 62.5 from 61.6 per cent in the preceding week, while the ratio of gold reserves to note circulation, after setting aside 35 per cent against net deposit liabilities, rose to 80.6 from 78.9 per cent.

New York Bank's Statement.

The statement of the New York federal reserve bank shows increases in gold and total reserves of $13,059,000 and $10,625,000 respectively. Loans declined $2,993,000, being entirely the result of a recession in those secured by government obligations of $3,065,000. Bills bought declined $1,962,000 and total bills receded $4,026,000. Total earning assets declined $19,803,000, chiefly as the result of a decrease in treasury certificate holdings.

Federal reserve note circulation receded $8,947,000. Total deposits remained about steady despite a reduction in the member banks' reserve credits of $12,889,000. The ratio of total reserves to net deposit and federal reserve note liabilities combined rose to 70 from 68.7 per cent in the preceding week.

Chicago Reserve Increases.

The statement of the Chicago federal reserve bank shows increases in gold and total reserves of $9,197,000 and $7,810,000 respectively. Loans declined $10,734,000, those on government obligations and on commercial paper receding $3,523,000 and $6,911,000, respectively. Total bills declined $9,810,000 and total earning assets receded $9,882,000.

Federal reserve note circulation declined $5,516,000. Total deposits increased $4,008,000, government deposits expanding $2,481,000 and the member banks' reserve credits remaining about steady. The ratio of total reserves to net deposit and federal reserve note liabilities combined rose to 58.6 from 57.3 per cent in the preceding week.

SEN. M'CORMICK TO ADDRESS U. S. GRAIN DEALERS

United States Senator Medill McCormick has accepted an invitation to address the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Grain Dealers' National association at the Hotel Sherman Oct. 3, 4, and 5. Another speaker will be Dr. R. E. Doolittle of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture.

R. I. Mansfield, chairman of the special executive committee of the association, will lay before the convention a report on the campaign to educate farmers economically so they may avoid what are declared to be the pitfalls of coöperative schemes for marketing their products. Particular attention will be paid in Mr. Mansfield's address to a grain growers' contract that farmers are being urged to sign, which, he says, would place them in a position so any charges could be taxed against their grain for a period of six years as "cost of handling."

LATE BUYING IN GRAIN MARKETS TURNS PRICES UP

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

Good buying of grains late in the day turned a weak and declining set of markets into one with strong and advancing prices, with the close at well around the best figures. There were net gains of ⅛@¼c on wheat, except for December, which finished the same as on the previous day. Corn was unchanged to ⅛c and oats ¼@⅜c higher, while rye gained 1⅞@2c for the day.

A bearish construction was placed on the wheat news early and the selling it created in the way of liquidation and general pressure carried prices down 3¼@4c, which was all regained later on a general buying movement induced by the report of Crop Expert Snow, who said the prospects for a bumper crop in western Canada had passed and there was wheat in the Saskatchewan that might be caught by black rust. Le Count also claimed black rust might damage the late wheat. Private reports from Alberta are spotted.

Offerings Readily Absorbed.

A ready absorption of offerings after the break with especially good buying of September at $1.24 and $1.25, featured the latter trade. Seaboard exporters bought on the break and there was heavy buying of September by Jackson. A bulge of 2¼@3½c followed the break.

Seaboard exporters were after wheat here and at the gulf, but Chicago houses were unable to offer any for loading before Aug. 20 to 25, having sold around 1,000,000 bu the previous day. Bids were 3c over Chicago September free on board, buyers to furnish the boat. Some business was done with exporters and not reported. At the seaboard sales were 240,000 bu as reported, but indications are they exceeded 1,000,000 bu and late reports claimed 500,000 bu at Chicago.

The primary run the last four days aggregates 13,685,000 bu, against 7,977,000 bu for the same time last week, and 4,257,000 bu last year. Hedging pressure was enough early to offset the buying by speculators and the hedging operations are being watched.

Corn Belt in Need of Rain.

A large section of the corn belt has reached a stage where the crop needs rain and unless it comes at once the crop may deteriorate. On the whole the news was favorable. This, with the early break in wheat, depressed values more than 1c, all of which was regained in the late trading when wheat advanced. Prices at the finish were ⅝c from the top, with September at 61⅝@61¾c, and December 61⅝c.

Unfavorable reports on oats from the northwest late in the day brought enough buying by commission houses and locals to make a stronger and higher market, with an advance of 1c, the finish being the best at 41⅛@41⅜c for September.

Rye was hard to sell early and difficult to buy later. At the last prices were up 3@4¾c from the low point, with closing sales at the top.

Provision interests reported a good cash demand for lard and meats, the latter being taken for export, but no figures were given. Armour paid for 1,900,000 lbs lard and 250,000 lbs ribs. Trading speculatively was fair. Closings were 2½c higher to 5c lower for lard and 50@75c lower for ribs. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders were mixed as to the character of the late buying yesterday and its probable effect on the market today. The general assumption was that it came from seaboard exporters. A few close observers claimed it was on local account. Should the latter theory be right there might be a setback, while on the other hand many traders expect a further rally.

With soaking rains over the corn belt states, where they are greatly needed, it is believed by the trade that a record crop can be obtained. Without rains in the near future the crop is likely to be cut down. In Texas and Oklahoma a large crop has been made. How much injury has been done in the central west and west is uncertain.

Omaha received 164,000 bu corn yesterday, against 140,000 bu at Chicago. Evidently the corn there is coming from country elevators. It is said a good part of the Omaha corn will come to Chicago.

A Minneapolis grain man, discussing the light weight of the oats crop, said it will make no difference, as oats will be counted in bushels just as when they were heavier. The trade assumes the light weight, 20 to 27 lbs per measured bushel, will make a big difference and most of the buying of late has been on this theory.

The trade was circularized yesterday with a forecast signed by "W. W. B. & Co." No one knew who they are, but their prediction is for $2.75 for wheat, $1.00 for corn, and 80c for oats.

With 20,372,000 bu corn in the visible supply there is double the largest total at this time since 1909. The 9,487,000 bu held in Chicago are nearly equal to the visible supply at this period in 1918.

Wichita, Kas., reported receipts of wheat would be limited only by the car supply. Country elevators are filling up and the grain is being hedged. This brings the trade back to normal conditions when all the cash wheat held in country elevators was hedged by sales of futures, mainly in Chicago.

Postings of available elevator storage room here yesterday made a better showing than was expected. There is a fair supply of storage room. Loadings of grain into boats Wednesday were 511,000 bu corn and oats.

Flour prices dropped 25@50c per brl for spring patents yesterday.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Export sales of 180,000 to 240,000 bu wheat, 400,000 to 500,000 bu rye, 450,000 bu corn, and 40,000 bu oats were reported at the seaboard. Foreign demand for wheat was generally for small amounts.

At Chicago shipping sales were 50,000 bu wheat, partly to exporters, 150,000 bu corn, including 100,000 bu to the seaboard, 80,000 bu oats, and 2,000 bu barley. Charters were for 65,000 bu corn. Deliveries on July contracts aggregated 95,000 bu wheat, 62,000 bu corn, 10,000 bu oats, 20,000 bu rye, 1,950,000 lb lard, and 100,000 lbs ribs.

A firmer undertone was noted in the cash wheat market with the basis a trifle better as compared with the July. No. 1 red sold at ⅛@¼c and No. 2 red at ½@1c under the July, while No. 1 hard was 1@1¼c and No. 2 hard ¼@⅜c over the July. Receipts, 512 cars.

Weakness prevailed in outside winter wheat markets with St. Louis 3@5c and Omaha 2@3c lower. At Kansas City ordinary hard was 1@4c and dark hard 3@9c lower, while red was off 1@3c. Minneapolis was strong with some medium grades of springs showing as much as 15c advance with the general market unchanged to 2c higher.

Offerings of cash corn were not large with sample values uncharged to ¼c higher. No. 2 yellow and white selling at July price. Outside markets were unchanged to 2c lower, with St. Louis leading.

Cash oats were in good demand for old with No. 2 white ½c under to 1c over, and No. 3 white 1¾@2½c under July, while new No. 2 white were 1¼@2c and No. 3 white 3¾@4c under. Sample values were unchanged to ½c lower, closing stronger.

NEWS OF THE CROPS

Crop Expert B. W. Snow returned yesterday from a trip through the Canadian northwest and in a report to Bartlett-Frazier company said prospects for a bumper spring wheat crop were gone. Drought and heat have cut down the promise in Manitoba and black rust is certain to lower the quality in the sections that are good. Conditions in Saskatchewan are rather spotted, and harvest in the heavy soil districts will not commence until Aug. 10 to 15. Black rust is developing rapidly and menacing the crop. At best the Canadian crop is not likely to be much above an average.

Northwestern grain crops are very spotted, as shown by returns to the Van Dusen-Harrington company of Minneapolis. The crop has been damaged to some extent by rust, but we believe it is not as serious as reported in many instances. Some damage has been done by storms. Spring wheat will probably vary greatly in quality. Much will be shrunken and of light weight. Velvet chaff suffered more than other varieties. Yield of rye less than anticipated early. Oats and barley disappointing, the crops being reduced by adverse weather. Corn crop in the northwest should be the largest in years.

TIMOTHY HAY OFF $1

Old and new timothy hay met a fair demand, which cleaned up the bulk of the offerings. A decline of $1.00 was made in prices of old timothy, with trading at $23.00@25.00. No. 2 timothy and No. 1 clover mixed $18.00@21.00; No. 1 timothy, $16.00@19.00; sample hay, $14.00@17.00; thrashed timothy, $10.00@15.00; and new timothy, $16.00@20.00. Arrivals were 17 cars timothy, 3 cars southwestern prairie, 2 cars packing, and 3 cars wheat straw.

Prairie hay was in fair demand at $16.00@20.00 for southwestern, Nebraska, and Dakota, with Illinois $13.00@15.00 and packing at $10.00@11.00; Rye straw, $11.00@12.00; oat, $10.00@11.00; and wheat, $9.00@10.00.

PRODUCE MARKETS

The butter market in Chicago was cleaned up with 92 scores selling at ½c advance. In New York the market was weaker and prices lower. Philadelphia declined ½c while Boston was firm.

Firmness prevailed in the cheese market with business here not large. At Fon du Lac, Wis., Daisies and Young Americas advanced ½@¾c. Eastern markets were fairly active and firm.

Fresh egg prices were shaded ¾c with buyers indifferent and arrivals 6,624 cases, against 10,612 cases last year. Live hens and broilers were 2c lower, although arrivals were only 1 car and 895 coops.

Potatoes in sacks are arriving out of condition and the market for them declined 10c, while barreled stock brought previous prices. Arrivals were 77 cars.

RAILROAD NEWS

The Missouri and North Arkansas railroad's $28,000 pay roll, due July 15, was met yesterday, thus assuring operation of the road for the present. E. L. Parker, auditor for the road, declined to state where the money was obtained, except that it was not from the government or the road's bondholders. Officials of the road will meet in Harrison, Ark., today.

A voluntary reduction of 10 per cent in salaries of executive officers of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway was announced in New York yesterday. President James E. Gorman said the officers had recommended the reduction and that the board of directors had approved it. Reductions in the pay of supervisory officers to "meet the changed conditions" were ordered by the board.

Complaint of the National Wholesale Grocers' association against the practice of the railroads in permitting the meat packing companies of the country to load groceries in their peddler and branch house cars was dismissed yesterday by the interstate commerce commission on the ground that this practice had not been shown to be preferential to the packers.

The interstate commerce commission figures to hand for May covering all the class 1 railroads in the country show gross operating revenues of $444,875,000, which represents a decrease of nearly $13,000,000 from May, 1920.

Gross for May last compares with a high total—since September last—or $642,135,000 in October, 1920, and with a low of $405,785,000 in February of this year.

Gross operating revenues for the first five months of the present calendar year amount to $2,214,954,000, a decrease of $31,500,000 or 1.4 per cent, from the corresponding period of 1920.

WILL BUILD BIG HOTEL OR TAKE $20,000 PROFIT

BY AL CHASE.

"You can't lose money taking profits," is an old saying that may prevent the North Edgewater district from getting a new $500,000 apartment hotel. Andrew F. B. Klein, one of the owners of the Antiseptic Laundry company, 1000 Grace street, bought the northwest corner of Broadway and Granville avenue, 93x122 of vacant, for an indicated $45,000 about two weeks ago. The seller was the Carter estate, represented by John R. Robertson.

With the filing of the deed for record yesterday it was learned that he had two interesting plans on foot. One was to build a ten story apartment hotel, with a motor salesroom on the first floor, doctors' offices on the second, and kitchenette apartments on the remaining eight upper floors. It would cost around $500,000. No architect has yet been chosen.

Mr. Klein's other plan is to accept a $20,000 profit on the property by selling it to a big movie theater concern for $65,000. Negotiations for the corner already are under way by the film folk.

Hyde Park Boulevard Sale.

The apartment building at the southeast corner of University avenue and Hyde Park boulevard, lot 88x83, has been sold by Edward C. Smith to Berdena Cooper for an indicated $70,000 subject to $60,000.

The four story building at the northwest corner of Garfield boulevard and Wentworth avenue, lot 118x113, containing thirteen flats and five stores, has been sold by Charles H. Thorne to Frank B. Curtis for an indicated $42,500.

Arthur G. Martin has bought the fifteen apartments at the southwest corner of Haskins and Hermitage avenues, from David H. Burkland for an indicated $48,250 subject to $9,250.

Plans Twelve Bungalows.

Guy H. Wilford has bought 560 feet of vacant in Kingston avenue, 198 feet south of 74th street, west front, from John A. Kelly for an indicated $30,000, and intends to build twelve bungalows. The George W. Stewart company was broker.

Anna B. Phelps has sold to Robert I. Wall the 70x130 on the north side of Wilson avenue, thirty-five feet west of Hazel avenue, with old improvements, for an indicated $30,000, subject to an undisclosed incumbrance. She bought the property recently, for an indicated $68,000, from F. A. Anderson and others.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Redmund & Co., Brown Brothers & Co., and the National City company offered yesterday an issue of $4,000,000 Atlas Powder company fifteen year 7½ per cent convertible gold bonds at 94½, to yield 7.90 per cent. These bonds are convertible into common stock at $125 a share with provisions for a reduction of the conversion price in the event of an increase in the number of common shares outstanding. There is a sinking fund beginning Dec. 15, 1921, sufficient to retire $100,000 principal amount of bonds semi-annually by purchase at not exceeding 105 and interest, or called by lot at 105 and interest.

The Converse Rubber company will close its plant and reopen Aug. 8. Quiet business is given as the cause of the shutdown. The plant employs about 1,266 persons and has been running on a five day week for some time. It will reopen on the same schedule.

J. P. Morgan & Co. announced yesterday that all the French twenty-year 7½ per cent bonds have been sold, and the books have been closed.

Great Lakes Trust company stock was stronger yesterday, rising to 70 bid, 72 asked. One house had quoted it as low as 66 bid at the opening, a decline of about 20 points since the sale of the bank's deposits to the Central Trust company was announced. The subscription price when the bank was formed two years ago was 120.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the Union Bank of Chicago, it was decided to change the dividends from a semi-annually to a quarterly, and a 2 per cent dividend was declared, payable July 31 to stockholders of record to July 25.

Stockholders of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad yesterday authorized an increase of $45,000,000 in the company's capital stock at a special meeting. Segregation of the coal properties was also approved.

CADILLAC'S 10 BARGAINS

FIAT LIMOUSINE, 4 cylinder, 1919; show model. This is what might be termed a touring limousine. The body on this car is a very special job, built by the Kimball Company of this city. It has many desirable features, one of which is the convertible feature of turning this car from a standard limousine into what might be termed a touring limousine. It was especially built for the Automobile Show and sold to one of the most prominent families in Chicago. It has not been used a great deal and is in most excellent condition throughout. Has just been turned into us after having some work done on it at the Fiat Service Station, so you can be assured of getting an excellent car mechanically. Upholstery and paint is in most remarkable condition. It has 4 excellent balloon cord tires (2 extra), Gumpert, Westinghouse shock absorbers, clock, etc. You probably could not duplicate this car new today for less than $7,500. We are very fortunate in being able to get this car at a ridiculously low price. We are offering it to the person who appreciates good quality and low figure. Price $2,000.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 57, SEDAN. This 7-passenger Sedan is probably the most popular of any of our Sedan models. Is exceptionally roomy; yet is a short, coupled job making it cozy and comfortable on the inside, and it is not a heavy car. It is of the latest double letter series. We have made a thorough examination of this car and replaced all parts that were necessary. It has been refinished in a very high class manner throughout, which shows no evidence whatever. It is equipped with 4 new tires, one extra tire, bumper, clock, etc. If you are looking for a Cadillac Sedan that has the appearance of a new car and carries our standard guarantee at a low figure, this car will please you. Special for this sale $3,250.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 57, TOURING CAR. It is going to be very hard to describe this car in a way that it must be seen to be appreciated. We have made a thorough examination of this car and renewed what parts were necessary. It has been painted a dark Cadillac blue in our own shop. We have also recovered the top in our upholstering shop and installed all bright parts. This car has the appearance of a new automobile and will carry our standard guarantee. It has an excellent set of cord tires, one extra, bumper, clock, etc. Everything considered, this is without a question the lowest priced Cadillac that you are looking for at present. We have a used Cadillac that is all right in every respect and a real bargain; do not miss this opportunity. PRICE $2,150.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 57 VICTORIA COUPE. This is a double letter and latest of this series. Equipped with an excellent set of cord tires, one extra tire, bumper, clock, etc. Velour upholstery shows practically no wear. Paint which is dark Cadillac green is in excellent condition. This is probably one of the most popular models ever built by this company in a roomy 4 passenger coupe. Mechanical condition is perfect. We will guarantee, as we have just made a thorough inspection and replacement of worn parts. You probably will have to wait another opportunity of buying this series at this price, so you will have to act quickly. Special for this sale, $2,900.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 59, ROADSTER. This is the latest and current series and selling new today for over $4,200. This car does not look like any used automobile. Customer is exchanging for a Cadillac with larger seating capacity. Goodyear cord tires now on all four wheels has one extra and bumper. Painted standard Cadillac blue with hardly a scratch on it. This car has been used so little that it can hardly be termed a new automobile; has not been run enough to thoroughly limber up the motor. If you are looking for a really nearly new roadster at a reduced price, but still like a new automobile and carrying a new car guarantee, do not fail to see this car at once. Special for this sale, $3,250.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 57, VICTORIA COUPE. This car is painted a dark Cadillac blue, is a roomy, 4 passenger Coupe body and is equipped with an excellent set of cord tires, one extra, bumper, clock, etc. Upholstery and general coach condition of this car show practically no wear. We have made a thorough inspection in our mechanical department and replaced the worn parts. We will guarantee this car. If you want a roomy, up-to-date 4 passenger Coupe at a very low-the bargain price, do not fail to examine this car. Special for this sale $2,100.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 55 SPORT PHAETON. This model has been exceptionally popular for the last 2 years. It is one of the best looking car ever built by this Company. Mechanical condition of this car is way above the average, as the owner has always made himself of our service department and given it wonderful attention and not driven it a great number of miles. It has a complete set of cord tires, 2 extras, clock etc. This is the first opportunity that we have ever had to offer this Sport model at such a low figure and we believe it will be sold to the first man looking at it. Come early if you want to avail yourself of this bargain. Special for this sale $1,650.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 57, ROADSTER. This is the double letter series of the roadster model and practically the same body lines as our present series. Painted a dark Cadillac blue, which is in good condition. Tires are in nice shape. Mechanical condition is exceptionally good. This same model now costs over $4,200. If you are looking for a high grade roadster do not fail to see this car. Special for this sale $2,250.

PEERLESS SEDAN, MODEL 56. A roomy 5 or 7 passenger sedan that has been carefully used by the original purchaser and is in most excellent condition. Paint a special gray. Has many extras, including seat covers, bumper, spare tire and complete set of cord tires. Mechanical condition exceptionally fine. If you really want a high grade sedan do not fail to see this bargain. Special for this sale $1,100.

STUDEBAKER COUPE, 1921. This is the latest and current series and a car that has only recently been delivered. Has not been run enough to limber up the motor. Has hardly a scratch on the paint. In fact, it would be very hard to tell it from a new car. If you are looking for the latest Coupe of this make at a great reduction, do not fail to see this car. New price over $2,800. Silvertown cord tires show practically no wear. Has an extra tire, tire cover, bumper, front and rear, and other extras. Special for this sale $2,000.

PAIGE
Prices Reduced

When Bird-Sykes says "rebuilt Paige" they do not mean merely "shined up," "tightened up," and "tuned up." Rebuilt in the Bird-Sykes shop means taking apart motors, transmission, and rear axle—measuring or testing parts to determine wear — replacing worn parts with new—rebuilding—adjusting—tuning up—repainting body — refinishing top and upholstery. That is why a Bird-Sykes rebuilt Paige satisfies the eye as a new car and its performance is the same as new.

Guaranteed by Bird-Sykes.

Every rebuilt Paige is guaranteed by Bird-Sykes to be as represented and in perfect mechanical condition, and if anything turns out unsatisfactory within a reasonable time Bird-Sykes make it good without cost to the purchaser.

Easy Terms—No Brokerage Charge.

We do not ask our customers to pay the exorbitant rates charged by so-called automobile bankers in order to buy of us on deferred payments. You can buy a Bird-Sykes Rebuilt Paige on our terms, paying only ordinary bank interest rates on deferred payments.

PAIGE, 1921, MODEL 6-44. The most attractive 5 passenger car we have offered this season. This car has been used but very little. Finished in rich chocolate brown. Is specially equipped with cross arm motometer, wind wings, 5 excellent cord tires that show little wear, Victoria rear curtains. Here is an opportunity to obtain a practically new car at a very substantial saving. Price $1,650.

PAIGE COUPE, 1919, MODEL 6-55. Roomy 4 passenger car, just rebuilt and refinished a beautiful Burgundy. 6 cylinder Continental engine. Ideal all-year car for the small family. This is a model with the famous V-type, nonglare windshield. Equipped with a bumper, good cord tires, good spare tire, storm visor, lock, etc. Coach condition excellent. Priced very reasonably at $1,500.

PAIGE 6-55 TOURING CAR, 7 passenger, 1920. Rebuilt and refinished a dark blue, Continental engine. This is the roomiest car the Paige Company has ever built; has 4 inches more space in the tonneau than former models. It is an ideal vacation car; plenty of room for passengers and luggage. Equipped with 5 good tires and white wire wheels, motometer, bumper, wind wings, etc. It is very apparent that this car has had careful handling. Coach condition excellent. A similar car just a couple of months ago brought a price of over $2,000. Our reduced price, $1,650.

PAIGE SPORT, 1921, Model 6-66. Like new; just gone through our shops and refinished a beautiful mouse gray. Car has seen very little service. Top, upholstery, and general coach condition excellent. Equipped with good tires, spring bumper, motometer, lock, etc. This car has a countrywide reputation for its unsurpassed power, speed, and hill climbing ability. This powerful engine answers the slightest touch of the accelerator. See this wonderful car. This is the first 6-66 we have offered this season. Price $2,000.

INTERNAL TAX FOR 1921 PUT AT $4,000,000,000

No Sales Levy; Little Incomes Stand.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]—A program of tax legislation involving little, if any, reduction in, but a readjustment of, federal taxation began to assume definite form today at a conference of treasury officials and Republican members of the house ways and means committee. The changes, whatever are made, will apply to the taxes of the calendar year of 1921, collectable in 1922. Among the developments were the following:

SALES TAX—Republican committee members, according to Chairman Fordney, have determined definitely to abandon further thought of any sales tax, and will waste no time on the subject at the hearings scheduled for next week. The committee is favorable in general to the treasury program for tax revision.

TRANSPORTATION TAX—A proposal that this tax be reduced by 50 per cent for a period of one year and eliminated entirely thereafter was given favorable consideration.

CORPORATION INCOME TAX—Committee members approved the treasury recommendation for an increase of the corporation income tax from 10 to 15 per cent and the repeal of the present $2,000 exemptions for corporations, the additional revenue from these sources being expected to offset the loss resulting from the repeal of the excess profits tax.

INDIVIDUAL INCOME TAX—The treasury recommendation for a reduction of the higher surtaxes to about 40 per cent will be followed. It appears to be accepted as a settled fact that the present normal taxes on individual incomes cannot be reduced.

MISCELLANEOUS TAXES—Despite protests by various groups, most of these will be retained, with the exception of a few so-called "nuisance" taxes, such as that on soda water. The chief problems remaining to be worked out relate to new taxes which must be imposed to bring the total revenue up to the desired level. New taxes considered at the conference included a federal automobile license tax, an increased cigaret tax, a tax on bank checks, and other new stamp taxes.

CUSTOMS REVENUE—Joseph S. McCoy, treasury department actuary, told the conference that not more than $150,000,000 additional revenue can possibly be realized under the new Fordney tariff bill, or a total of $450,000,000, as against $300,000,000 under the Underwood law.

INTERNAL REVENUE—Treasury officials stood by their previous estimates that it will be necessary to raise approximately $4,000,000,000 by internal taxation.

The treasury officials went over their estimates as to the probable expenditures of the government as made public in a letter from Secretary Mellon to Mr. Fordney several weeks ago. It was indicated that with new demands for additional funds for the shipping board, the railroads, and other purposes, there was no possibility of reducing the necessary total to be raised from internal taxation below $4,000,000,000.

Fordney for a Sales Tax.

Mr. Fordney, in making it known that no further attention will be given the sales tax at this time, indicated that he regretted such action.

Representative Tilson asserted that he, as well as other members of the committee, felt it was useless going on with the discussion of a sales tax.

"A sales tax is not feasible until the public is fully educated on the proposition," he said. "That time has not arrived."

A federal automobile tax, it was estimated, might yield $80,000,000. A new cigaret tax might produce $20,000,000. A tax of 2 cents on bank checks would raise $45,000,000. Sentiment seems to be opposed to a tax on gasoline, which has been suggested, or to a return to 3 cent postage.

15,000 New York Car Men Accept 10 Per Cent Pay Cut

New York, July 22.—A 10 per cent reduction in wages was accepted today by 15,000 employés of the Interborough Rapid Transit company. Announcement of this action was made by Frank Hedley, president of the company, who said the new scale would go into effect next Sunday. The present wage agreement between the employés and the company had until the end of this year to run. The new agreement will extend until July 30, 1922. Mr. Hedley said the action of the employés would mean a saving of $2,600,000 annually.

Warrants Out for Banker Spurgin Today

Warrants for the arrest of Warren C. Spurgin, missing president of the Michigan Avenue Trust company bank, will be asked this morning, it is reported, by representatives of Lloyd's, who bonded him for $100,000 and have been looking for him since the bank was closed by the auditors last Thursday.

WARREN C. SPURGIN.

Numbers of depositors are also seeking Spurgin, and some of them, it is said, have made threats against him. The majority of the bank's depositors live in the 22d street district.

Grabiner Mourns $60,000.

It is said that a brother of Harry Grabiner had intrusted the bank with about $60,000, and that Johnny Torio, lightly known as "The Jew Kid," also had considerable sums on deposit.

C. A. Beutel, cashier of the bank, addressing a meeting of depositors in the Myland hotel during the afternoon, said there would be a loss of probably $700,000 and that the bank now probably would pay 65 cents on the dollar. He and a number of others wished to save the bank if possible.

George M. Reynolds, chairman of the board of directors of the Continental and Commercial National bank, an uncle of Spurgin, believes the loss to the bank will be more than $1,000,000, and may reach $1,500,000.

Seek to Avert Receiver.

There will be a meeting of stockholders today, at which Mr. Beutel and Henry Paulman, a director, will be present, and at which plans will be made to try to keep the bank out of the hands of a receiver.

The bank had close to $4,000,000 in deposits, it is said. The auditor has found $214,000 in cash and a quantity of stocks and bonds.

Mr. Beutel declares that on Wednesday of last week Mr. Spurgin sent him to New York to investigate some loans. He returned Sunday. Monday morning when he went to the vault, he says, he found a number of certificates had been taken out and replaced by others, while $15,000 in currency and $20,000 in Liberty bonds had also been replaced. He had an argument with Spurgin, he says, and then explained the situation to Mr. Reynolds.

It was learned Spurgin went to the American Discount company a week ago Wednesday, and borrowed $15,000 on his stock in the bank.

Spurgin lived at 5758 Kenwood avenue with his wife and his daughter, Vivian. Mrs. Spurgin and Vivian are said to be in Iowa at present, but this was denied by Wade Spurgin of Des Moines.

Statement by Reynolds.

"While it is true that Mr. Spurgin is a nephew of mine, I have never had any connection with or interest in that bank, and, since I have seen Mr. Spurgin only at infrequent intervals, I had no definite knowledge concerning the bank's condition until Monday, July 18, when other officers and directors of the bank called on me," said Mr. Reynolds.

"This conference was resumed again on Wednesday afternoon, the 20th, when I reached the conclusion that irregularities existed in the bank and that it was insolvent. With a view of protecting the depositors and as vice chairman of the Clearing House committee, I urged the officers of the bank to request the banking department to put a man in charge, and at the same time notified the bank examiner of the situation.

"From what I can learn, I fear it is a case of a man going wrong and doing all he should not do.

"Naturally, I am much embarrassed and deeply humiliated that a relative of mine should have betrayed his trust, but the responsibility for his conduct is entirely his. He must suffer the consequences, whatever they are."

'WE WILL HAVE FREEDOM,' IRISH CHIEF DECLARES

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

DUBLIN, July 22.—"We shall talk of freedom no more, for we shall have it," Eamonn de Valera told a huge crowd at the Dublin Mansion house that met him on his return from London tonight. To this he added only:

"This is no time for making speeches."

LONDON, July 22.—[By the Associated Press.]—The future course of the Irish negotiations seems to turn on two important points—first, whether another meeting between Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, and Eamonn de Valera can be brought about in Ireland, and, second, whether Mr. de Valera can be induced to consent to a solution of the situation through an amendment of the existing home rule act, presuming that such a solution can be worked out.

The second question appears to hinge on a desire on the part of the contending parties to hold to their ideals. Mr. Lloyd George, as a concession to the Unionist section of the coalition, wishes to save the home rule act, and Mr. de Valera and his party, on the other hand, would vastly prefer to destroy the hated "partition act."

Summon Dail Next Week.

Mr. de Valera today was acclaimed as he was returning to Dublin. He is expected to spend the week-end there in informal talks with his colleagues, and probably will summon a meeting of the Dail Eireann next week to examine the government's offer.

The convening of the Dail Eireann, it is considered here, would be an indication that the offer was regarded as the possible basis for further negotiations. The supposition is that if the draft offer is not approved by Arthur Griffith, Prof. John MacNeil, Michael Collins, and other leaders, the Dail Eireann will hardly be convened, while, if the leaders accept the draft, the sanction of the Dail Eireann is certain to follow.

Proposals Not Made Public.

Among the Sinn Feiners in London no definite development in the negotiations seems to be expected for ten days or a fortnight. The terms of the government's proposal apparently will not be announced publicly without a prior agreement between Premier Lloyd George and Mr. de Valera.

According to apparently inspired statements, however, they are of a somewhat tentative character, intended to indicate the lines on which the government considers a solution of the situation possible, provided both Ulster and the Sinn Fein are able to agree and request the government to amend the existing act.

A copy of the government's proposals was delivered to the Ulster cabinet this morning, but its delivery seems to have been merely a formality, as Mr. Lloyd George made no request for an opinion concerning the terms.

Press Not Pessimistic.

Whether Ulster would accept such a compromise as dominion home rule with reservations, even if southern Ireland did, is a matter on which there is no light at present.

While the newspapers generally show nervous anxiety, there is a lack of pessimism in their articles on the situation. It is reported unofficially that Gen. Jan C. Smuts, the South African premier, may proceed to Ireland tomorrow to continue his work as mediator.

Ulster's Viewpoint.

BELFAST, Ireland, July 22.—What may be considered a typical Ulster view of the Irish situation is given today by the Belfast News Letter.

"We are convinced," it says, "that until the government presents a definite, final decision that admits of no haggling to the Sinn Fein leaders, they will persist in demanding the impossible, even with threats, as already are being indulged in, over the possibility of the negotiations being broken off.

"They cannot be blamed for this unyielding attitude, for the fault for this lies in the government's own indetermined, feeble action."

TULSA CHIEF, LAX IN RIOTS, GUILTY OF THEFT PLOTS

Tulsa, Okla., July 22.—John A. Gustafson, suspended chief of police, tonight was found guilty by a jury of having failed to take proper precautions for public safety on the night and day of the recent race riot here, and also guilty on another count of conspiracy to free automobile thieves and collect rewards.

For the first time a woman addressed a Tulsa county jury when Mrs. Kathryne Van Leuven, assistant attorney general, took the floor to present the state's opening argument. She spent the greater part of her argument in analyzing the third count of the accusation charging the chief with conspiracy. She also charged that the chief could have disarmed the Negroes at the courthouse and could have prevented the riot, arson, and murder which followed.

"The state has never contended that any law was violated after that trouble at the courthouse," she concluded. "After those armed Negroes had started shooting and killed a white man—then those who armed themselves for the obvious purpose of protecting their lives and property violated no law. The chief neglected to do his duty and the citizens, after seeing their police fail, took matters in their own hands. No, we don't contend that they violated the law."

WILD WEST STYLE USED IN HOLDUP IN TENNESSEE

Memphis, Tenn., July 22.—Robbers held up the Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 205, running between Memphis and St. Louis, near Vandale, Ark., late tonight, forcing the express messenger to throw out the safe containing money packages and also robbing the mail car.

The robbers, said to have been five in number, all armed with rifles, piled cross-ties on the track and when the engineer slowed down they boarded the train. After the express safe, a large number of express packages, and several pouches of mail had been thrown off the cars the robbers loaded their loot into an automobile which drove up and made their escape.

No estimate of the amount of express matter and mail secured has been obtained, but the loss is believed to be heavy.

Chicago to Give Kids Street Shower Baths

Street shower baths for children of the congested districts, already in vogue in Buffalo and New York, are to be given a tryout in Chicago. Ald. Guy Guernsey and Thomas F. Byrne are at work on the scheme. The device consists of a shower made of gas pipe, which is attached to fire plugs and may be moved from one block to another. The first trial will be on St. Lawrence avenue, between Sixty-fifth and Sixty-sixth streets.

CHICAGO'S SANTA LAYS PACK DOWN

John M. Hubbard, for thirty-one years assistant postmaster of Chicago, died following an attack of acute indigestion last night at Saxton's River, Vt., his boyhood home. He was 74 years old.

JOHN M. HUBBARD.

The memory of Mr. Hubbard is enshrined in the hearts of Chicagoans because of the fact he was Chicago's official Santa Claus for many years. Poor children who wrote pathetic little letters to Kris Kringle, pleading with him to come down their chimneys with his sack of toys, always received an answer to their requests for dolls, drums or skates from Mr. Hubbard. Each year he imposed upon himself the extra duty of opening all such letters and seeing that some wealthy citizen had the children's order filled. He often was referred to as "the grand old man of the postoffice."

Solved Big Mail Problems.

John Maynard Hubbard was born in New Hampshire in 1847. He was educated in Vermont. At the age of 16 he came to Chicago and went to work for the J. V. Farwell company. In April, 1871, he was appointed a distributor in the mailing division of the postoffice. He later worked in the registry division as corresponding clerk and general superintendent of general delivery.

He organized the first station service in Chicago and evolved the scheme of city distribution.

Between 1881 and 1889 he left the mail service to serve variously as bailiff of the Criminal court, deputy sheriff, and chief clerk of the sheriff's office. In May, 1889, he was appointed assistant postmaster.

Mustered Out After 39 Years.

He served in this office until Aug. 20, 1920, when he was involuntarily mustered out of service with 149 other postal employés under the provisions of the civil service retirement act.

But the civil service law did not have any influence over Santa Claus. When the expectant days of December rolled around, Mr. Hubbard went back to his rôle of being Santa Claus to keep the smiles on little faces and the Christmas joy in tiny hearts.

"That's all this Christmas department is for: to put a smile on children's faces Christmas morning," he once said.

5 KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO ON SOUTH SIDE

Five persons were killed yesterday at 91st street and Vincennes avenue when a Baltimore and Ohio train struck an automobile. The police learned there were six persons in the auto when it left a garage in 47th street, and they are not positive in their identification, because of the condition of the bodies. The dead are:

Michael Kliman, 58th street and Union avenue.

A woman. The police could not determine whether she was Mrs. Niclas or Mrs. Kliman, but believe it was the latter.

Jennie Kliman, 5 years old.

Lily Kliman, 8 years old.

According to witnesses, the driver of the auto, who was speeding, slowed down before he came to the tracks, then "thought he could make it" and darted across. The engine stalled and the auto died on the track.

Stephania Salla, 658 Grand avenue, running from behind a street car in Milwaukee avenue near her home, was struck and killed yesterday by an auto driven by Vincent Stankus, 934 West 29th street.

2 GRANDPAS AND GRANDMAS SEEK 2 GRANDCHILDREN

The love of two sets of grandparents for their grandchildren led to the filing of a writ of habeas corpus in the Superior court yesterday to determine the right of possession. The children are Murray Demming Jr., 4 months old, and John Robert Demming, sons of Murray Demming of Lafayette, Ind. Their mother died six weeks ago.

After her death Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Demming, who formerly lived at the Blackstone hotel and are now at the Hyde Park hotel, took the children. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Watts of 8206 Cornell avenue, the grandparents on the mother's side, also desire the children, and have asked Judge Theodore Brentano for them.

Life Guard Saves Two at Thorndale Beach

D. B. Bynne, 4659 Sheridan road, rescued two persons yesterday at the Thorndale avenue beach. They are Edward Guestin, 640 Melrose street, and Mrs. J. C. McWilliams of 5154 East 60th street. Bynne, the life guard, saw the two fighting the undertow, it is said, and being washed into a deep hole. Several men bathers aided him.

13 Film Studios Close When Mechanics Strike

Los Angeles, Cal., July 22.—Thirteen motion picture studios have been affected by the strike of their mechanics against an order reducing wages. About 1,200 men are out. Most of the studios shut down, halting production until September.

U. S. Seizes 5 Liners Rented to N. Y. Firm

New York, July 22.—Five of the largest and finest steamships in the United States merchant marine, which had been chartered to the United States Mail Steamship company, were seized tonight by representatives of the United States shipping board because of an alleged violation of contract.

The seized vessels, all former German liners, are the George Washington, America, Susquehanna, President Grant, and Agamemnon.

The five steamers are valued at approximately $25,000,000 and range from 20,000 to 25,000 tons each.

Leave Officials on Board.

The shipping board representatives were accompanied by United States Attorney William Hayward and United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy. A representative of the shipping board and a deputy United States marshal were left on each ship.

Failure of the steamship company to pay rentals due since March 31, which in the aggregate up to the time of the seizures would amount to about $400,000, was given as the principal reason for the board's action by Elmer Schlesinger, its general counsel.

Announcement was also made by the shipping board that it would seize the Mount Vernon, Princess Matoika, and Pocahontas, now either on the high seas or in foreign ports.

May Cripple Company.

This will virtually put the Mail line out of business, as the company would then have only the Panhandle State and Old North State, vessels which the shipping board paid the company to operate, it was said.

"The United States Mail line has defaulted in many instances," Mr. Schlesiger said. "While the shipping board does not desire to enter the passenger and freight business, it will try to get operators for the steamers we have seized in time for them to keep their schedules, but if we are not able to do that we intend to operate the ships ourselves."

PRESIDENT PLANS CAMPING TRIP ALONG POTOMAC

Washington, D. C., July 22.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Harding will leave Washington early tomorrow morning to spend the week-end in a camp which has been pitched in the woods along the banks of the upper Potomac at a point ten miles from Hagerstown, Md.

They will be guests of Bishop Anderson of Cincinnati and Harvey S. Firestone of Akron, O., and it is expected that they will return to Washington before noon Monday. Among others who will be in the party of campers are Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford.

The camp was pitched two days ago, and with the exception of President and Mrs. Harding, the others of the party arrived there early yesterday.

Oil Tanker; Cigaret; Four Dead and Seven Injured

New York, July 22.—[United News.]—Four men were killed and seven injured today by an explosion of one of four fuel tanks on the Standard Oil tanker Ardmore, while the vessel was docked in Brooklyn. The explosion is said to have been caused by a cigaret.

CONFERS WITH GEN. DICKSON AS COURT WAITS

Judge Implies Writ Served Tuesday.

Springfield, Ill., July 23.—[Special.]—Gov. Len Small has been given three days of grace—or until next Tuesday—to surrender and give bond on the indictment which charges him with embezzling $500,000 of the state funds.

If he does not give himself up, and he has no present intention of so doing, there is every reason to believe from Judge Smith's remarks in court this afternoon that the capias for Small's arrest will be served on Tuesday.

When the attempt is made to serve the capias the governor will resist "to the uttermost"—unless he changes his mind.

Confers with Adjutant General.

Plans are being made to back this resistance with state troops, under the governor's orders. Adjt. Gen. Frank S. Dickson, in full uniform, held a long conference today with Small, at which the possibilities of calling out the militia in the present contingency were thoroughly discussed. Gen. Dickson said later that nothing definite had been decided upon as yet, and denied that any troops have been called out, or that any had been ordered to hold themselves in readiness.

The basis for the governor's resistance of arrest under the indictment, built up for him by his trio of lawyers, is that if he submitted he would be "violating the constitution and betraying the people."

They Tremble for the State.

The peril to the state that would follow the governor's submission to a trial on the embezzlement and conspiracy charges makes Gov. Small's lawyers quake with fear for our institutions.

"To incarcerate your governor," the venerable ex-Gov. Fifer told the court late this afternoon, "is a flesh wound, but to break down the institutions founded by our forefathers—that is blood poison. I don't know what may happen. When I pull aside the curtain of the future I tremble for this country."

But Judge Smith, who listened to these and other dire forebodings from the Small legal battery who appeared as "friends of the court," didn't seem to despair of the Republic or of "Illinois, Illinois."

Court States Its Mind.

When Attorney Fifer had finished, State's Attorney Mortimer stepped forward prepared to answer. Assistant State's Attorney Edward Pree also was ready to argue for the due procedure of the law. But the judge stopped them by addressing the counsel before him.

"The court certainly appreciates the advice of the amici curiæ," he said. "It has certainly been delighted and enlightened by their arguments. I think no one has been more insistent upon the due observation of the distinction for the division of governmental powers than we. There is nothing before this court to be decided just now, so no decision will be given.

"At the outset of the argument and through it all the question of the three departments of government as expressed in rules, the constitution, and laws has been a question merely of government. Another question was the power of the judiciary to compel the executive in some executive action. It is certain that the judiciary, or any other branch, has no power to coerce the executive in executive duty. He is the executive and shall determine what shall be done.

Constitution Limits Power.

"There have been constitutional provisions referred to. It must be borne in mind that the constitution of this state is limiting in power. It does not confer powers, but limits them. The legislature has the power to do anything and everything from which it is not restrained by the constitution. Whether governmental policy should restrain the action of the judiciary here is merely a question of policy.
